Protection for 100.
Texas Wants Freedom.
Fine Spanish Flier.
Air Right of Way.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE air mail brings to President Hoover a petition signed by the presidents of seven Haitian political organizations asking him to keep our marines in Haiti and supervise the presidential election coming in April.

This year, little Haiti has 100 candidates for the presidency. They are all fighting men, and their followers are fighting followers. They want the marines to stay and keep them from doing to each other things that they might do.

E. G. SENTER, running for governor in Texas, says: "I am as much opposed to the reduction of Texas to a dependency of New York City gamblers and stock brokers, as I would be to its annexation by Turkey."

And Mr. Senter is afraid that "the busy march of commerce which now exists in our Texas cities, will soon become batroosts, and our banks will be converted into subsidiaries of Wall street plungers, and our state become a mere appendage of distant landlords, unless, etc."

ALL this sounds strange to a distant conservative Eastern candidate. He wonders what it is all about, and asks himself, "Does that man in Texas really believe that the people are supposed to have anything to say about their government?"

GOING west beyond Cape Verde Isles, yesterday afternoon, Maj. Tadeo Labre-Borges, plucky Spanish flier, was on his way to Uruguay, on a non-stop flight from Spain, going 100 miles an hour—success fly with him.

BRITAIN tries to be conservative, but occasionally in a moment of excitement things go wrong even there.

A gentleman named Hatry, trying to teach his fellow citizens how to "get-rich-quick," is in court and his fellow citizens have lost $100,000,000.

W. B. MAYO, aviation engineer, says a genuine air line ought to be built with a right of way one mile wide, landing fields every 15 miles.

With such an arrangement, says he, flight would be possible and safe by night and by day, and in almost any kind of weather.

HOWEVER, long before such an air main road could be assembled and financed, pilots would probably need landing places only every 500 miles.

Many remember crossing the ocean on steamers in the last century with sails stretched, the captains not relying on steam. They don't do that any longer.

THE Wall street crash did not take all the money. A New Yorker yesterday bought a diamond for $100,000 for some deserving lady. Perhaps it was a broker, not a customer, that bought it.

If you are looking for a present, and can't think what to give, a Fifth avenue jeweler has for sale, at $750,000, a necklace of Oriental pearls, good color.

THE recipients of the $100,000 diamond and the $750,000 necklace probably will not enjoy their gifts as much as some girl in Ohio will enjoy getting a small ring with a moss agate in it.

HOW rich is this country with its growing billions of income a year? One state, New York, carries more than eighteen thousand million dollars a year. Within 20 years the income of the United States has increased by tens of billions. The earnings of the average family are almost $4,000 a year. What once would have been a comfortable fortune is now a yearly income.

IN our American specialty, crime, usually unpunished, you read, "girl found dead in cab near home."

And St. Joseph, Mich., tells of a fugitive from murder supposed to be connected with the wholesale butchery in Chicago.

The people had almost forgotten about that incident.

Half a dozen men, compelled to stand with their faces to the wall, were mowed down with machine guns, called "choppers," by racketeers that use them.

BIG business becomes always bigger and so much the better for big business and the little men.

Bigger business calls for greater ability, creates higher wages.

If the people have brains they will not allow big business to become oppressive.

And if they haven't brains, big business will teach them to think. They'll have to.

THE United States Steel Corporation will buy the Atlas Portland Cement Company, one of the biggest concerns in the United States.

United States Steel already has gigantic cement plants, but wants to grow still bigger.

Trans-Atlantic Attempt Falls Short of Goal as Aviators Crack Up in Night Landing

EXCLUSIVE

(Copyright, 1929, International News Service.)

SANTO ANTONIO, Brazil, Dec. 17. — Physically exhausted after a night alone in the Brazilian wilderness following an attempted nonstop flight from Seville, Spain, to Montevideo, Uruguay, Maj. Tadeo Larre-Borges, of Uruguay, and Lieut. Leon Challes, of France, latest conquerors of the Atlantic, arrived here in motor cars today.

Their plane, badly damaged in a forced night landing, was left in a forest of the wild Maracuja region of Rio Grande North State.

The fliers were treated for minor injuries.

Maj. Larre-Borges told the story to International News Service soon after his arrival here in an automobile sent out from Natal when word of the forced landing was received.

HAMPERED BY HEAD WINDS

Maj. Larre-Borges revealed that strong head-winds encountered during the latter part of the 4,900-mile flight and the failure of

FORNEY'S TRIAL DATE SET

District Attorney S. H. Gardner limped into his office today and announced that Al Forney, reputed racketeer, would be placed on trial the latter part of January.

Gardner, absent from duty for 10 days, because of an injured ankle, walked with aid of a cane.

The prosecutor approved the action of his subordinates in asking for a postponement of the Forney case which had been scheduled for last week. Forney is at liberty in $6,000 bail, following his surrender, after being a fugitive seven months, on charges of maintaining slot machines and being a common gambler.

Special U. S. Court Term Ordered Here

Judge R. M. Gibson today ordered a special two weeks' session of Federal Court, beginning February 3, on motion of United States Attorney Louise E. Graham. The liquor conspiracy charge against Judge John E. Berkey, of Somerset County, will be heard during the special term.

BOSTON, Dec. 17.—Three whoops and a whoopee!

The income tax cut is a reality now. The government acting as Santa Claus to its citizens shows a lovely spirit. Fine to cut our taxes and—but if Uncle Sam would tell us where and how we can get some extra income we would all be much obliged.

The tax slash coming at this time reminds me of the man who got a present of two new tires after he lost his automobile. Here in Boston the populace is enthused about the whole thing. I picked several citizens at random and am reprinting my questions and their answers. John Phillips, tinsmith—What is your reaction as to the reduction in taxes?

Answer—Go away, or I'll call a cop.

Theodore Green, riveteer—What do you think of the tax cut?

Answer—Who was hurt?

So you see.

COSTE SMASHES AIR RECORD

PARIS, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Capt. Dieudonne Coste, who recently established a new record for long-distance non-stop flying, today shattered the existing record for distance flight over a measured, close-circuited course.

The French Air Ministry announced that the record had been broken at 11:58 a. m. (3:58 a. m. Pittsburgh time).

COVERS 5,000 MILES

The Air Ministry estimated Coste had covered approximately 7,870 kilometers (about 4,910 miles) at that time. Coste flew on until 1:24, when he landed at Istres. "I believe I made about 5,100 miles," he said.

The former record for long-distance flight around a closed circuit was 7,666.6 kilometers (about 4,791 miles), established by the Italian airmen, Maj. Arturo Ferrarin and Capt. Carlo del Prete, June 2, 1928.

Capt. Coste used the same plane, the Question Mark, in which he established the straight line record by flying from Le Bourget air field almost 5,000 miles into Manchuria.

BRITON ON AFRICA FLIGHT

CRANWELL AIRDROME, Lincolnshire, England, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—A royal air force monoplane, piloted by Squadron Leader A. G. The air ministry later announced that the monoplane was 50 miles off the northwest coast of Sardinia.

Scotch Singer Weds N. Y. Tenor in Russia

MOSCOW, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—A series of Anglo-American concerts by Sergei Radomsky, New York tenor, and Marie Williams, Glasgow soprano, ended today, mid the enthusiasm of Moscow music lovers and with the marriage of the singers.

Miss Williams and Mr. Radomsky were united in the first Anglo-American marriage ceremony that has taken place under the Soviet government. They were wed in the Russian Marriage Bureau in the presence of members of the foreign colonies and music lovers.

60 ENTOMBED IN MINE BLAST

McALESTER, Okla., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Sixty miners were reported entombed in the Old Town Coal Company's mine at North McAlester, by an explosion which occurred shortly before 11 a. m. today.

Rescue crews were rushed to the mine and immediate efforts begun to free the imprisoned miners.

Officials of the mining company said 60 men went to work in the mine this morning and none had left before the explosion.

Unable to enter the mine through the opening, the rescue crews started sinking a shaft near the Old Town depot of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad. The imprisoned miners were believed in a tunnel almost under the depot.

The Bureau of Mines rescue station here recruited first aid crews from mines throughout this region and rushed them to the scene. Whether any of the miners were killed outright had not been learned.

By FRANCIS F. HEALY.
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—The snarling rattle of machine gun bullets which swept seven members of the "Bugs" Moran gang to their doom here in the famous massacre of St. Valentine's Day echoed in the corridors of the County Building here this afternoon as Coroner Herman Bundesen tested machine guns found in the St. Joseph (Mich.) home of Fred R. Burke, alias Dane, super-killer and bank robber.

As the empty shells fell from the machine guns to the flor officials examined them. On the sides of the shells was a tiny telltale line.

MARKS ON SHELLS

"The same!" murmured Deputy Commissioner of Detectives John Stege.

"The same!" echoed the Coroner.

They were the same marks found on the bullets that had taken the lives of the gangsters St. Valentine's Day, establishing almost positively that Burke's machine guns had figured in that horrible debacle, and that Burke himself probably was the killer.

Word was immediately flashed to police chiefs of the country that Burke was wanted as the leader of the band who lined the gangsters against the wall and killed them.

Burke also is described by the police as—

Real Estate Board Launches Protest, Plans to Organize Against Future Advances

City Council today raised tax rates for 1930 one mill on land and one-half mill on buildings.

Within a few minutes after the rates were fixed, leaders of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board were discussing an organization of taxpayers to defend their interests in future budget systems.

At the same time Council increased water rates—two cents for each class of the meter rates.

General objection to the increased millage as unnecessary was expressed by representatives of taxpayers.

Council's vote was the same on both proposals—five to four. Those voting in favor of the increase were Robert J. Alderdice, W. Y. English, John S. Herron, George Kambach and Harry A. Little; those opposing are Charles Anderson, James F. Malone, P. J. McArdle and Robert Garland.

KLINE MEN VOTE RAISE

Advocates of the raise are classed as supporters of Mayor Charles H. Kline, while the opponents belong to the Malone group.

The 1930 rate will be 26 mills on land and 13 mills on buildings, comparing with a levy this year of 25 mills on land and 12½ on buildings.

The water rate increase means rates will be advanced from 10 to 17 per cent, depending on the amount of water consumed.

Doll Lady Sees Banner Week; Stay Extended

By THE DOLL LADY

If the week ends as it started yesterday, it will be the most wonderful week I have ever experienced in all the time I have been giving away my marvelous singing dolls. Everywhere I went yesterday, I found throngs of little girls eagerly waiting to see me and I had a dandy little chat with every one of them.

Doll Lady

And how the eyes of all those little girls stared with blank amazement when they held the big dolls tight in their arms and heard them sing "Rock-a-Bye, Baby," recite "Little Boy Blue" and actually say that little bedtime prayer so familiar to every child. Yes, these dolls sing and speak just like human beings.

So many little girls want these dolls that I'll have to stay here much longer than I expected—much longer. In fact, I don't want to leave Pittsburgh until every little girl gets one of these wonderful dolls.

Yesterday I gave away a lot more. One went to East Carnegie. Betty Hoeferman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hoeferman, was the fortunate little girl and today she's the proudest, happiest girl in her community.

Helen Wills to Be Married Within Next 10 Days

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Helen Wills will be married in Berkeley within 10 days.

The honeymoon of the world's tennis ace and Fred S. Moody, Jr., San Francisco bond salesman, will be spent aboard a palatial new yacht, the Calatea.

Cruising to Mazatlan and other points on the Pacific coast of Mexico, the honeymooners will follow the example of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride, seeking to escape curious attention by a sea bridal trip.

Mrs. C. A. Wills, mother of "little poker face," made the announcement today.

"The marriage either will take place at our Berkeley home or at an Episcopal church here," Mrs. Wills said. "Arrangements have not been completed. It will be an unpretentious event, with only a few relatives and friends present.

"Exact date of the wedding depends somewhat on weather conditions. If the storm continues, the yacht may be sent to Los Angeles without them and they will board it there."

KLINE GROUP VOTES FOR INCREASES

mdum, was given as the principal reason for the increased levies.

The increase in the impost on real estate was voted in the face of vigorous protests by the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, Building Owners' and Managers' Association, Chamber of Commerce and others, who asserted that to impose a heavier tax burden on land and buildings would hamper the city's commercial progress.

MALONE OVERRIDDEN

It was voted, too, in the face of an earnest plea by the four opposing councilmen of the Malone group for delay until the budget could be more carefully scrutinized.

The motion to increase the tax rate was made by English and seconded by Herron.

ESTIMATES DIFFER

In the discussion that followed the appeal for delay it developed there was a difference of more than $300,000 in Mayor Charles H. Kline's and Controller Daniel Winters' estimates of the amount of cash the city would have on hand on December 31. Kline calculated there would be between $400,000 and $450,000, and Winters that there would be $89,000.

Garland suggested that if Kline was right it might be possible to avoid so high a tax as English proposed. At any rate, Garland said, Council should delay fixing the levy at least until reconciliation could be effected between Kline's and Winters' estimates.

"FIX" CHARGED

Alderdice retorted: "Breitenstein knows how to 'fix' a budget, and if he estimates the free cash at $450,000, I would rather take his word than Winters'."

This was the first intimation that H. S. Breitenstein, former city statistician, who was asked to resign by Henry Oliver Evans when the latter was Controller, had been employed by Mayor Kline in the preparation of the budget.

Breitenstein, whose duties included making an annual audit of garbage disposal contractors' books, left the controller's office after Evans had publicly charged that $1,000,000 of taxpayers' money had been improperly charged to the cost of the disposal of garbage on a cost-plus contract.

Malone also urged delay in voting on English's motion to fix the levy, saying that if Council would take the time to go over the budget page by page it might be possible to get along without a tax increase.

ANDERSON SARCASTIC

Anderson remarked that if Council could fix the 1930 levy without examining the budget in detail it could with equal consistency fix the tax rate for 1931 at this time.

After the vote was taken there was a squabble about adjourning. McArdle's motion of Monday on the salary ordinance was called up.

FOUR WALK OUT

In the meantime English and Little had left the room.

"Let's proceed to business," said President Malone, "we have a quorum."

"If that's the program, we'll see how soon there is a quorum left," announced Councilman Herron as he and Alderdice left.

Without any further action being taken on McArdle's salary ordinance, President Malone put a motion to adjourn, which carried.

Estimated expenses for 1930 total $27,533,350, or $1,927,401 more than this year's appropriations. A mill of tax was estimated to yield about $675,000.

McArdle threw a bomb into the situation at yesterday's budget session when he moved for a pay increase of 15 per cent for all employes, excepting policemen and firemen, who receive not more than $2,500 a year.

McArdle's motion also provided for the increased pay enumerated in the referendum approved by the people at the recent election, except that the chiefs and assistant chiefs of the police and fire bureaus would be excluded.

KLINE FOR HIGHER PAY

Mayor Kline has recommended the increased pay for policemen and firemen exactly as expressed in the referendum.

In a letter accompanying the budget he stated the estimates submitted to Council include a 10 per cent increase for all employes paid on the per diem basis excepting those paid the current union scale.

He stated further that the figures included "a flat increase of $120 per year to all employes whose salary is not fixed by act of assembly." The latter provision would take in those getting up to $10,000 a year.

SOME CONFUSION

However, the printed budget contains a footnote affirming the exclusion of employes whose salary is fixed by act of assembly and adds "and any whose salary is more than $7,500 per annum."

Additional protests against a tax increase were submitted to Council yesterday by A. V. Snell, general manager of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce; Wilfrid Kuhl, secretary of the Business Men's Association of the East North Side; and by William G. Emerson, of the Pleasant Hill Civic Association.

Trade and Civic Leaders Denounce Tax Boost

General denunciation of the city tax and water rate increases was voiced by real estate owners and operators, civic leaders and others today. Following are some of the comments:

J. W. CREE, Jr., president, Pittsburgh Real Estate Board—It is unfortunate that expenses could not have been cut to a place where any increase in taxes would be unnecessary.

E. F. DAUME, chairman of the Taxes and Assessment Committee of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board—I am not a Daniel, but I can see the handwriting on the wall for the Mayor and the Councilmen who voted for an increase in the tax levy. The day of retribution is not far off.

JOHN DIMLING, merchant, and Oakland real estate operator—The raising of the tax levy is an outrage. Property owners and business men have now a burden that is more than they can bear.

MRS. B. TEMPLETON SMITH, president, League of Women Voters—If there were more efficient methods in the administration of the city's affairs, it would not be necessary to raise the taxes. The results will be more serious than the placing of an additional burden on property owners. It means that industry will be driven out of the city if we continue increasing taxes and prospective new industries will be frightened away.

THOMAS LIGGETT, downtown realty operator — The time has come when real estate owners from all parts of the county must become affiliated with live real estate boards so that the taxpayers will be firmly organized. Then when it is necessary to appear before Council or the authorities at Harrisburg the men who speak for the people will represent not 500 but 500,000 citizens of Allegheny County.

ROY R. CAPPE, real estate officer of the Fidelity Title and Trust Company — It is too bad that real estate must bear an additional increase. Business conditions, in my opinion, do not warrant it.

I. LEONARD AARONSON, of the United States Realty Company—The raising of taxes at this time is detrimental to all business interests and is absolutely unnecessary. By compelling more efficiency in the management of the affairs of the city a reduction of taxes could be made. Public interest demanded a tax cut this year.

JAMES RAE, president, Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce—I have no comment to make on the tax rate at this time.

A. V. SNELL, manager, Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce—I have nothing to say.

J. W. BAMFORD, chairman of the taxation committee of the Building Owners' and Managers' Association—I am very much disappointed that Council ignored our protests and raised the millage without waiting for our reply after asking our co-operation in reducing the cost of maintaining city and county buildings. If Council refuses to co-operate with us, I see no reason why we should further co-operate with them. If the affairs of Pittsburgh continue on the down-grade, the responsibility will be directly up to those councilmen who ignore the protests of the people and raise taxes.

Old Chinese Treasures Mrs. Hoover's Letter

PEIPING, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—One of the most treasured possessions of Chuan Yuen-Tung, 76-year-old Chinese teacher, is a letter he recently received from Mrs. Herbert Hoover, to whom he gave Chinese lessons just 30 years ago, in the days when the President was a young mining engineer, and Mrs. Hoover his bride.

The letter, which arrived some time ago, acknowledged the receipt of Chuan's autographed photograph which was sent to Mrs. Hoover through James P. Howe, head of the Peiping bureau of the Associated Press.

Mrs. Hoover's letter asked about all Chuan's eight children by name, discussed various matters of interest to Chuan, and here and there, perhaps as she recalled events in Tientsin 30 years ago, brought in a Chinese word or two just to show her old teacher that she had not by any means forgotten.

Chuan was greatly excited at receiving the letter and filed it away among the family's cherished possessions.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17. — (AP.)—The bridle path Miss Elizabeth Merrill followed with William C. Booth for instructor has ended, it was learned today, in their marriage. The couple have been married since Thanksgiving.

Miss Merrill, Junior Leaguer, horsewoman and reputedly wealthy, is 22 years old. Booth, a former instructor at the Evanston Saddle Club, gave his age on the application for marriage license as 31.

HIGHER LEVIES BRING WAVE OF OBJECTIONS

Real Estate Board Called Upon to Sponsor Campaign; United Strength Needed

Protest voiced today against the action of City Council in raising the tax levy for 1930, it was indicated today, will take concrete form in the organization of taxpayers throughout the county to defend their interests in the making of future budgets.

This was the declaration of many large real estate owners when the news was flashed throughout the city at noon that the rates had been increased to 26 mills on land and 13 mills on buildings. It was the opinion of representatives of the people who had appeared at Council's hearings that they had been ignored and that the Mayor and the majority of Council had ridden roughshod over the taxpayers' protests.

PROTEST STARTER

Members of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board ,at their weekly luncheon in the Cardinal room of the William Penn Hotel, frankly stated that the action of Council had taken away their appetites.

President J. W. Cree, Jr., president of the board, refused to make a public announcement, but expressed regret that city expenses could not be kept down.

While the board refused to permit a public discussion of the tax raise from the floor, the members individually talked of little else and were a unit in declaring that the time had come when all property owners must organize in their common interest. Thomas Liggett, of Sewickley, was the spokesman for the majority of the realtors when he said:

PLAN ORGANIZATION

"Let every property owner in the county join a real estate organization and let us all pool our interests. In City Council or in Harrisburg the individual who makes a protest does not get very far when he represents only 500 people. The great body of the people must be organized. When 500,000 property owners and taxpayers in Allegheny County get behind a movement the public officials will be glad to give heed."

Councilman Robert Garland issued a long statement in which he sought to explain Pittsburgh's graded tax law and some of its perplexing peculiarities. He reached the conclusion that the average small home owner's tax has been increased four per cent from 1920 to 1930.

PENN AVE. FIRE JAMS TRAFFIC

Two firemen were injured, rush hour traffic was blocked and damage estimated at $35,000 was caused by fire today in the six-story brick building at 930-934 Penn avenue, occupied by Kolb Brothers and Hulsman Company, wholesale millinery, and the Pitt Furniture Company.

Fireman George Andrews, of Engine Company No. 3, was cut on the right thigh when struck by a falling glass as he was scaling a ladder in front of the building.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Both were treated at the scene by Dr. D. E. Sable, police and fire surgeon. Later they were taken to Mercy Hospital.

The blaze started on the third floor in a pile of millinery boxes and spread to the third floor, according to Richard L. Smith, chief engineer of the fire bureau.

Firemen ran up ladders from Penn avenue and Exchange way and battled the blaze with water and chemicals before getting it under control.

Trolley and auto traffic in Penn avenue was at a standstill for half an hour. A throng of workers en route to employment downtown were drawn to the scene.

STORES DAMAGED

Chief Smith estimated damage to the buildings and to the stock of the millinery company at $25,000. M. Olbum, owner of the Fort Pitt Furniture Company at 932-934 Penn avenue, in the same building, placed his loss from heat and smoke at $10,000.

Smoke entered the building at 928 Penn avenue, occupied by Finkelhor Brothers, clothing, and by the Royal Tex Trouser Company, firemen said, but no damage was caused.

STAY EXTENDED BY DOLL LADY

Pittsburgh. The crowd was so big that I couldn't take care of all the little girls and their mammas, so I'll be in these same locations today. I am going to keep my headquarters at Wilkinsburg and Homestead open just a few days more.

Tomorrow I am going to hold receptions at Butler, Carnegie, Brentwood and Brookline. Look for the list of locations in today's Sun-Telegraph and you'll know when and where to find me. I'll be waiting for you.

Just come and see me at any of the Doll Lady headquarters and I'll tell you how easy it is to get one of these big, exquisite, lovable dolls for yourself.

LAY AWAY YOUR DOLL

If you have already done what I have asked you to do in my letter, come in to the Doll Lady headquarters at the Sun-Telegraph office and pick out the doll you want me to save for you. I'll put her away with your name on the big box so that you will not be disappointed when you have done everything I have asked you to do.

To every little girl coming in and making a reservation, I am presenting a very pretty little souvenir—one that you will be glad to keep because it came from the Doll Lady. Hundreds of little girls came in and got their souvenirs yesterday and I am all ready to give a lot more today. Come in and pick out your dolly. Don't wait!

Watch the Sun-Telegraph for another important announcement. That's all for today! See you tomorrow!

Sheriff Posts Bond For 4-Year Term

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 17.—James White, sheriff-elect, posted bond of $15,000 under which he will serve during the coming four years.

Girl Novice, 16, Scores in Emergency Role as Star

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Perhaps not stranger than fiction, but certainly strange to the ways of the Broadway stage is the story of 16-year-old Margaret Perry, who became an actress overnight.

Margaret, who never had been on the stage before, stepped into the leading role of Isabel Parry in "Strictly Dishonorable" last night when Muriel Kirkland suddenly became ill. Despite only one rehearsal she scored a success.

But then, Margaret had the advantage of being a daughter of Antoinette Perry, and Antoinette a generation or so ago was one of the leading actresses on Broadway. She is staging the piece in which her daughter made her unexpected debut.

Antoinette Perry, a granddaughter of former Senator Charles M. Hall, one of Colorado's pioneers, left the stage at the height of her career to marry Frank Fruenuff, wealthy oil man. Upon his death she returned to the stage after an absence of 15 years and won back prestige.

WIFE QUIZZED IN SHOOTING OF MATE

Shotgun Found Hidden in Blankets After Victim Succumbs from Wound

URICHSVILLE, O., Dec. 17.—Local police and county authorities today were questioning Mrs. Mary Jones, 42, of 454 East Fourth street, in hope of shedding light on the mystery surrounding the death of her husband, Cloyse D. Jones, 42, found fatally wounded in his home yesterday.

Jones, a storekeeper at the Pennsylvania Railroad commissary at Dennison, was found by his wife yesterday, lying on the bathroom floor, his left side torn by the discharge of a shotgun. Neighbors summoned by the wife gave first aid, but the husband died a short time later.

FIND HIDDEN GUN

An investigation was started by Coroner J. F. Lewis. Police Chief K. D. Miller returned to the Jones home and a search revealed a single barreled shotgun, containing an empty shell. The gun, wrapped in three heavy blankets, was found in a clothes press in the wife's bedroom, Chief Miller said.

The woman stated, police say, that she found the gun beside her wounded husband.

"I hid it to keep the publicity of suicide from my home," she said.

However, Coroner Lewis is not ready to accept the suicide story, he said early today.

A short time after the gun was found, a policeman found a note, in a book on the dining room table. The note, which Mrs. Jones admitted writing, police say, was addressed to Freda Shuss, a niece who lived with the couple. The niece, police say, had been told several days ago to look for the note.

SEEK MYSTERY WOMEN

The note read as follows:

"I am going to leave. Don't worry over me. Look for a good home for yourself. I have worked hard to have everything, but I am going away. Don't worry at all, and don't try to see me any more. Goodby to you."

The authorities are seeking to identify two women who drove to the Jones home a short time before the shooting. One of the women got out of the machine, neighbors say, and went into the house. She came out a moment later, followed by Jones, who called to her as she stepped into the machine.

Arnold Girl Dies From Poison Dose

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Sophia Zajdel, 16, of Arnold, died at a hospital last night after having taken poison. The girl did not tell relatives what she had done until several hours after she had swallowed the poison.

M'KEESPORT POLICE CHORUS DENIAL OF GRAFT IN RUM

JURY HEARS FORMER CHIEF

Brennan, one of the 21 defendants on trial, told of Friedman, star government witness, coming to his home in Cleveland street, McKeesport, in 1926.

"He complained that Lieut. James H. Gray had raided a speakeasy and had kicked him off his porch," testified Brennan.

"I would have done the same if my leg had not been broken," said Brennan.

DENIES TAKING GRAFT

Brennan made a detailed denial of Friedman's testimony that he had paid Brennan and his subordinates bootleg graft.

"I suspected Friedman was a bootlegger but never spoke to him more than four or five times," Brennan testified.

Brennan denied Friedman had ever visited him at his cottage in Ligonier, as Friedman had testified. A photograph of the cottage, a one-story frame building, was introduced in evidence by the defense.

"NO PROTECTION"

He also denied receiving $150 to $500 a week from Friedman, receiving license plates of trucks to be protected, or of placing "protecting" policemen on the Fifteenth Street Bridge.

Brennan testified he had lived in McKeesport since 1892. He joined the police force 28 years ago, rising from patrolman to chief in 1922. He resigned in November, 1928.

On cross-examination, Brennan told of receiving $3,000 accident insurance when his leg was broken and of buying a house, selling it and later purchasing another.

Burgess W. O. Kenendy, of Versailles, testified that Bergstedt had a good reputation for honesty.

Joining today in the general denial of Friedman's charges were Brennan's subordinates, including former Motorcycle Patrolmen Albert Rasp and John Morton, Fred Kreiling, formerly desk sergeant, and Martin Manning, a detective.

Yesterday Motorcycle Patrolmen Fred Lux, Dudley Prosser and Leo P. Vennebush entered denials of bootleg graft charges.

ACQUITTAL ORDER DENIED

Before the defense started Judge Gibson denied motions of defense attorneys to give binding instructions of acquittal for Nathan Friedman, a brother of Charles Friedman; Sam Crown, Ben Frank and Louis Davidson, who, according to government witnesses, were involved in bootleg activities in the McKeesport district.

The government closed its case after calling 35 witnesses, with Friedman and Harry Markoss each being recalled to the witness stand several times by First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh, who has charge of the prosecution. The trial started last Tuesday. At the counsel table with Attorney Marsh were United States Attorney Louis E. Graham and William Marshall, special investigator for the prohibition department who conducted the investigation that led to the grand jury probe.

House Committee Approves Haiti Quiz

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee today approved the revised Porter resolution to auhorize the President to appoint a commission of seven to investigate conditions in Haiti and report within six months. The original resolution, supported by Under-Secretary of State Cotton, merely provided for a commission to "study and review the United States policies in Haiti."

The measure approved today specified a commission of seven members to "study and review condition in Haiti and the policies of the United States in that republic."

To Wed Again

HELENE COSTELLO

FILM PLAYERS TO MARRY

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Helene Costello, daughter of Maurice Costello and sister of Mrs. John Barrymore, and Lowell Sherman, motion picture actor, will be married during the latter part of March and will spend a honeymoon abroad.

Announcement of the engagement and the tentative wedding date was made yesterday by Miss Costello, screen player. The wedding will culminate a romance of many months in the film colony.

"It will be a very quiet affair, with only Mr. and Mrs. Barrymore and a few intimate friends present," Miss Costello said. "At present we do not plan a church wedding, nor have we any plans as to who will stand up with us."

Miss Costello is the former wife of John Y. Regan, member of a prominent New York family. Her divorce became final a short time ago. Sherman is the former husband of Pauline Garon, film actress.

Miss Costello is a former Pittsburgher. The Costellos lived in Soho many years ago, when Maurice was the matinee idol.

JURY IN 'GHOST' MURDER TRIAL COMPLETED

Girl to Describe Killing While Man Claiming to Be 'Victim' Will Make Denial

By C. H. RUDEEN
International News Service.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark., Dec. 17.—The jury to try the five men charged with the murder of Connie Franklin, Ozark woodcutter, was completed here today before a courtroom crowded with mountaineers.

Nine men had been chosen yesterday to act as jurors in the murder trial. Today one of the nine men was excused and four were selected. It took a panel of 70 men to complete the jury.

GIRL TO TESTIFY

The first person to take the stand today was C. W. Garrison, state health officer. His testimony proved for the state that charred bones, found near the scene of the alleged burning of Franklin, were human.

Tiller Ruminer, 16-year-old sweetheart of Connie Franklin, will testify this afternoon. She will give her account of the murder of Franklin, which she says she was forced to witness. The defendants will attempt to prove that her story is a "frame-up," that the murder never happened, and that Franklin is alive.

The mountaineers, ushered into the stuffy little courtroom in manacles, are accused of first mutilating Franklin and then, thinking him dead, placed his body on a funeral pyre.

'VICTIM' TO TAKE STAND

But the defense will produce as its principal witness in waiting a man they say is Franklin.

More than 40 persons who knew the Franklin of other days will say this is the same man, the defense adds. In addition, the defense showed in an examination by a dentist yesterday that their man is the same Franklin who was once an inmate of the state hospital for nervous diseases at Little Rock, Ark., and that this man has the same handwriting of the Franklin who wrote a letter to the hospital from this region last winter.

However that may be, the grand jury which returned the indictments against the five men and Hugh Williamson, prosecutor, contend that the man is an impostor.

MOTHER CLAIMS SON

Mrs. Lily Baker came here last night from Clarendon, Ark., and embraced the son whom she had not seen since last Christmas. She said his correct name was Marion Franklin Rogers, her child by a former marriage, and she identified him as the "M. Franklin" who escaped in 1927 from the state hospital.

She said he was married and had three children, but had been separated from his wife for five years.

The Franklin the state contends was slain has not been established as a former inmate of the hospital.

Though five men are charged with the "torture" murder of Franklin, only four are being tried. They are Herman Greenway, Hubert Hester, Bill Younger and Joe White. The fifth, Alex Fulks, is named in a separate indictment.

The star witnesses for the state, Tiller Ruminer, 16-year-old mountain girl, who was to have married Franklin the night he allegedly was slain, and Reuben Harrell, deaf mute youth, who has said he witnessed at least a part of the reported crime, made no public appearance during the first day of the trial. They have been staying at the home of Sheriff and Mrs. Sam Johnson for several days.

LEAGUE COURT BIG ISSUE IN CAMPAIGN

30 U. S. Senators Who Seek Re-Election Must Take Stand on Vital Subject

By FRASER EDWARDS,
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Some 30-odd senatorial candidates for re-election have awakened with a shock to find the Permanent Court of International Justice of the League of Nations an active and vital issue in the coming campaign.

This issue was stirred by former Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, who denounced the Root formula to take the United States into the League Court in his "Dear Bill" letter to Senator Borah, of Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

JOLT FOR DENEEN

The issue created interest particularly in the case of Senator Charles S. Deneen, of Illinois, who comes up for renomination in the April primary in his state. It was heightened by the announcement that the new "Big Three" in Cook County Republican politics have turned thumbs down on the League Court.

This is accepted in senatorial circles as meaning that former Attorney General Edward J. Brundage, Charles V. Barrett, of the Board of Review, and Bernard W. Snow, municipal bailiff, will oppose Deneen and support Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, who is opposed to the Court.

In view of the fact that the late Senator William B. McKinley, of Illinois, was defeated for renomination by Frank L. Smith in 1926 on the so-called World Court issue, the pronouncement of the "Big Three" in Cook County presages a desperate fight ahead of Deneen, who voted for the Court when it was before the Senate.

ISSUE AWAKENED

The Pepper "Dear Bill" letter served to bring the issue of the League Court squarely before the Senate and caused former Pro-Court senators to prick up their ears and put them to the ground. For the issue has been sleeping, blanketed by the tariff fight.

Even the Anti-League of Nations and Anti-League Court senators have been slow to comment on the formula cooked up by Elihu Root and Sir Cecil Hurst to get the United States into the Court and eventually into the League of Nations because they have been immersed in the tariff tangle.

But the shot fired by Pepper is sure to drive senators into one camp or another. They must declare themselves for or against the League Court and in so doing they will be slow to take a position which will bring down upon their heads the Anti-League sentiment of the country.

DODGE QUESTION

Up until now, senators have refrained from going into the question to show the League of Nations' overlordship of the League Court and the misleading arguments advanced in the attempt to show the so-called World Court is independent of the League.

As one prominent Anti-League senator pointed out, the Court is the creature of the League of Nations, created under the League covenant. Its judges are elected and paid by the League. The Court is bound to give advisory opinion to the League, which is a matter of vital interest to the United States.

Senate reservation No. 5 provided that the Court should not give any advisory opinion to the League in any matter in which the United States had or claimed an interest.

This point was brought out in clear fashion in the Pepper letter, in which he pointed out that the only redress of the United States, under the Root-Hurst formula, was withdrawal from the Court if it assumed jurisdiction over matters in which the United States had or claimed an interest. He said:

"I am utterly at a loss to understand how any person of experience can seriously advocate an international arrangement which substitutes the remedy of withdrawal from the Court after the mischief has been done for the salutary provision which prevents the mischief from arising."

A still-mounting toll of four lives and many injuries resulted from this fire, the most disastrous and spectacular Baltimore ever had. The blaze raged for many hours.

SHIP GROUNDED TO SAVE CREW

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The coast guard cutter Snohomish left here today for the Fuca Pillars, near Cape Flattery, where the abandoned steam schooner Skagway, purposely run aground so the crew might escape, was left yesterday to be destroyed by flames or by the pounding of the seas.

Capt. E. Strandquist, who was persuaded to leave the flaming ship only after it had been given up as a total loss, and other members of the crew, 26 in all, were brought here last night on the Snohomish. Chief Engineer Cumerford, who was suffering from exposure, was the only member of the crew with ill effects from the experience.

Fire started on the Skagway, which was heading for Seattle from San Francisco, early yesterday. It had a cargo of gasoline, oil and alcohol. Smoke from the hold prevented the crew from fighting the fire or determining the cause. Water was let into the hold, and this made the ship unmanageable.

Wheeling Faces Sunday Movie Battle

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 17.—With announcement by the leading theater operators that all show houses in the city would stage Sunday shows, starting December 21, the Ministerial Association called a special meeting for Tuesday evening to launch an opposition drive.

The decision to open on Sunday followed a referendum on the part of the patrons, which showed 90 per cent in favor of Sunday shows.

MORROW O. K.'S SENATE JOB

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, announced here today that he would accept the appointment of the United States Senate offered him by Gov. Morgan F. Larson, of New Jersey, and that he would be a candidate for the regular term next year.

Morrow will assume his senatorial duties upon the conclusion of the London naval conference, to which he is a delegate, and after winding up his affairs in Mexico.

FIRE SWEEPS DEATH RUINS

BALTIMORE, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Smoldering ruins of the Thomas H. O'Connor Paper Company, where four women lost their lives and 15 others were badly injured yesterday, flared up in two different places today, necessitating the sounding of more alarms for apparatus.

Today's arrival of the apparatus was not met with the confusion of yesterday when the 100 employes, most of them married women working for extra Christmas money, shrieked from the flame-swept fire escapes, some of them jumping to the street only to miss the life-nets.

Three of the victims died from burns. The fourth was killed when she jumped to the street.

Two other employes, Miss Margaret Crist and Mrs. Nellie Johnson, who tried to jump into the safety-nets but fell to the street, were dying today. They suffered broken backs, legs and internal injuries.

Four separate investigations were being made today to determine the cause of the fire and why the fire escapes were not available to those trapped within. Fire department officials declared, however, the plant had passed frequent inspections.

Black Cat Turns White After Sea Rescue

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—A black cat that had turned white from fright, according to the crew of the Lowestoft fishing vessel "Gladys," was among the survivors of the boat landed at Grimsby after being rescued during the recent terrible storms in the channel and sea.

The crew abandoned the "Gladys" off the German coast on Friday, and their mascot shared all their terrifying experiences.

The story of the cat's color transformation found credence with the superintendent of the London People's Dispensary for Sick Animals.

"We often have animals here that turn strange colors as a result of their experiences. Men go white with fright as we all know, and the same is true of animals."

TAX CUT AIDS CHRISTMAS BUYING

Hoover Approves New Income Rates as Publisher Tells Of Sound Trade Basis

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—President Hoover has signed the $160,000,000 tax reduction bill, the first law of the present Congress and the nation's Christmas gift to the people.

The President affixed his signature to the measure as a matter of office routine. Neither of the authors of the bill nor government officials were present.

Just before signing the bill the President held a long conference with 150 editors and publishers of technical and trade publications who called to tell him that the basic industries are on a sound footing and that business, if anything, is better. They believed the tax reduction to be of great benefit, they told him.

AID TO SANTA

The Department of Commerce informed the President that the tax reduction should prove a tremendous boon to Christmas shopping, which already is ahead of the previous year. Just that much more can be diverted to increase the purchasing power of the public, Secretary of Commerce Lamont, who was in the conference, said.

The tax reduction applies to all individual and corporation income taxes to be paid on incomes earned during 1929, the first payments of which are due on March 15, 1930.

REDUCTION RATE

A statement prepared by the Treasury shows the rates of income made under the old tax law, under the new law, and the amount of the reductions, as follows:

Net Income	Present Rate	New Rate	Reduction
$ 4,000	$ 5.63	$ 1.88	$ 3.75
5,000	16.88	5.63	11.25
6,000	30.00	10.00	20.00
7,000	43.13	14.38	28.75
8,000	72.75	26.25	37.50
9,000	91.88	45.63	46.25
10,000	120.00	65.00	55.55
11,000	156.25	92.50	67.50
12,000	202.50	130.00	72.50
13,000	258.75	177.50	81.25
14,000	315.00	225.00	90.00
15,000	381.25	282.50	98.75

The figures were based upon the net income of a married man with no dependents. Net income up to $5,000 is considered as earned income, and over $5,000 half of the net income is considered as earned income.

GRUNDY OUSTER VOTE DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—A final decision on the right of Senator Joseph R. Grundy, the so-called "granddaddy of all lobbyists," to remain in the Senate on an appointment by Gov. John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania, was postponed today until after the Christmas holidays.

The Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, meeting to act on the Nye resolution, which would declare Grundy "not entitled to retain his seat," postponed a verdict until its first meeting in the new year. Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, its author, however, announced he would force a vote in the Senate itself then, before abandoning his fight to bar Grundy.

The Pennsylvanian's appointment was attacked on the ground that Fisher was nominated for governor of Pennsylvania by the expenditure of $1,800,000 and that Grundy contributed $400,000 to this fund.

Missing 'Financier' Found in Sanitarium

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The Kansas City Star says today that George E. Huckins, 38, who with his father, Elmer E. Huckins, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., is alleged to have obtained approximately $3,000,000 from Middle Western investors on promises of high interest rates, is a patient at an Excelsior Springs, Mo., sanitarium.

Huckins, who suffered a nervous breakdown, arrived in care of a nurse and had $10,000 in currency in his possession.

Fashion League Formed To Advise on Dress

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The Fashion League, devised to protect American women from unwelcome fashions and growing out of the controversy over the long skirt, was organized here by 10 society women.

These 10, with 10 others to be invited to membership, will form the board of directors of an auxiliary organization to be known as the "Fashion of the Month Club."

This club will publish a magazine bearing its name that will inform women of the best and newest modes as determined by the group of 20.

Mrs. L. Gordon Hammersley was elected president of the Fashion League; Mrs. Vanderbilt Church and Mrs. Willis Gemmill Mitchell were named vice presidents, and Mrs. Tiffany Saportas became treasurer.

The hope of the league is to get 10,000 members into the "Fashion of the Month Club," which will function as some of the book clubs, and to devote the income, after expenses are deducted, to charity.

Reunited With Prince, Pola Calls Friday, 13th, Lucky

PARIS, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Pola Negri, American movie star, has decided Friday the thirteenth is her lucky day.

"We were separated eight months, but never separated in our hearts," she said today regarding her reconciliation with her husband, Prince Serge Mdvani, of Russia.

"We couldn't get along without one another until we met in a divorce reconciliation court Friday the thirteenth. I am not superstitious, but it was a lucky day for both of us."

The prince interrupted her. "the judge asked me, 'Do you really love her?' I answered, 'yes'."

Pola added: "I answered exactly the same."

"After eight months separation my husband decided to let me follow my career. I do about two pictures a year and will devote the rest of my time to my family life. We are going to celebrate our second honeymoon at St. Morita and live happily ever after."

DOT KING CLUES FAIL TO STIR N. Y. POLICE

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—[illegible] York police, seemingly [illegible], were waiting [illegible] copies of affidavits from [illegible] ington, before taking any steps toward the reopening of the investigation into the mysterious murder of "Dot" King, Broadway butterfly, who was strangled in her luxuriously furnished apartment here six years ago.

Hints of live clues emanating from the reopened Washington inquiry into the death of Mrs. Aurelia Fischer Dreyfus, attractive divorcee and former friend of Miss King, have failed to create undue agitation on the part of the police who long since listed the King strangling "unsolved."

So far as known, no detectives have been dispatched to Washington to check up on the Dreyfus investigation.

ALIBI ATTACKED

It was reported in Washington that copies of important affidavits made by members of Mrs. Dreyfus' family were being prepared for forwarding to the New York authorities.

The affidavits, it is understood, assert that in a dying declaration Mrs. Dreyfus repudiated her statements made in 1923 in connection with those of Edward J. McBrian, New York broker, which established the alibi of Albert E. Guimares, gigolo, when he was questioned in connection with the King girl's death.

GUIMARES MISSING

When questioned in 1923 about the "Dot" King case, Mrs. Dreyfus and her intimate friend, McBrian, declared that Guimares had eaten breakfast with them in a hotel room on the morning after "Dot" was slain. This statement helped support Guimares' alibi. Guimares was Miss King's sweetheart.

The whereabouts of Guimares today is a mystery. After he was absolved of any connection with the slaying, he became mixed up in a stock scheme and was sentenced to Atlanta for using the mails to defraud. After his release from Atlanta, he disappeared.

McBrian was said to have been in New York a few days ago. His present whereabouts are not known. It was McBrian who last October stood beside the beautiful Mrs. Dreyfus shortly before she plunged to her death from a balcony at the exclusive Potomac Club in Washington. The coroner's verdict was that her death was accidental.

MURDER INTIMATED

The affidavits that have caused a re-opening of the Dreyfus investigation in Washington were made by the dead girl's mother, Mrs. Frederick Fischer and her daughter, Mrs. Elsa Knorr. They charged McBrian had been abusive toward Aurelia. They intimated she may have been murdered.

Mrs. Dreyfus first met McBrian by chance on Broadway not long before "Dot" King was slain. She was friendly with McBrian, while she was engaged to Herbert M. [illegible], wealthy New York architect and artist. Subsequently Dreyfus divorced her.

It was just prior to her marriage in 1923 that she and McBrian became intimate with "Dot" King and Guimares. McBrian and Guimares took a room together at the Embassy Hotel.

CHARGES ASSAILED

When Miss King was found murdered in his apartment, it was the testimony of McBrian and Mrs. Dreyfus that secured his freedom.

McBrian's New York attorney has declared that any statements Mrs. Dreyfus made after she was picked up with a broken neck and fractured skull are worthless, as she was irrational and only semi-conscious.

Whether or not McBrian will be asked to returned to Washington for further questioning in connection with the death of Mrs. Dreyfus was problematical today.

GANG KILLINGS TRACED

REWARDS OF $100,000

Since his latest known killing, that of a motorcycle policeman at St. Joseph, Burke declared the most desperate criminal alive today has been swallowed up by the haunts of gangland and no trace of the man has been found since last Saturday, although his description has been broadcast to all sections of the country, with word to get him dead or alive, and rewards of $100,000 spurring on the search.

Thus far police have only the woman with whom Burke lived under the name of Dane, posing as a successful retired business man at St. Joseph; $319,850 in stolen bank securities, an arsenal of machine guns and ammunition which police believe were used in the mascacre of Moran's men; 200 well-thumbed detective stories; fragmentary details of the man's life and scores of witnesses ready to identify him as the criminal responsible for dozens of major crimes.

CRIME FICTION OUTDONE

Stranger than fiction and more horrible than the murder intrigues of Medieval times has been the life of Burke, according to police investigations. Graduated from "Egan's Rats," an education noteworthy in criminal annals, Burke went further and organized his own group of murderers and bank robbers. Murder, it would appear from his records, was an incidental step in his undertakings.

His false step came when he risked his life and operations, and perhaps the life of his fellow gangsters, rather than pay $5 for a minor traffic accident in St. Joseph, an accident which resulted in the death of Policeman Charles Skelly, shot to death when he remonstrated with the gangster on the street.

Burke long has been connected by rumors with rum smuggling at Detroit, running of liquor into Chicago, hijacking of liquor and alcohol, bribery and alleged political corruption and the crimes previously mentioned.

PICTURES IDENTIFIED

Witnesses here identified pictures of Burke as one of two men (the other said to be James Ray or Gus Winkler) who posed as policemen to line up the Moran gang in a garage and mow them down like animals. Only the cunning of a super-criminal would conceive that angle—the police uniforms, Commissioner Stege points out. The Moran gang, contemptuous of police, would willingly line up to be searched for weapons, but would have fought like rats had they known the "policemen" were rival gangsters.

Of the murder of Frankie Uale in Brooklyn, many theories present themselves to detectives. Possibly the best theory is that Uale harbored a desire to "muscle in" on Chicago gangsters and that his murder "nipped him in the bud."

As a bank robber, Burke has been identified by a score of witnesses. Peru (Ind.) officials have identified his picture as the leade of the smooth-working gang which invaded and with superlative daring made off with $50,000 from the First National Bank. The same evidence connects him with bank robberies at Louisville and Lexington, Ky., and at Jefferson, Wis.

ACQUITTED OF ROBBERY

When actually in custody in St. Louis, charged at his trial with a mail truck robbery, a jury acquitted him, much to the disgust of the presiding judge, who scored the jury vigorously for releasing into the community a man whom he described as "one of the most infamous convicts in the United States."

Of late, like "Scarface Al" Capone and Frankie Lake and Terry Druggan, Burke, who had "made his pile," wished to emulate his successors and set himself up in St. Joseph as a model citizen. He called upon the sick and ailing, went to church, attended booster banquets and tried to pose as a retired business man.

But in his home he had a machine gun nest, a half million dollars in stolen bonds, a woman not his wife with whom he lived and believed by policemen to be a criminal herself.

Of his henchmen police know little, probably because so little has been known in the last few months of the master himself and his operations.

Air Records Mark Wright Flight Anniversary

International News Service.

With record-breaking flights completed or underway in various parts of the world, aviation paused for a moment today to remember that it is the twenty-sixth anniversary of man's first conquest of the skies in a heavier-than-air craft.

On December 17, 1903, two unknown mechanics of Dayton, O., Wilbur and Orville Wright by name, astounded the scientific world by taking a crude airplane off the sand dunes of Kitty Hawk, N. C., and flying it through the air.

MINER UNION'S OFFICES RAIDED

BENTON, Ill., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Under instructions from Sheriff Pritchard, two deputies today raided the offices at West Frankfort, Ill., of Henry Corbishley, state secretary of the striking National Miners' Union. They seized a small printing press, a filing system, shorthand notes and books and correspondence of the union.

Sheriff Pritchard did not explain the reason for the raid, but Corbishley is under heavy bond on a charge of inciting riot in connection with the coal mine strike. Recently, Corbishley issued a statement attacking Pritchard and other officers for using "gangsters' tactics" in attempting to break up the strike.

STRIKE WANES

TAYLORSVILLE, Ill., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—With miners at five out of the six Christian County mines either working or ready to return to their picks, the present strike of the National Miners' Union in the Taylorville field appeared dwindling today. This despite statements of Pat Toohey, of Pittsburgh, secretary of the National Miners' Union, that the strike would continue throughout the state in a more intensified form.

Last night members of Local No. 3473, United Mine Workers of America, employed at Peabody Mine No. 9, voted 96 to 55 to return to work today after a committee of four, headed by the local president, Joseph Fontana, had come to terms with the company.

TWO, ARRESTED, SUE HOEY

AUTO RESOLD

Hoey charged that Schwartz had bought a stolen car and resold it.

HOEY CALLED 'TOOL'

Hoey charges the policemen with personal use of a stolen car which had been towed to the Sable garage as an abandoned car. In Wolfe's garage, according to Hoey, there was a stolen car on which a new series number had been stamped.

Following his arrest, Schwartz made this statement: "I bought this car at an auction sale ordered by the courts. Hoey is nothing more than a tool for State Senator James J. Coyne, who is trying to embarrass Mayor Kline before Kline takes office for a second term. I am a 100 per cent Kline man."

Boy Admits Killing Brother and Sister

KINGSTON, N. Y., Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Lawrence Wilbur, 16, confessed to the authorities here today he had shot and killed his brother, Daniel, 3, and sister, Lulu, 6, at their home in Sight Hollow, a mountain fastness a few miles from the artist colony at Woodstock, Ulster County.

The boy at first accused his father, Eugene Wilbur, 43, of committing the crime.

$50,000 Asked for Youghiogheny River

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—A bill authorizing $50,000 for a survey of the Youghiogheny River between West Newton and Connellsville, Pa., was introduced in the House today by Representative Kendall (Rep.) of Pennsylvania.

PILOTS TELL OWN STORY

their wireless necessitated the forced landing.

"Our flight passed to and from alternating good and bad moments," he said.

"Sometimes we struck headwinds and at other times we flew at terrific speed unhampered by currents of any kind.

"The first 12 hours of the flight after leaving Seville were generally good. Up until the time we passed the Cape Verde Islands, we had encountered no real difficulties with the exception of extreme heat, caused partly by general weather conditions and partly by our engine.

"After passing the islands, conditions were not so favorable."

GAS SUPPLY RUNS SHORT

"To begin with, we met severe head winds which obliged us to consume more fuel than we had expected to. The plane acted magnificently under these adverse conditions, but the winds cut down our gasoline supply to a serious degree.

"About 4 p. m. yesterday, we found that the consistent headwinds had caused us to lose our bearings, and Lieut. Challes and I decided to head for the nearest point of land and ask directions. We also hoped to find a more favorable wind.

"Both of us were extremely tired. We finally struck land, and headed our plane toward Recife. We were still somewhat puzzled over our course and when the tropic night descended suddenly, our position became extremely hazardous.

"At that moment we found our radio useless. Just what caused its breakdown I do not know, but there we were, flying over a wild territory unfamiliar to us, and utterly unable to get our bearings.

"The strenuous struggle of the last few hours had tired us so completely that we decided not to take any further risks, and to come down at the first suitable landing place.

INJURIES SLIGHT

"We flew low in order to find a smooth place for a landing, but the night was so dark it was almost impossible to see anything. But our decision had been made, and down we came.

"The plane landed with a terrible jolt and turned almost completely over. Lieut. Challes and I were badly shocked, and for a moment I had grave fears for my valiant companion, who seemed to be pinned in a bad position in the plane.

"I found my injuries only superficial, so I immediately ran to Challes' aid, and was overjoyed to find that he had only suffered a slight cut over his right eye. Both of us quickly recovered and immediately set about the task of finding where we were and reaching civilization.

"The plane, I fear, is totally destroyed. We made no attempt to repair it, but set out in different directions looking for sight of habitation, but keeping within easy call of each other.

"We were finally found in the early morning hours and reached Santo Antonio, where everyone has done everything in the world for us."

NATAL TO HAIL PAIR

The fliers are expected to proceed to Natal today, where an enthusiastic reception awaits them.

Although the fliers failed of their purpose to make a non-stop 6,000-mile hop to the capital of Uruguay, they achieved the sixth successful crossing of the South Atlantic and covered a distance of approximately 3,600 miles.

The village at which the fliers landed is quite close to Touros, which is the point at which Capt. Arturo Ferrarin and his companion, Maj. Carlo del Prete, landed in June, 1928, when they established a new world's flight distance record recently broken by Capt. Dieudonne Coste, the noted French airman, on a flight from France to China.

Christmas Author's Home May Be Saved

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Razing of the house which inspired the poem beginning "'Twas the Night Before Christmas," threatened for subway purposes, may be averted. In the house at Elmhurst, Long Island, Prof. Clement Clarke Moore wrote the verses that have thrilled generations of children. Borough President Harvey suggests that the house be moved to a city park and preserved.

Frisco-Chicago Air Passenger Line Near

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Inauguration of an airplane passenger service between San Francisco and Chicago early next year was announced today by officials of the Boeing Air Transport.

A. A. Stimpson, division traffic manager of the company, said the passenger line would use 18 tri-motored planes and would operate on a 20-hour schedule each way. The company now operates the air mail service between San Francisco and Chicago, carrying some passengers. Stimpson said the new line would carry passengers exclusively.

TOOMBS FACES MORE CHARGES

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—If he does not plead guilty, Roy C. Toombs, former president of the International Life Insurance Company, will be tried on four remaining charges against him the circuit attorney announced here.

There are two untried fraud charges in connection with issuing stock certificates carrying a maximum prison sentence on conviction of seven years and two charges of grand larceny, punishable on conviction by imprisonment from two to five years.

Patrick H. Cullen, counsel for Toombs, said he will ask the Missouri Supreme Court, which recently affirmed Toombs' conviction and three-year sentence for fraudulently issuing stock certificates, for a rehearing of the case.

LOSS OF BRITISH $67,500,000

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Losses to stockholders of C. Hatry & Co. as a result of the financial crash of that concern and its affiliated companies several weeks ago will total over $67,500,000, the accountant investigating the crash estimated.

The estimate was given at the hearing of Clarence Hatry, British promoter and head of the Hatry concerns, and three associates, who were arraigned in Guild Hall Court on charges of fraud and forgery in connection with the crash. All entered pleas of not guilty and were bound over for trial.

The crash, which carried down thousands of small British investors' savings, was one of the largest in the history of British financing.

JAPAN INSISTS ON 70 PER CENT NAVAL RATIO

Envoys Put Demands Before Stimson; Barrier Likely To Be Cleared at Parley

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Japan's policy at the forthcoming London naval conference, which aims largely at obtaining for herself 70 per cent of whatever auxiliary naval strength is allotted to Great Britain and the United States, was put squarely before both latter governments today.

As the dominant power in the Far East, the Japanese feel that they are entitled to the 70 per cent ratio, which they emphasize, is "insufficient for attack" and "only adequate for defense in home waters."

MAY SOLVE PROBLEM

While the Hoover-MacDonald thesis of naval reduction was built on the theory of a ratio of 60 per cent instead of 70 per cent for Japan, officials were inclined to feel today that the increased ratio damond by Japan offered no unsurmountable barrier to the success of the conference, provided it could be worked out in acceptable categories.

There will have to be much conference and negotiation, however, before Japan's policy can be adjusted to the Hoover-MacDonald thesis. In a preliminary way, this negotiation was begun here today when the Japanese conference delegates, visiting here en route to London, began a series of talks with the American delegates. The international amenities and the handshaking were concluded yesterday. Today the real work began.

The scene of the first exchange of views was transferred to the privacy of Secretary Stimson's estate, "Woodley."

REED AT CONFERENCE

The American Secretary of State invited the Japanese delegation to come to his home where he remained for the day because of a cold. With him at the conference were Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania; Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, two of the American delegates to the London conference and William R. Castle, Jr., special ambassador to Japan.

In presenting their claims, the Japanese provided for some elasticity in meeting them.

The former prime minister, Reijuro Wakatsuki, who heads the empire's delegation, made it clear in talking with newspaper correspondents that Japan will not necessarily insist upon exactly 70 per cent, category by category. Or, in other words, if the ratio fell below 70 per cent in one category such as cruisers, it might be compensated for in submarines or destroyers, or vice versa.

Italy Names Arms Parley Delegates

ROME, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The Italian government has sent to London the official list of its delegates to the forthcoming naval conference. The delegates are: Dino Grandi, foreign minister; Rear Admiral Giuseppi Sirianni, minister of marine; Antonio Bordonaro, ambassador at London; Senator Admiral Acton and Admiral Burzagli, chief of the navy staff. Three functionaires from the Foreign Office and six from the Marine Ministry will serve as experts.

Friend of Lincoln Dies in West at 97

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Cal., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Capt. Charles H. Roland, 97, a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln and war-time comrade of Gen. U. S. Grant, died here yesterday after a short illness. Capt. Roland became acquainted with Lincoln in the national capital while he and Grant had desks side by side in the War Department. After being mustered out of the army, Roland moved to Nevada, coming here in 1916.

SOCIETY SUICIDE LAID TO GLOOM

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Despondency appeared today as the only motive for the suicide of Hunt Wentworth, gold coast bachelor and sportsman and son of the socially prominent Mrs. Moses J. Wentworth.

Wentworth's body, a bullet wound in the forehead, was found last night in his mother's Lake Shore drive apartment, a revolver clutched in the right hand.

A grand-nephew of "Long John" Wentworth, mayor of Chicago in 1860, Wentworth was a Harvard graduate and was prominent in campus activities. He was editor of the Lampoon and in his senior year was voted the handsomest and "funniest" man in school. In the war, he served as a captain of infantry with the Blackhawk Regiment.

Two months ago announcement was made of Wentworth's engagement to Miss Eileen Smith and the wedding had been tentatively set for spring.

John Wentworth, architect, attributed his brother's suicide to the "emotional effects of his war experiences," and added his brother had become despondent since retiring from the position of secretary of the Chicago branch of the Curtiss Flying Service.

Two Men Accused Of Erie Murders

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Murder charges were placed against two men as the result of a fight in Rose's Restaurant Sunday. Sisto Sanchis was charged with fatally shooting Sebastian Brunner and William Senatra is charged with stabbing Oliver Duncan. Both are held in jail pending a hearing December 27.

British Dole Bill Passes in Commons

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The government bill to increase unemployment insurance allowances passed its third reading in the House of Commons by a vote of 273 to 199. It had weathered the attacks of the opposition and of Labor left wing malcontents who had several times threatened to defeat it.

Compressor Plant Explodes at Well

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 17.—An explosion at the air compressor plant owned by the Emlenton Gas Company on the J. J. Weaver farm near Nickleville wrecked the plant. Fire followed the blast. Frank Hartzel, who lives nearby, shut off the gas, preventing further damage.

Ohio Coal Operator Dies at Bridgeport

BRIDGEPORT, O., Dec. 17.—David Powell, 70, for many years one of the leading coal operators of Eastern Ohio, died here today following a three-day illness. Mr. Powell was credited with being one of the first persons to use electrically driven machinery in mines.

Man Faces Charge Of Looting Safe

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 17.—Alleged to have broken into the safe of the Eagles Club of New Kensington, and taking $1,300, Austin Ferguson, 32, of Springdale, is being held in jail here. Ferguson disclaims any knowledge of the burglary.

NEW FIGHT FOR SECRET POWER DATA COMING

Federal Trade Commission Tells Congress It Will Renew Suit Against Trust

By M. L. RAMSAY,
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The Federal Trade Commission will renew its fight in the courts for access to expense books and records of the Electric Bond and Share Company, which has defied its jurisdiction, the commission announced in a report to Congress.

"Every legal means" will be used to get these records, which the commission declared "essential to a complete investigation."

Meanwhile the commission will go forward with its investigation of the finances of other companies, starting public hearings in the near future, the commission announced. These hearings will follow a defense by the public utilities of their propaganda methods, scheduled to begin January 8.

DATA ORDERED

The Senate has specifically directed the commission to investigate construction, management and engineering corporations, the services they furnish, the fees they enact from operating utility companies, and their control by holding companies, the report pointed out.

A recommendation for any legislation that may be needed to correct abuses also has been called for.

The commission's suit will be pressed through the taking of new evidence before a special master. A stipulation for this has been signed and filed with the Southern New York District Court, the report disclosed.

UPHOLDS COMMISSION

This court, in a preliminary decision some months ago, upheld the commission's jurisdiction and contempt power, but held it had not made out a case for the producing of all records demanded. The case was left open for additional evidence on this point.

Services fees, security issues and capitalization of five holding companies and nine operating companies have been studied by commission accountants in the last two months, the report said. Summaries are being prepared for use at public hearings.

STREET GRADES PROPOSED

Five ordinances establishing the grades of thoroughfares in various sections of the city have been presented to Council. The thoroughfares are:

Vilsack street from Morningside avenue to Chislett street; Denver street from Gold way to Dover street; Emporia street from Chartiers avenue to Kelvin way; Huxley street from Adon street to Tyndall street; Trout way from Chartiers avenue to Allendorf street.

Ordinances fixing the width and position of the sidewalks and roadway of five streets have been presented. The thoroughfares are: Haven street from Summerdale street to Merle street; Mayfair street from Summerdale street to the first angle northwardly; Merle street from Summerdale street to Wind Gap road; Summerdale street from Mayfair street to Wind Gap road; Warfel street from Mayfair street to Wind Gap road.

Officials of the Oakwood Board of Trade submitted a complaint of the poor condition of the roadway of an unnamed way parallel with Grasmere street and Oakwood street.

Death of 2 Laid To Furnace Fumes

BALTIMORE, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—A verdict of accidental death was given in the death of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kirby, who were found dead in different parts of their home here. Death was blamed by physicians on coal gas which was escaping from the furnace.

The couple was found by their granddaughter, Sara McCubin, who had gone to the house for a visit.

Belgian Women Favor Rum Control

BRUSSELS, — (AP.) — Seven thousand Belgian women, wives or daughters of state employes, have voted for strict control of the liquor traffic. A proposed law would permit sales of quart bottles at licensed shops. Sale of strong drink by the glass, except in private clubs, has been forbidden since the World War.

Fogbound Pilot Ships Mail By Rail

GREENVILLE, Pa., Dec. 17.—More than 1,300 pounds of airmail was brought to this city from the Mercer landing field and placed aboard a train after S. J. Samson, airmail pilot, had been forced down at Mercer because of heavy fog.

Samson made the landing without difficulty and learning that weather conditions were difficult for flying into the mountains, transferred his cargo.

Large Buck Elk Seen on Meadow Mountain

GRANTSVILLE, Md., Dec. 17.—What is believed to have been a large elk was seen yesterday by Delbert and Ellis Durst, on the west side of Meadow Mountain. The animal had antlers much larger than any deer. It looked as though it would weigh 500 pounds, had an enormous spread of horns, long hair on its breast and was of a bluish or drab color.

The creature seemed to be in a defiant mood at first, stamped on the ground and showed marked symptoms of making an attack.

An animal answering the same description was seen by teamsters working in the same vicinity not long ago, and all who have seen it are of the opinion that it was a large buck elk.

TRIO ROBS FOUR CHAIN STORES

BALTIMORE, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Holdup men had a field day at the expense of four chain stores here, and their forays netted them a total of $454.

Three men entered a grocery on Greenmount avenue. While the keeper was getting butter one of the men had ordered, another produced a pistol and ordered the man waiting on him and two other clerks into the back of the store, rifled the cash drawer of $80 and fled.

A short time later three men entered another Greenmount avenue store and relieved the manager and a customer of $59.52. The same trio entered a Belair road store and obtained $70 from a safe. Ten minutes later, at another Belair road store, three men repeated the performance of the other three stores and relieved a customer of $130 and the store till of $55.

"WHAT A WONDER MEDICINE THIS NEW KONJOLA IS"

Young Pittsburgh Man Pays Glowing Tribute to Powers of New and Different Medicine.

Strange, but true, Konjola, the new and different medicine, achieves many of its most remarkable victories over cases that have held on for years, defying every medicine and treatment tried until Konjola was given a chance to prove its merits.

MR. ARTHUR M. BRENNEM

Konjola is a powerful medicine, though it contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It is powerful in the obstinate cases of the aged, yet may be given to the infant. A striking example of Konjola's powers was recently told to the Konjola Man by Mr. Arthur M. Brennem, 116 Meridan Street, Pittsburgh, whose case is typical of countless thousands of other cases wherein Konjola has triumphed. Hear all about this remarkable medicine for the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness, from the Konjola Man. There is a Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street. Read the interesting experience of Mr. Brennem, who said to the Konjola Man recently:

"What a Wonder Medicine this New Konjola is! I had no idea that any one medicine could do what this medicine did in my case. I had about reached the conclusion that nothing could ever relieve me of indigestion and nervousness that had made me miserable for a long time, for I tried everything recommended without getting any results. I was extremely careful of my diet, but even this did no good. Pains and misery followed every meal regardless of what I ate. I certainly was discouraged as I felt myself getting weaker and weaker, and my nerves kept me awake for hours night after night. I feared that I was going to be compelled to give up my work.

"A friend who had suffered practically the same as myself told me of the wonderful relief he gained through taking Konjola, and he spoke so highly of this new medicine that I decided to put it to the test. And how Konjola met that test! In all I only took four bottles—that was all I needed. How I wish I had taken Konjola in the first place; what suffering I could have spared myself. Konjola went right to the very source of my troubles, and in one month practically made a new man of me. Cheerfully I endorse the medicine that did this for me."

Does not this prove that Konjola is the medicine to take when results, quick and thorough, are wanted?

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. Konjola is sold also by all Dow Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

Former Greensburg Editor Dies in West

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 16.—Word has been received here of the death of Darwin Musick, 83, of Gridley, Cal., a former Greensburg newspaperman and former county official.

He at one time was publisher and editor of the Greensburg Daily Record and served a term as clerk of courts, having been elected on the Democratic ticket. He was buried in the West.

MANY HURT IN COLLEGE FIGHT

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Many students of the National University were severely bruised in a tussle with the police for possession of the university buildings.

The law students, dissatisfied with the administration of Dean Juan Ramos, took the first round in the struggle with the authorities by seizing the school buildings on Saturday. They had supplied themselves with food enough for 15 days and, barricading the doors with furniture, felt they could withstand anything except a frontal attack by an armed force.

The police, biding their time, caught the students literally napping when they broke into the building. All of the latter were ejected. Later they reorganized their forces and attempted to retake the university, but the police dispersed them after some rough and tumble fighting.

$100,000,000 BONUSES GIVEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The New York World says today that more than $100,000,000 will be distributed as Christmas bonuses in the financial district, mostly to clerks and bookkeepers in brokerage offices and banking institutions.

A survey indicates that the payments will be as large or larger than 1928, the largest on record. Despite the crash in stock values many firms will make new records for net profits in 1929.

J. P. Morgan & Co., which never reveals its bonus plans, but is reputed to have paid a year's salary as bonuses for the last several years, was reported as likely to follow the same policy this year.

Among bonuses announced are Goldman Sachs & Co., a year's salary; the Chatham Phoenix National Bank and Trust Company, 5 per cent; the Bank of the United States, up to 10 per cent; the Chemical Bank & Trust Company, 12½ per cent; the International-Madison Bank and Trust Company, 5 per cent; the J. S. Bache & Co., up to 60 per cent of a year's pay; Barton & Barton, 25 per cent; Clarence Hodson & Co., up to one month's salary; the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company, 160,000 shares of stock with a market value of approximately $2,000,000.

Husband Left Life Interest In Estate

In the will of Mabel B. Kaufmann, filed today, an $18,000 estate is left in trust to her husband, William Kaufmann, 1008 Sheridan avenue, with the provision that it goes to her nephews and nieces at his death. The Fidelity Title and Trust Company was named executor.

Leaves Estate In Trust for Wife

George Caulkett, of Walker Heights, Elizabeth, leaves an estate of $14,000 in life trust to his wife, Charity R. Caulkett, to be distributed to his children at her death. The Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company is executor.

Youth Catches Wildcat in Trap

SALISBURY, Pa., Dec. 17.—James J. Davis, young son of Samuel J. Davis, who resides near the headwaters of Tub Mill run, not far from Salisbury, caught an unusually large wildcat in a trap. It weighed about 50 pounds and measured over four feet long.

The bounty on wildcats is $15.

DIVIDE ESTATE OF M'CLINTOCK

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Five years of litigation, ranging from a will suit to a murder trial, over the $1,500,000 that orphan Billy McClintock left, have brought the case to a point where the end is in sight. Chicago attorneys, with W. A. Keplinger as spokesman, said that the heirs have reached an agreement as to the distribution of the estate.

McClintock died December 4, 1924, two days before he was to have married Miss Isabelle Pope. His will named William Darling Shepherd residuary legatee and left $8,000 to Miss Pope. On June 26, 1925, Shepherd was acquitted, after an exciting trial, of having murdered the youth by administering typhoid fever germs to him. Later the will was broken on a claim of undue influence exerted in its making.

Now all the heirs have agreed on a split and soon the Circuit Court of Illinois will be asked to approve their plan. The estate is said to have shrunk from its original $1,500,000 to about $1,100,000, due to inheritance taxes and other charges. Shepherd is to get $425,000. Miss Pope, who last September married Melvin Veeder, of Winnetka, Ill., will take about $350,000, and 10 cousins, many of whom never saw McClintock, will split $350,000.

Sinclair Lewis Quits City After Lecture

Sinclair Lewis, author, ended his 10-day visit to Pittsburgh last night by delivering an address on "A Novelist Looks at Pittsburgh," in the North Side Carnegie Music Hall. He came to Pittsburgh to "cover" the Accorsi murder trial for an Eastern newspaper syndicate.

MORE HUNTING LAND BOUGHT

HARRISBURG, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Purchase of three additional tracts of land for game propagation and public hunting, comprising 8,474 acres, was announced by the State Game Commission.

One of the three, which has an area of 1,643 acres, is situated in Lancaster County, near Ephrata. The other two are in Monroe County, near Pocono Manor, and in Sullivan County, taking in 1,337 and 5,494 acres, respectively.

All told, the commission now owns 160,034 acres in various parts of the state, of which 132,504 are open to hunting by the public.

Sandy Lake Bus Fare to be Cut

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 17.—A lower bus rate between Franklin and Sandy Lake will go into effect on January 7, the Public Service Commission announced today. The existing rate is 90 cents. After January 7 it will be 75. The R. C. Perry bus line is now operating from Franklin to Sandy Lake, and from Sandy Lake over the new "cut-off" to Greenville. The latter is a 30-mile trip from Franklin to Greenville.

MRS. JAMES B. BROWN
1318 Alton St., Pittsburgh, says:

[Local woman tells how she keeps wardrobe fresh]

"I KNOW that some married women get careless about the little personal things, but I think it pays to keep my wardrobe as fresh and charming as it was on my honeymoon," she writes.

"To do this, I have to wash my things often and at the same time be sure that the colors don't fade.

So Easy

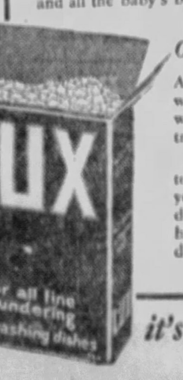
"With Lux, this is easy. After each wearing, my underwear and stockings go into Lux suds, yet Lux is so gentle, so safe, that they stay bright and new looking ever so long.

"I believe I make my washable things last twice as long as do some of my friends who still use ordinary soap chips or powders, or worst of all, rub with cake soap.

"Lux for everything I wash, from chiffon stockings to big, fluffy blankets—that's my rule! Dishes, too, of course, to keep my hands from getting red and rough."

Try Lux FREE

Try this wonderful Lux care for your clothes, at our expense. Just send us your name and address, and by return mail you will receive a full-sized package of Lux free. Write today to Lever Brothers Co., Department H-93, Cambridge, Mass.



"See all I did with just one package of Lux"

Mrs. H. W. Watts, of Watervliet, writes:

"I'm astonished to find how much I can wash with one large box of Lux. I've kept careful count especially of the baby's things—and here's the list:

10 dresses	8 pairs socks
54 diapers	5 nightgowns
12 shirts	1 rayon bedspread
2 sacques	2 crib blankets
8 slips	1 silk kimono
1 blouse	1 wool sweater
9 silk lingerie	1 lamp shade
10 pairs stockings	1 upholstered chair

"And besides I always use Lux for dishes so this package has done 10 days' dishes and all the baby's bottles, as well."

Other Women,

And millions of other women throughout the world have learned to trust Lux—and only Lux.

Over 73,000 laboratory tests are made each year to insure that Lux does not vary from its highest standards, its dependable purity.

If it's safe in water—it's safe in LUX

Four Celebrities Booked For Radio Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

FOUR personalities of national renown will appear in radio programs tonight. Jacques Thibaud, violinist; Richard Crooks, tenor, Mary Owens, actress, and Gladys Rice, soprano, will troup before NBC microphones in an evening devoted to fun and fancy.

Thibaud will have four selections on the Around the World program which also includes orchestrations of it. Overture to "Mignon" and Bacchanale from "Samson and Delilah" KDKA at 8:30.

Crooks and Miss Owens will be on the air at 9 o'clock, the former as the guest of Eveready and the actress with Paul Whiteman on the Old Gold Hour.

Little need to mention much about Gladys Rice except that she will top the RKO bill through WCAE at 10:30.

In their little sketch over WCAE at 7:45, Virginia Harmon and Clarke Moss will have a Song Story appropriate for this time of year.

We Now Present

Tomorrow at 9 a. m. the Joseph Horne chorus of 100 voices will sing especially for Commander Byrd's Expedition at Little America. KDKA will use the short wave transmitter at East Pittsburgh.

Christmas carols are sung daily over WCAE from noon until 12:30 p. m. by the Gimbel chorus of 50 voices.

OUR ANNOUNCERS

Dear Mr. Martin:

I would like to suggest that you be a little easier on our local announcer's mistakes as we all make them. If you were tuned in on KDKA two weeks ago at 11:45 p. m. you would have heard Milton J. Cross make a grave error. He was presenting the Armchair Quartet and instead of saying "M. J. Cross, first tenor," he said "M. J. Cross, first tenist." Rather than admit the mistake he continued on with the program. And of course Milton won the medal for "good diction."

I also want to say I was very glad Johnny Marvin appeared on KQV recently. You were rather dubious, weren't you? I myself think they were lucky to get a star like him considering he was only in the city one day. The station deserves a little credit which I hope you will give them.

Long ago you told the public about Ted Kay being Louis Kaufman's brother and I don't see why some people bring it up now as something ne As you have often said, Ted Kay has made good and his brother, Louis, can be proud of him. But just why didn't Ted use his right name?

Very sincerely,
MRS. NAOMI AUGUSTINE,
439 Grace street.

We quite agree with you on the announcer question, Mrs. Augustine. Anent Ted Kay, the youngster adopted a "nom de plume" so that people wouldn't say he was trying to "cash in" on his brother's reputation.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

Short and Clear
Is The Truth About Radios

There is no suostitute for common sense in choosing a radio. The amazingly greater enjoyment you get from a good radio is due to technical excellence in the electrical apparatus—and no amount of roseate "non-technical" word-pictures can impair the importance, to every radio listener, of long and thorough technical experience in radio designing and building on the part of the manufacturer of the set he buys.

Common sense will tell you to beware of any make that has no reputation for radio excellence among the radio experts in your community. Ask them about Silver-Marshall—then ask them about any dozen of the manufacturers of "shoes, ships, and sealing wax" who would now offer you radios—often, appropriately enough, at "greatly reduced prices"!

Trust your own eyes and ears: Keep close to common sense. Buy a radio—don't buy a "super-monophase-plus" or a "chromo-cosmo-control," or any other totally meaningless catch phrase! Every word used in SILVER RADIO advertising has a meaning familiar to any expert. Ask that radio-fan friend of yours whether it is true:

—That Silver-Marshall was the only manufacturer who sold any screen-grid sets prior to 1928;
—that the fame of Silver-Marshall's early screen-grid sets was largely responsible for the swing to screen-grid in 1929;
—that the screen-grid power detector in SILVER RADIO is 5 times as powerful as the "27" power detectors on other radios;
—that manufacturers have been trying for years to build a radio that can "get distance" without connecting an aerial—watch a SILVER RADIO do it;
—that Silver-Marshall has for five years blazed the trail toward more perfect tone reproduction;
—that Silver-Marshall, for the best reasons in the world, stands today as the sponsor of the "4 Amazing Tests"—with which your SILVER dealer shows you how to compare for yourself, anywhere, any time, the actual merit of different radio receivers.

CHURCHILL SEES BRITISH PERIL

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Addressing a Conservative gathering here, Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, seconded a prediction by Lord Melchett that "without steps to improve the outlook of British industry, the current tendency to increase taxation at the request of sentimental theorists will lead the country into bankruptcy."

Far from curing unemployment, every step the government had taken tended to increase the number of able-bodied paupers, said Churchill. The Laborites in the House of Commons, if they had their way, would transform the country into "one vast soup kitchen," he continued.

He intended increasingly to direct attention to the impending removals of British troops from Egypt to the Suez Canal area.

"This would be a disaster not only to Egypt, but to Britain and the whole civilized communities in the world," he said. "It is bound to lead ultimately to a serious shedding of blood. The same proposals which are cajoling us out of Egypt—sometimes subtle, sometimes violent, sometimes secret and sometimes open, but never ceasing—are at work in India, but on a far larger scale. Hence the discussions now proceeding are of immense significance to the empire as a whole."

Miner Pleads Guilty To Charge of Murder

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Audley Stouffer, 31, a Sarver miner, today entered a plea of guilty to second degree murder and will probably be sentenced later in the week. He was indicted for murder in connection with the death of Frank Johnson, 38, of Coal Hollow, on November Johnson was stabbed.

Horseman Found Dead Near Home

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 17.—Thomas A. Miller, 75, of near Avella, was found dead in the watering trough near his residence, after a search throughout the night. He had been ill for some time. He was widely known as a horseman and breeder of racing stock. He leaves his wife, a son and two daughters.

STEEL MERGER IMMINENT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 17.—Merger of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, Central Alloy Steel Company and a half dozen smaller companies into the third largest steel combination in the country, exceeded only by U. S. Steel Corporation, and Bethlehem Steel, is imminent. Only details remain to be concluded, according to semi-official reports.

The companies which will be grouped together are those controlled by the Eaton-Mather-Otis interests of Cleveland.

Some of the companies said to be controlled by this group are Republic, Central Alloy, Inland Steel, Wheeling Steel and Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company. Some of these concerns, together with others as yet undisclosed, are included in the consolidation.

The merger will center in Youngstown, which is the headquarters of the Republic company, now headed by E. T. McCleary, for many years a vice president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company.

M'Murray, Ex-Envoy, Gets College Post

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—John Van Antwerp MacMurray, who recently resigned as American minister to China, arrived here on the President McKinley. He is on his way to Baltimore, where he has accepted a professorship in the Department of International Relations at Johns Hopkins University. MacMurray had been minister to China since April 9, 1925.

Home of Union Miner Set Afire

SHADYSIDE, O., Dec. 17.—Sheriff Ford Moore, of Belmont County, was called to Mapletown to investigate the firing of the John Stephens home.

Stephens, active in union mining circles, stated that the family was awakened during the night to find the house in flames, and investigation disclosed that waste saturated with gasoline had been placed under it.

ELKINS HEIRESS FIGHTS KIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Mrs. Evelyn I. Martin, principal beneficiary under the will of the late Stephen B. Elkins, wealthy sportsman, who died last October 20, has applied in surrogates court for appointment of a temporary administrator and asked that probating of the will be transferred from Washington, D. C., to New York.

In the Paris papers submitted to the surrogate, Mrs. Martin charged that Davis Elkins, former United States senator from West Virginia, as administrator of the estate of his brother, was deliberately delaying probate of the will and attempting to start a contest. She alleged that Davis Elkins filed affidavits saying his brother lived in Washington, whereas, she said, Stephen Elkins lived on Park avenue here for 28 years, and had never lived in the capital.

Mrs. Martin also charged that Davis Elkins is in possession of two codicils, one dated August 3, 1928, and the other dated October 10, 1929, which have never been filed.

She charged that much of the estate already has been dissipated and filed two affidavits saying that 20 canvas bags of valuable liquors were removed from the Park avenue apartment of the late Stephen Elkins. The affidavits, which were signed by employes of the Park avenue apartment house, said part of the liquor was taken to the apartment of Davis Elkins in East Fifty-fourth street.

She chargred the administrator with retaining in his possession large security holdings in various banks and with having caused suit to be filed against her in Northampton County, Va., preventing her from trying to have the will probated.

In the will, Mrs. Martin was named to receive $1,000 on the first day of each month during her life time. She also was given the contents of the Park avenue apartment, real estate in Northampton County, Va., and the race horses which belonged to Stephen Elkins.

The residue of the estate, after some minor bequests, was to go to the brother, Davis Elkins, who was named executor.

Blame Lovesick Swains for Auto Thefts

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 17.—Lovesick swains are blamed for automobile thefts which have bothered Waynesburg police during the past week. Four cars have been stolen, none for a period of more than 24 hours, and were returned near their parking places, undamaged and with no accessories missing.

Police believe those responsible are school boys who "borrow" cars parked along the street for joyrides.

Ireland Will Send 3 To Naval Parley

DUBLIN, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The Irish Free State will be represented by three men at the naval conference in London next month. They will be Patrick McGilligan, minister of foreign affairs; Desmond Fitzgerald, minister of defense, and Prof. Timothy Smiddy, high commissioner in London.

BRITONS HEAR U. S. TRADE TALK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—A group of Englishmen, sitting about a banquet table in London last night, had as their principal speaker an American talking from his office in Washington.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in a seven-minute speech through the microphone, told them of the results of the recent business conference.

The address, arranged at the suggestion of Lord Beaverbrook, publisher of the London Express, was broadcast in this country by the National Broadcasting Company, transmitted to England by station WGY at Schenectady, of the General Electric Company, and circulated in that country by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

SLAYER OF EIGHT NEAR DEATH

THREE RIVERS, Que., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The confessed slayer of his wife and seven small children, Andrew Day, was in a serious condition at a local hospital last night from self-inflicted wounds.

Mrs. Day and the children, ranging in age from 1 to 14 years, were found dead in their beds, apparently slain with an ax. A short time later police found the husband wandering in the street, his throat slashed.

Police said Day told them he had "murdered my family" and then wrote a confession on a piece of cardboard. He opened his coat at the throat and exhibited his wounds to policemen, saying they were self-inflicted. He spoke with great difficulty.

Neighbors said Day was regarded as a quiet and peaceable man.

45 PIANOS LOANED FREE

Forty-five Pianos (Grands, Players and Uprights, both new and used instruments) will be placed in homes of Pittsburgh and vicinity and they may be used until we need them—which will be an indefinite time. We have discontinued eight of our large branch stores, and are placing these instruments in our "Frederick's Annex," located at 915 Liberty Avenue, instead of storing and holding these pianos for the regular price, we are going to slaughter the prices and take our loss now. If you have ever thought of buying a piano, now is the time. We do not wish to place our instruments in storage and all Pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, and for the valuable advertising we will receive by having good families use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these pianos are to be placed.

Positively No Charge For Anything

No cartage, no rent or any expense whatever. You must call at the store to make your selection. There are no strings to this offer, which comes but once in a lifetime.

MAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 17.—One man was killed and a woman was seriously injured in two major automobile accidents in this district yesterday.

Rocco Malig, 46, of Bobtown, Greene County, was fatally injured at Newton when struck by another machine driven by David Ludum, 21, of Detroit. Malig was riding on the running board of another machine when the accident occurred.

Mrs. B. C. Bricker, of near Uniontown, suffered a probable fractured spine when a machine in which she was riding with her husband, B. C. Bricker, and Arthur C. Fee and Ray Sanner, also of Uniontown R. D. 4, was struck by another automobile driven by James F. Cadley, of Brownsville.

SEND MAN BACK TO FACE TRIAL

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 17.—Charles Wurtz, 20, who Friday walked into the county jail and told Warden D. W. Creigh he was a wife slayer, is en route to St. Louis in the custody of City Detective B. Nienaber.

Wurtz, who had been separated from his wife some time previous to the fatal quarrel, said that she had called him to her apartment on the night of the killing. She drew a gun and threatened to kill him. He grappled with her and they scuffled for possession of the weapon. It was discharged, the bullet inflicting wounds which caused her death.

Wurtz had been roaming the country since, fleeing from St. Louis, until his surrender here.

FLORENCE DRUMMOND

Finds REM brings quick cough relief

The Drummond family of 1322 Watson Ave., St. Paul, Minn., enjoy good health at most times, but coughs do come their way occasionally. Mrs. Drummond, one time, was suffering from a bad cough when a kindly neighbor recommended REM. To Mrs. Drummond's delight, "REM relieved me almost at once and I've had a good word for it ever since." Later on when little Florence got a cough, what more natural than that her mother should remember her own happy experience with REM. And once again REM "made good" in the Drummond family. So it goes. When one member of a family once tries REM, it usually isn't long before it's the regular cough medicine for the whole household. Try it for yourself!

MAYOR'S LIBEL SUIT DELAYED

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 17.—Trial of criminal libel against E. Lee Combs of Pitcairn, had been deferred until the March term by Judge James M. Galbreath. Attorneys for Combs said that he was under the care of physicians and was unable to appear. Combs was indicted for the publication of charges against Mayor George Bob Wick of Butler, two days before the November election, at which Wick was a candidate for re-election. The publication was made in the Butler County Farmer, a weekly of which Combs is said to be the promoter.

The difference between the two men is said to have had its origin two years ago, when Combs was elected to promote the publicity end of a benefit for the Butler firemen's pension fund. Combs avers he did not receive all the money promised him in the contract.

Fireman Burned In Apartment Fire

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Dec. 17.—A fireman was hurt and two families were driven from their apartments when fire broke out in the Young Variety Store. Paul Barton, fireman, was burned about the hands and wrists. The loss was estimated at $3,000.

Leghorns Lay 34 Eggs in Four Days

Another pen of white leghorns, owned by J. A. Gamnel, of Derry, took second, laying 33 eggs during the contest.

3 SHOT AT RED MEET IN AFRICA

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Three natives were wounded, one seriously, at Potchefstroom, Transvaal, when Europeans were said to have fired revolvers at natives during a communist meeting in connection with the celebration of Dingaans Day. The celebrations otherwise were peaceful.

WOMAN, LIQUOR SEIZED ON ROAD

BRIDGEWATER, Pa., Dec. 17.—With 336 pint bottles of bonded whisky in her possession, Miss Mary Whalen, 28, of 105 North St. Clair street, Pittsburgh, was taken in custody at the Bridgewater end of the Sharon Bridge, state police report. The woman is held for a hearing on charges of transportation of liquor.

Police say Miss Whalen was on her way from Cleveland, O., to Pittsburgh when apprehended.

The 14 cases of bonded whisky has a bootleg value of $1,630, police say.

Suspects Quizzed In Club Murder

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 17.—Several suspects were being questioned today in connection with the death of George Chizmar, 59, found clubbed to death. It is believed he was attacked by highwaymen.

Smoke in Hotel Routs 20 Guests

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 17.—Hastily donning their handiest apparel, 20 guests at the Savoy Hotel were routed from their rooms yesterday when an awning caught fire, filling the hotel with smoke.

WARNING GIVEN ON FAKE BILLS

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Glance carefully at your change—there's a lot of counterfeit $100 bills about.

Allen G. Straight, head of the secret service in New York, revealed that a number of spurious notes of new Federal Reserve $100 denomination are being circulated throughout the country, especially in cities along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

The bills are nearly perfect in engraving and experts can detect them only with the aid of a powerful magnifying glass. The green ink is too dark in spots and the picture of Benjamin Franklin on the face is made from too fine a screen, among other flaws.

New Brighton Fire Damages Theater

IRON INQUIRIES INCREASE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 17.—Inquiry has gained for pig iron for first quarter and in this and rolled steel markets, there is more optimism now than has been the case for several months. This is due to improved outlook for the immediate future.

In recent weeks, there has been rather marked betterment in requirements from the automotive industry, and the Youngstown district is benefiting to a moderate extent because of heavy volume of flat-rolled steels produced here.

Indications are that prices will be somewhat firmer than originally anticipated.

Among the products chiefly affected by better automobile inquiry are sheets, strips and merchant steel bars.

Plate and bar mills are operating satisfactorily for this season of the year.

Steel makers report there will be improved production of tin plate immediately after the first of the year, on contracts signed by the leading consumers.

THEFT SUSPECT HELD IN GUN BATTLE

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

HE IS a city detective now. He was born and reared in the Strip. Several years ago he was an outstanding baseball player, in the days when an athlete went to college for two-base hits and touchdowns rather than degrees.

The athletic director of a college near Pittsburgh succeeded in enrolling him as a student during the baseball season. He had little desire for the education that comes in textbooks, but he did like to whack liners over second base. He seldom attended classes.

He had been in college several months when some genuine students were discussing the examinations of the previous day.

"That economics exam was the toughest I've ever taken," one complained.

"If you think that was tough you'd have fainted in philosophy," a second student put in.

"Ah, but they were easy compared with calculus," a third tended.

"Say," the baseball hero announced, "you shoulda seen the one we got in long division."

Sinclair Lewis has been in town for a week reporting a murder trial, and there were, as might have been expected, rumors that he was seeking Pittsburgh background for a novel. He isn't. He hasn't a novel in mind. We tried to chide him for not having written anything of importance for more than a year and he replied, with a mild show of indignation, that his last effort, "Dodsworth," was quite an effort—certainly worth a rest of a few years, his manner seemed to say—and besides, there were numerous magazine articles written in the last 12 months.

Lewis struck us as a professional cynic, a doctor of sarcasm, but we bend to the vote of the majority. The other reporters who talked with him were all for Lewis.

BRIAND M'DONALD and John Harris tell the true story of the two boys who encountered the unmilitary usher. The expected salute, the customary yes-sir, the click of heels at attention—all were missing.

It was during a recent downtown performance. The usher was in high spirits. From the aisle of the last row, he insisted on dropping an arm about the end chair from which a beautiful young woman was watching the show.

"Pardon us," the local boys chorused after preliminary, if futile, suggestions, "but must we tell the manager?"

"Go 'head," the usher dared.

The two local boys promptly dispatched effective rights and lefts in the direction of the usher, who retired to slumberland for the rest of the night.

During all this the show went on. The show must go on or we wouldn't have talking pictures.

Pittsburgh Wins Meet Over Bid by Chicago; 6,000 Guests Expected

A quarter million dollar exhibition hall improvement was announced today by the William Penn Hotel in agreement with the selection of Pittsburgh for next year's National Safety Council convention.

This city was awarded the convention at an executive session of the council in New York City yesterday. Six cities, including Chicago and Atlantic City, were seeking the sessions that draw approximately 7,000 viistors. Pittsburgh won against Chicago by a vote of 16 to 10.

When Pittsburgh bid for the convention, the committee expressed the desire to come here for the first time since it originated in the city 17 years ago. With several hundred exhibitions forming part of the sessions and the average of 30 groups meeting daily, special arrangements were found necessary.

The hotel company agreed that with the selection of the city, it would build a Pirate hall arcade, containing 10,000 square feet of floor space for exhibits. The addition will be directly below the present Pirate hall and connected with this auditorium part by a grand staircase. Work will be started at once.

In its effort to make a satisfactory arrangements for holding the convention here next October, the national council sent several members for inspections. W. H. Cameron, managing director, of Chicago, visited here December 1. Three days later, G. E. Burns and W. L. Wheeler, of Chicago, convention city selection committee members, likewise made a trip here. Mark Egan, of Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, and Sam K. Smith, of the hotel company, worked with the committee.

BANQUET OPENS WATER PLANT

Springdale's new $55,000 water plant was officially opened last night, with a banquet held at the Springdale United Presbyterian Church, and an inspection trip through the plant.

J. F. Pierce, borough manager, was toastmaster. The speakers included L. S. Morgan, district engineer for the State Board of Health; E. C. Trax, chemist, of McKeesport; J. S. Jenks, vice president, West Penn Power Company, and T. E. Purcell, general superintendent of power plants of the Duquesne Light Company. Councilman H. J. Clowes, chairman of the water committee, turned the plant over to President of Council W. B. White, who in turn turned it over to the taxpayers. The inspection trip followed. The event was sponsored by the Springdale Chamber of Commerce and borough officials.

MAN OVERCOME BY FUMES DIES OF BURNS

Gasoline Spilled as He Faints, Ignites from Cigar Clinched Between Teeth

William H. Young, 51, of 2707 Jane street, died last night in the South Side Hospital from burns suffered several hours before when gasoline ignited in his garage at 2330 Larkins way.

Young was believed to have been filling a truck tank when he was overcome by fumes. The gasoline apparently spilled over his clothing and was ignited from a lighted cigar clenched between his teeth, firemen said.

The victim's brother, John Young, 52, of 2709 Jane street, died from mysterious acid burns November 12 after being found lying in the hallway of his home, according to police. How he suffered the acids burns has not been determined by members of the homicide squad.

3 BOYS ADMIT MANY THEFTS

Three boys ranging in ages from 12 to 14 years were held for juvenile court on charges of larceny and entering a building with intent to commit a felony at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Ralph M. Knisely, of Swissvale, last night. They were to be arraigned today on similar charges before Justice of the Peace George R. Craig in Edgewood.

The boys confessed to Chief John Morris and Motorcycle Patrolman James Herrington, of Swissvale, to having committed a series of robberies of stores and of automobiles belonging in Swissvale, Edgewood and Wilkinsburg, it was testified. Chief Jack Dyer, of the Edgewood police department, will prosecute the hearing today.

DANCE MASTERS TO MEET HERE

Latest tap, novelty and musical comedy dancing will be reviewed at the mid-winter convention of the Pittsburgh Society for the Improvement of Dancing in McDougall studios, January 19.

Three hundred teachers from throughout Western Pennsylvania are expected to be in attendance. A banquet in the evening will be one of the features. Special instructors, who will discuss problems with the teachers, will be Thomas Sheehy, of Chicago, president of the American Dancing Master's Association, and Nicholas Tsoukoles, of Chicago.

RULES CITED FOR ELDERS

A ruling elder is a pastor's helper and should conduct himself as an assistant to the minister and if he is not willing to do that he should not occupy the position, Burgess W. J. Longmore, of Bellevue, who has been an elder in the Avalon United Presbyterian Church for 38 years and superintendent of the Sunday school for 28 years, so declared yesterday before the United Presbyterian Ministerial Association.

Burgess Longmore believes that a ruling elder is one who is able to rule his own household, lead a clean Christian life, teach the Bible school, visit the sick and lead the prayer meeting.

Given Two Years For Theft of 6 Chickens

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 17.—Raleigh Roar, Negro, of Bulger, stole two white roosters and four hens from Sam Janko, a neighbor. They cost him two to four years in the penitentiary, that sentence being imposed by Judge Howard W. Hughes when Roar appeared before him to enter a plea of guilty.

HUMANE BODY MAKES APPEAL

With its appeal for financial assistance during the new year, the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society has issued its year book.

The report, covering the period from June 1, 1928, to May 31, 1929, reveals the society through its agents and volunteer workers handled 4,805 cases of cruelty to animals. During the same period, 889 cruelty to children charges were investigated, while 2,880 placements were made. Fifty-four aged persons were likewise given homes.

MADDAS, 7 AIDS ON TRIAL

The Greensburg Brewing Company, its president, F. A. Maddas and seven co-defendants, are on trial before Federal Judge Nelson McVicar on a charge of conspiring to violate the national prohibition law. They are accused of manufacturing and selling "wort" to be used in manufacturing beer with an illegal alcoholic content.

The other defendants are J. B. Dietrich, treasurer; E. S. Gerard, secretary; H. T. Malley, general manager, and Edward Roberts, bookkeeper, of the defendant concern; Charles Luebbe, alleged distributor for the company, and two employes, Frank M. Winters and Alois Gruber.

In the prosecution of the case the government is represented by Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans.

Prohibition Agent F. M. Hohman testified to purchasing 50 cans of "wort" after representing himself as a bootlegger about to start a "wildcat" brewery.

Policeman, Hurt, May Get Full Pay

Council has received an ordinance authorizing full pay for six months to Patrolman Paul J. Veourron who is incapacitated from injuries received while on duty. Veourron fell from the patrol wagon last June 11 at Smithfield and Carson street and broke both knee caps.

He has received his full pay from the date of the accident to December 10.

Hays St. Closing Still in Dispute

Attorney A. C. Hirsch has asked Council to take favorable action on an ordinance vacating Hays street to provide additional area for a proposed athletic field at Peabody High School.

A protest against the closing of Hays street was submitted to Council yesterday by William C. Smith, of 229 Yardley way, who stated in a letter that Hays street was one of the city's most important thoroughfares and should be widened rather than be vacated.

Historical Society's Request Opposed

Thomas Stamford, of 153 North Craig street, has submitted to Council protesting against a request from the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society for $10,000 to match an equal amount to be contributed by the state for the society's building. CAR OWNER SHOT SIX TIMES

Brandon Holds Man Arrested In River After Pistol Fight in Stanwix Street

An alleged automobile thief arrested by police following a running gun battle in Stanwix street last night, during which one man was shot six times, was held over for further investigation today by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court.

Two women companions on the alleged wild ride were released after they testified they had never seen the suspect until "he picked them up" a short time before.

SHOT IN LEGS

The suspect is Edward Hessler, 24, of 2318 Carson street. His victim is Leonard Pfeiffer, 23, of Waldorf street, whose car was allegedly stolen by Hessler a short time before. Pfeiffer is a patient in the Allegheny General Hospital, suffering from six bullet wounds in his legs.

The two women told Magistrate Brandon they were Mrs. Helen Carr, 21, of 819 James street, and Mrs. Blanche Kirk, 26, of the same address.

Hessler, Inspector Frank Boyd, of the city detective bureau, testified, stole Pfeiffer's car from in front of a bowling alley at Duquesne way, near Eighth street, and drove to the North Side. There he picked up the two women.

DISCOVER THEFT

When Pfeiffer and Sylvester Crawford, a fireman attached to No. 21 Engine Company, left the bowling alley, they discovered the car gone. Crawford and a number of friends drove Pfeiffer to the North Side, where they discovered Hessler and the women in the car at Federal and Diamond streets.

Pfeiffer jumped to the running board of the machine and grappled with Hessler, according to Crawford's testimony. Hessler pulled out a revolver and fired six times, he charged, the bullets striking Pfeiffer in the legs. Crawford then leaped on the side, he said, but when Hessler attempted to fire at him, Mrs. Carr pulled the gun away and stepped on the brake. Crawford then fell off, he told Brandon.

Inspector Boyd, driving on Diamond street, heard the shots and gave chase. Patrolman George Schwartzmiller, nearby, commandeered a taxicab and did the same thing. A volley of pistol shots failed to bring the suspect to a halt. Instead of complying, he leaped from the car ran down Stanwix street and jumped into the Allegheny River.

ARRESTED IN RIVER

Hessler, according to Schwartzmiller's testimony, doffed his coat and swam 50 yards to a float where he was clinging when arrested by Patrolman Thomas Lawrence. Hessler admitted the theft of the car. He also admitted a number of holdups in Pittsburgh.

Dry Law Violators Fined and Jailed

Joseph J. Okonski, of 403 South Main street, was fined $200 and sentenced to serve one month in jail, and Emmett Kelly, of 201 Miller street, Rankin, was fined $200 and sentenced to three months in jail by Federal Judge F. P. Shoemaker, for violating the national prohibition law.

Others pleading guilty to violating the prohibition law were fined as follows: Carl Wittum and Joseph J. Bartanek, $500 each; Dominick Prunte, James Passarello, George Ozrizovich and John O'Toole, $300 each; Phillip Feldman and Angelo Politano, $200 each, and Patsy Politano, $100.

Patrolman Hurt; Slips on Street

Motorcycle Patrolman Jerome Hock, 35, reporting at Central Station, was in Mercy Hospital today with an injured right knee as the result of slipping on a manhole lid in Washington street last night. His home is at 357 Forty-fourth street.

7 Shopping Days to Christmas!

INCLUDING TODAY

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: Do you concur with the published pulpit statement of the Rev. W. W. T. Duncan, pastor of the Emory M. E. Church, that gift baskets of food and toys create poverty instead of alleviating it?

VERA HUNZIKER, hostess, East End: "The giving of presents to the needy as well as those in better circumstances is a custom that should not be abolished. But the public should not forget the poor during the other 364 days of the year. The spirit of Christmas should be carried in the hearts of all at all times. It's merely the practicing of the Golden Rule."

Vera Hunziker

B. LYONS, information, Squirrel Hill: "Gifts of cheer at Christmas to the needy tends to create happiness at the one season of the year when every one should be free from all worry. My statement is not a criticism of Dr. Duncan's statement, but merely my own views from experience gleaned in social service work."

B. Lyons

MRS. EDITH B. COLEMAN, Women's Affairs chairman, Swissvale: "The distribution of baskets once a year to the needy at Christmas time would not tend to create poverty, to my way of thinking. If help were given in this manner every month, parasites would be made of many families. Usually when gifts are given to the needy children by many of the local organizations, it is done with little publicity and mostly for the pleasure gotten out of it."

Mrs. Edith B. Coleman

E. J. FERGUSON, clerk, Brentwood: "I am in sympathy with Dr. Duncan's statement. I believe that if an individual or an organization sees fit to be overly generous to the needy at Christmas, he should not be discouraged. I also feel that charity work should be so constituted as to function throughout the year so there would be few or any destitute families in our city."

E. J. Ferguson

PAULINE H. SIMPSON, stenographer: "A plan to help a family over an extended period instead of bringing a period of joy for only a day is probably the better plan. The former would tend to establish self-respect and therefore self-support. I am inclined to believe that presenting a family with baskets and toys, particularly if accompanied by publicity, would tend to make them inferior and dependant. The present policy does not kill the condition."

Pauline H. Simpson

AL T. WEIBLINGER, general secretary employes relations, downtown: "Giving the poor Christmas baskets, toys and candy does not make paupers of the poor, in my estimation. At a time like Christmas, I think we should share anything we have with those less fortunate. However, efforts should be made to help these people get back on their feet and secure employment."

Al T. Weiblinger

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 17.—I welcome to our ancient and honorable newspaper profession, and I am sure my co-defendants, Mr. Brisbane, Mr. H. G. Wells, Mr. Bernard Shaw, Mr. Gene Tunney, Mr. Calvin Coolidge, and Babe Ruth, do the same, Eddie Cantor, my very good friend.

We spent our literary apprenticeship in the same school of hard knocks, Mr. Ziegfeld's Follies. We eked out a bare existence among nothing but bare backs. There was diamond necklaces to the right of us and Rolls Royces to the left of us, and costumes of powder completely surrounding us. Those were hardship days, but great training for our journalistic future.

Eddie specializes in Wall street and financial news. He is another Roger Babson, and how I envy him, for my little efforts will always be lowly. I will never get further than just a police reporter on the affairs of Congress.

BUSINESS MEN JOIN IN BIG CELEBRATION

Carol Singing, Speeches to Precede Lighting of Yule Display in Ober Park

Lighting and dedication of the large community Christmas tree, which North Side business men are erecting in Ober Park, Ohio and Federal streets, will take place tomorrow night. The program includes dedicatory services, short speeches, lighting of the tree and carol singing by school choirs. It will begin at 6 p. m. and will be followed by a pageant and parade.

The community Christmas celebration is being sponsored by the North Side Chamber of Commerce, the Business Men's Association of the East North Side and the Market House Association. Floats of business houses, civic organizations and fraternal groups will be in the line of march along with high school students and several bands. The route of the parade is East Ohio and West Ohio streets to Arch street, to Montgomery avenue, to Federal street and down Federal street to Isabella street.

Several certificates will be distributed along the route of the parade, being good for gifts donated by business men of the community. C. C. Vaught will be chief marshal of the pageant.

Each night during the holiday week there will be a musical program at the tree and also the distribution of candy and gifts to orphans. The gifts have been donated by fraternal organizations. C. O. Schmitt will have charge of the programs and distribution. Tomorrow night during the dedication, free music and refreshments will be served in the market house, through the Market House Association.

CODIFIED AUTO LAW BACKED

Resolutions indorsing the Better Traffic Committee's proposed codified traffic ordinance have been presented to Mayor Charles H. Kline and City Council by several local women's organizations.

Among the women's groups that have added their indorsement to the codified ordinance are the Pittsburgh Panhellenic Association; the Pittsburgh Branch of the National Council of Administration Women in Education; the Pittsburgh Section of the National Council of Jewish Women; the Women's Historical Society of Pennsylvania, and the Women's Club of Hazelwood.

James Rea, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has submitted to Council a letter indorsing the proposed codification of the traffic ordinances.

The traffic code has been indorsed also in a letter from John O'Neil, director of the North Side Chamber of Commerce.

O'Neil asked Council also to order the installation of a "Stop and Go" traffic signal light at Anderson and Lacock streets.

Locker Broken, Coat Taken From Store

Miss America Ciprino, of 29 Chatham street, today reported to detectives that her fur and cloth coat, valued at $195, had been stolen from the locker room in a downtown store. The lock on the locker room had been broken, she said.

Woman's Skidding Auto Crashes Toy Mission

Mrs. Mary S. Metz, 50, of Eleventh street and Pine Hollow road, McKees Rocks, was arrested after an automobile she was driving skidded onto the sidewalk and shattered a plate glass window of the Toy Mission, 414 Penn avenue, early today, police reported.

Carl Thompson, 22, Negro, of 825 Manhattan street, a pedestrian, suffered lacerations of his hip and hand when he was struck by the car. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital for treatment.

PARKING BANS UNDER TRIAL

Effective tomorrow, additional parking restrictions in the East End will begin a 60-day trial period, according to a letter submitted to Council by Safety Director James M. Clark.

No parking will be allowed on the east side of Bigelow boulevard from Bayard street to Fifth avenue.

No parking will be allowed on either side of Forbes street from Craig street to Bellefield avenue.

No parking will be allowed on the south side of Forbes street from Bellefield avenue to Bigelow boulevard.

CHANCE TO SEE 'CONDEMNED'

"I have just heard that the readers of the Sun-Telegraph are to see "condemned," Ann Harding, formerly a stock star in Pittsburgh, has wired the Sun-Telegraph. "I remember the many happy days I spent there in stock with my husband, Harry Bannister. I do wish I could be in Pittsburgh to see the picture with you all."

Ann Harding

Ann and her husband played stock at the Nixon Theater several summers ago. She left the city for Hollywood to take part in talkies soon after her company was disbanded.

Ronald Colman, who has the main lead in the film, "Condemned," also wired Sun-Telegraph readers his best regards.

Many Pittsburghers will have the opportunity of seeing Ann Harding and Ronald Colman in "Condemned" as guests of the Sun-Telegraph. Every day a number of names are selected from the city directory and published in the classified columns. People whose names appear are given guest tickets to Loew's Aldine Theater.

NO CASH, THUGS BEAT MAN, 73

Found painfully injured on the sidewalk at South Twenty-third and Carson streets early today, William Hays, 73, said he had been attacked by three thugs.

They stepped out of a cab to rob him, he said, as he was on his way to work in the Jones & Laughlin steel mill. Because he had no money, Hays said the highwaymen gave him a beating.

Passersby took him to St. Joseph's hospital, where his cuts and bruises were treated. He then returned to his residence, the Lutheran Home, Benton avenue, North Side.

Rabbi Wise's Aid Will Lecture Here

Lewis Browne, former rabbi and assistant to Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of New York, author and lecturer, will deliver the fifth lecture of the 1929-30 season at the Y. M. & Y. W. H. A. tonight on "Jews Are Like That." Mr. Browne was associated with Rabbi Wise when he decided to leave the ministry and devote his time to writing. His first work, "Stranger Than Fiction," a history of the Jewish people, has been translated into several European languages. He also wrote "That Man Heine," "This Believing World" and the "Graphic Bible." The lecture is open to the general public.

1,037 DIVORCE CASES HERE

Nearly twice as many divorce cases as jury trials were heard in Common Pleas Court during the first nine months of 1929, according to a report compiled by Chief Clerk R. J. Moore, of Common Pleas Court. There were 1,037 divorce cases and 601 jury trials heard during this period.

More than one-half of the controversies brought before juries were settled amicably, 314 consent verdicts being recorded without concluding trials. The total of cases disposed of during the nine months, including equity cases, nonsuits and settlements, was 2,426. In addition, there were miscellaneous hearings on habeas corpus, quo warranto, guardianship, insolvency and the like.

SQUIRE FACES BEER TRIAL

Justice of the Peace Gilbert J. Martin, of Aleppo Township, was listed for trial today in Federal Court on a charge of violating the national prohibition law. Judge F. P. Schoonmaker denied his motion yesterday for the suppression of seven vats of beer and other ingredients and material designed to manufacture beer as evidence against him.

The alleged contraband was seized July 7 by government prohibition agents when they raided a house owned by Squire Martin, in Kilbuck road. He asked suppression of the property on the ground that it had been seized without a warrant.

When arraigned before the United States commissioner, following the raid, Martin denied ownership or knowledge of the contraband. He said he had leased the house, which is near his home, to John Simon, and had gone to the house the day of the raid expecting to find his tenant in order to collect rent.

MISSING CHILD, MAN SOUGHT

Constables from the office of Justice of the Peace Charles H. Stevenson's office in Coraopolis today were to seek Benjamin Griffiths, of 2015 Texdale street, who disappeared Saturday with his grandson, Benjamin, 4.

Mrs. Ursla Griffiths Saturday was awarded the custody of her four children, who had been with the grandfather, by Judge James B. Drew, but when she went for them she was told "Benjamin was not at home."

Mrs. Griffiths took the other three, James, also 4; Dorothy Lou, 2, and Jane Mary Griffiths, 6 months, with her to her home in Coraopolis, and then went to the justice's office for a warrant to search her father-in-law's home for Benjamin.

She secured the warrant for Griffiths' arrest after they found he had disappeared with the child.

CONTEMPT SUIT DROPPED

A hearing scheduled before Judge Ambrose B. Reid in Common Pleas Court yesterday on a petition by Frank A. Weinstein and Sarah Weinstein, his wife, to cite Clarence L. Saxton, real estate dealer, for contempt for neglect to file an account to them under a court order, was discontinued after Saxton filed the account in the office of Prothonotary John Vogt.

An order by Judge Reid February 16 last decreed that Saxton file within 30 days with the Weinsteins an account of all moneys received and disbursed by him in connection with a trust arising in July, 1926, under which he was to manage and control various properties of the Weinsteins.

The order was stayed pending an appeal to the Superior Court, which was discontinued October 2 last. Judge Reid determined in his order that there had been a breach of trust by Saxton. The properties of the Weinsteins involved in the trust were estimated to value $750,000.

Attorney Ben L. Steinberg, representing the Weinsteins, stated yesterday that after an examination of the account any objections will be made by the filing of exceptions.

Weather Conditions.

There is a well defined low pressure area centered over Northern Texas and Oklahoma with a trough formation protecting northeastward over the Ohio Valley states to Eastern Ontario. The trough is separating a high pressure area off the North Atlantic coast from a marked high centered over Saskatchewan. The Southwest low is producing cloudy weather nearly everywhere east of the Rocky Mountains, and light to moderate rains except over the more northern states where it is snowing. From 9 to 18 inches of snow covers the ground over the border states from Minnesota to Idaho. The Northwest high is causing very low temperatures over the Canadian Northwest, and zero weather as far south as Huron, South Dakota.

FIVE INJURED AS TROLLEY HITS CRANE

Motorman Pinned in Cab After Collision in Tunnel Yards; Inquiry Started

Five persons were injured when a crane car and a Brookline street car collided at a track intersection in the Tunnel yards of the Pittsburgh Railways Company at Knoxville Junction last night.

P. Sylvester, of 504 Taft avenue, motorman of the Brookline car, was pinned in his cab and suffered lacerations of the right arm and leg. Four passengers, Mrs. F. A. Mockert, of 2330 Pioneer avenue; W. V. Bates, of 251 Broadmoor avenue, Mt. Lebanon; Mrs. John Rhea, of 224 Ridgewood avenue, West View, and Mrs. Martha Beck, of Kentucky avenue, Mt. Lebanon, suffered cuts and bruises. They were treated at South Side Hospital and then taken to their homes.

The front end of the passenger car was damaged. Officials of the railways company began an investigation of the crash.

MAD DOG HUNT IN WEST END

A fourth mad dog was sought today in the West End district, where three persons were reported to have been bitten by two animals yesterday.

Frank Dietrich, of 404 Sparta street, was bitten by a dog owned by Mrs. A. G. Schnorr, of 802 Kerr avenue, according to Animal Rescue League officers. The animal is being held at league headquarters, 5717 Kirkwood street, East End, where officials pronounced it mad. A second dog, owned by Mrs. Rose Jones, of 1228 Lewis street, reported to have bitten two persons, was shot yesterday.

The league officers believe a police dog shot by Mort Aitken, of 1568 Banksville road, on December 11, has caused the other dogs' plight. Aitken found the animal attacking his dog tied in the rear yard. It was necessary to kill Aitken's pet due to bites inflicted by the mad dog. The police dog's head was removed to West Penn Hospital where a pronounced case of rabies was found. League officers, Scott Lake and Nickolas Banker were investigating the case.

MASKED BANDIT TRIO ESCAPES WITH $200

Patron Wounded, Proprietor And Clerk Threatened; Safe and Register Looted

Three masked and armed bandits shot a customer, held the proprietor and an assistant of the Columbia Pharmacy, Trenton and Penn avenues, Wilkinsburg, at bay, and escaped with $200 late last night.

The wounded man, Frank Goilma, of 1500 Wood street, Wilkinsburg, was taken to Columbia Hospital nearby.

The same pharmacy was the scene of the fatal shooting of Charles Beattie, 19, of 5116 Kincaide street, by Patrolman Belmont Pugh, in May, 1928. According to Pugh he discovered Beattie and several others attempting to escape. Pugh was found dead with a woman companion in a Frankstown avenue apartment a few months ago.

PATRON WOUNDED

The thugs entered the side door of the pharmacy in Trenton avenue, and covering T. F. McCarthy, of 310 North Graham street, Pittsburgh, and his clerk, Lawrence Obermeier, forced them into a back room. One of the robbers stood guard while his companions ransacked the two cash registers and safe.

Goilma, who was standing near the front of the store, was shot by one of the bandits, who fired at him without warning, the bullet passing through his left foot.

Wilkinsburg police, under Lieut. James Harris, conducted a search for the robbers, who escaped in an automobile that had been parked in Trenton avenue near the pharmacy. The trio was said by police to have sped into Meade street, and into the Brushton district.

'STRIP' SUSPECT SHOT

Penn avenue police today questioned Felix Sywfnski, 19, of 1347 Penn avenue, who was shot by a policeman while fleeing from the wholesale grocery establishment of A. L. Mars & Co., Penn avenue and Eighteenth street, they reported.

Patrolman William Bollman detected Sywinski and three companions attempting to enter the store early Sunday, he said. Seeing the patrolman, they fled, and Bollman opened fire. Sywinski was shot in the back. He is in West Penn Hospital.

RAIL PROJECT GETS HEARING

The Interstate Commerce Commission is conducting a hearing today in Washington on the revival of a project for the building of a 344-mile railroad across Pennsylvania from Pittsburgh to Easton. The hearing today is to be held before Assistant Finance Director C. V. Burnside who is to consider the application of the New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago Railroad, a non-operating company, for permission to build the line.

The general traffic committee of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, which was to report on the revival of the project, will hold up its report until after the hearing. Harry Dangerfield is its chairman.

The plan of the railroad company is to build a new line from Pittsburgh to Easton, which would shorten by 83 miles, the distance from New York to Pittsburgh. It was first proposed by E. H. Harriman, and later taken up by L. F. Loree, railroad executive.

DESERTED, WIFE GETS DIVORCE

Mrs. Jocelyn Lacock Richardson, 27, of 1709 Termon avenue, North Side, interior decorator and student of painting at Carnegie Tech, was granted a divorce from Edward Reynolds Richardson, 30, of 242 Home avenue, Avalon, insurance representative, in a decree by Judge James B. Drew in Common Pleas Court.

They were married November 14, 1922, at Bellevue, and she alleged he deserted her March 16, 1927, and leased their home at 2 Verner Court, North Side.

"He went with people who drank and lived an entirely different life than mine and when I refused to go with him he told me he was going to leave," Mrs. Richardson testified. "I did not believe in going out and staying out all night."

When Richardson left he brought a man the same day to take the lease for the house, so that she had to be out by the end of the month, Mrs. Richardson said.

Bellevue Church To Give Pageant

A Christmas pageant, "The Birthday Gifts," will be given in the Sunday School rooms of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church tomorrow night, under auspices of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. LAW VERSUS CRIME IN ALDINE DRAMA OF BROTHERS

By Clarence E. Grundish

It is brother against brother on the Aldine screen this week in a talkie, "Woman Trap." One brother is on the side of the law, the other on the side of crime. And this crime is no more a paying proposition in the movie than it is in real life. At the finale the erring brother, facing arrest for murder, makes his exit via the suicide route.

Hal Skelly, hero of stage and screen versions of "Burlesque," has one of the brother roles. He represents the law. At first just a pleasant, easy-going "copper," he becomes embittered when affliction strikes his mother, and turns into a fiend for law enforcement. Chester Morris, whose screen demises are becoming habitual, is the bad boy brother.

Tracks Own Brother

A girl figures prominently in the plot and, incidentally, is the inspiration for the title. Blaming Policeman Skelly for "railroading" her brother, played by Leslie Fenton, into a noose, she vows to get even. And she does—by putting the policeman to tracking down his own brother. The girl is portrayed by Evelyn Brent.

Incidentally, the movie-makers have spared the audiences from last-minute prayers and the death house parade. Just a newspaper headline and a clock signifying a fatal hour and you know that Mr. Fenton has finished another screen role. There are lots of barking guns in the film—and melodrama runs wild.

Hours They Begin

HOURS at which feature photoplays begin in first run houses are in accordance with the following time schedule:

Mabel Kroman Brings 'Sis Hopkins' Back to Life And Pleases Pitt Patrons

By GEORGE SEIBEL

THAT venerable gentleman known as Santa Claus came to the Pitt Theater last night and brought George Sharp's players a plaything found in the attic of Thalia's grandmother.

George Seibel

Thalia was the muse of comedy, and when she was young "Sis Hopkins" made Rose Melville rich.

Those were the days when Bartley Campbell was the most dangerous rival of William Shakespeare, and Kate Claxton set the Rialto afire with "The Two Orphans."

Since then we have had Bernard Shaw and "Abie's Irish Rose," and Kaisers have gone the way of bustles, and Lindbergh has made us forget the "One Hoss Shay." But along came "Sis Hopkins" last night, looking very much like Mabel Kroman with pigtails, and made us laugh again, and almost made us cry again.

Her philosophy still sounds good. "It ain't no use doin' nothin' fur nobody, what ain't done nothin' for you," is modern politics.

"Don't trouble trouble till trouble troubles you," is New Thought. And Obadiah Odlum, undertaker, with his book of epitaphs, is the earliest edition of the "Spoon River Anthology."

It carried all of us back to the palmy days of the "gol-darn" school of drama, when the sounds of "Annie Laurie" from an asthmatic violin left no bandanna dry.

Mabel Goes Rural

It is Mabel Kroman's play. She is a comedienne who always lands on her feet, whether she goes rural as in this comedy, or society in something modernish. The spirit of fun is in her impish soul, and she could make a weeping willow shake with merriment.

She has the crudest elements of comedy in "Sis Hopkins." It's a play made out of the raw materials that were used to make plays right after the Civil War. The rickety auto that takes Sis away at the close of act 1 and the allusion to bootleg whisky are transfusions of modern blood that don't go with the millinery and the parlor organ.

There is no mortgage, but there is a similar document, and there is a mad scene, just like in "Virginius," because there had to be a mad scene in every drama of that period. That other good actor, Gus Forbes, who plays with sincerity no matter how small or how absurd his role, almost made us believe that farmers know all about Ophelia and Lucia and similar distinguished samples of mental aberration.

Justice Was Done

The audience liked it, and an enthusiastic spectator behind me remarked "Goody!" when justice was done. Justice, of course, was done to Robert Fiske, who is the official "heavy" of the cast, and has to stand for whatever Justice decrees he deserves. He gets only the cold shoulder in "Sis Hopkins," after a career of forgery and promiscuous love-making as the wicked agent of an unromantic railroad. How can a man whose name is Addison Vibert come to any good end?

There are others in the cast who add mirth or sentiment to the three acts, during which Sis evolutes from pigtails to Harper's Bazar. Catherine Maison, Alice Ann Baker, Lucette Parker, Harland Tucker, and Hugh Banks all had more or less to do in putting over the mouldy pathos or the mossy fun. But to Billy Link and Lucette Parker belongs much honor for a rich musical interlude. And to Mabel Kroman for dancing a tarantella in a devastating fashion.

"Sis Hopkins" was a nice plaything for Santa to bring to the Pitt.

Council Given Offer For Old Music Hall

Louis Alpern has submitted to Council an offer of $3,200 a year on a 10 year term as rent for the former music hall of the Exposition Building which he proposed to use as a garage and automobile storage space. The lease would be revocable upon 60 days notice from the city.

Metrotone Brings Haiti to Talk Screen

The first sound films ever made in the Republic of Haiti are being shown in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. The Hearst Metrotone aerial expedition to South America stopped off at Haiti just before the clash occurred which led to the hasty dispatch of additional United States Marines to the tiny republic. In addition to many interesting scenes the president of Haiti delivers a talk.

Another feature is the presentation of the first sound pictures of man-made lightning. The picture shows how the huge skyscrapers protect the modern cities from the bolts. There are other interesting views also.

In the current issue of Fox Movietone News, the open golf journey in Hawaii, won by Craig Wood and participated in by Horton Smith, Gene Sarazen and many other Americans, is recorded. The big parade at Washington and the enormous petition signed by thousands in all walks of life, urging Congress to reduce taxes on earned income, also is presented. Senator Reed Smoot, head of the Finance Committee, in a speech made on the Capitol steps, promises action on this important petition which was backed by the Hearst newspapers. Mexico's president-elect and his family are shown upon their arrival in New York.

SHERLOCK IS BACK TO FOIL MORIARITY IN PENN PICTURE

Watson on the Job

Dr. Watson, without whom Sherlock would be unthinkable, is there as usual, and rather more than usual, being played by that real actor, H. Reeves-Smith. Another player of excellent quality is Hubert Druce, who puts British pomposity into Sergt. Gripper.

As for the plot in this "Return of Sherlock Holmes," it is enough to say that there is a murder, desperate and diabolical, and that Sherlock comes into the case quite naturally as a wedding guest. He pursues his prey across the Atlantic, and the scenes aboard the liner are very well done.

Pipe Doesn't Go Out

To sum it up, Holmes doesn't let his pipe go out until the last thrill is put across. He adopts all the latest resources of detection, even using a dictaphone to help out his deductions, and the device by which he finds Moriarity's cabin in the dark is particularly ingenious. Nick Carter, Old Cap Collier, and Old Ironsides should see this picture to find out what progress has been made in their craft.

Another Clever Dog

But if Holmes is a clever dog, the Gaudsmith Brothers have another one to help them in their humorous acrobatics. It is to be hoped they will read this notice to their canine colleague, who will surely understand and appreciate the compliment.

Another pair of brothers, the Rios, do some agile eccentric dancing, and there's a girl whose tap dancing won the plentiful applause it deserved. Nat Nazarro, Elias Breeskin and Dick Leibert officiated as usual and received the usual recognition. A charming waltz number, "Mandalay," stirringly jazzed, and a picturesque drum tableau also stand out in the attractive bill.

ETHEL BARRYMORE AND FIELDS NEXT

Seats are on sale in the box office of the Nixon for next week's attraction, W. C. Fields in "Earl Carroll Vanities," with Dorothy Britton, "Miss Universe." This revue will play at the Nixon for one week only, and there will be matinees Wednesday (Christmas Day) and Saturday.

"The Kingdom of God," G. Martinez Sierra's Spanish play which Ethel Barrymore is to act in the Shubert Alvin next week, requires a cast of 50 players. The role Miss Barrymore plays is the only one seen in all three acts of the drama.

Harland Tucker will play the title role of "The Barker," coming to the Pitt next week. Mr. Tucker will appear in the role portrayed by Walter Huston in the original stage production, and by Milton Sills in the talking picture version of the same play.

Will Ahern Offers One About the Scotchman; Lake Doesn't Get Bridge

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17.

IF YOU'VE heard it before—skip. At all events Will (Comedian) Ahern claims to know a Scotchman who spilled a bottle of iodine and immediately cut his finger.

A buxom female, worried by the talkies, asked Eddie Lowe to suggest a trainer. Eddie suggested Jack Dempsey's erstwhile trainer, Jerry the Greek.

Stan Laurel was persuaded to enter the studio golf tournament. Charlie Chase donated the cup. Oliver Hardy also entered. Stan was given 30 points handicap for the 18 holes. He used 15 of 'em to get off the first. He made the 18 in 186. Stan says fishing is his sport. "Yeah?" donates Hardy. "And all you catch is mackarel. I bet if you got lost in a goldfish bowl you'd bring up a mackarel."

Eddie Lowe.

A "Penny" Actor

AN author chap asked Wilson (Brown Derby) Mizner if he was going to do any more writing for the screen. Wilson snorted. He says it's easier to get a chop in a producer's head than an idea!

Mary (Broadway musical comedy star) Lawlor, who will sing the lead in M. G. M.'s "Good News," recollects the day she was rated a penny actor. She was playing in Corse Payton's stock company in Utica, N. Y. Payton made a curtain speech and in his enthusiasm (?) boomed: "Think of it, my friends. Just think what I am giving you for 30 cents. A great play with 30 actors. Only a penny an actor!"

Arthur Lake.

El ("Sunny Side Up") Brendel and his wife got in one of those friendly lil' poker games and proceeded to lose their shirts from the start. Came the biggest pot of the night. After a succession of raises, Brendel's wife called the opener, at the same time laying four aces on the table. "For heaven's sake, Flo," Brendel cried. "Why did you call with that hand?" "Well," retorted his better half, "I thought I'd win, but I didn't want to break another dime!"

Fifty Page Contract

A MAGAZINE scribe remarked t'other day that Charlie (Black Crow) Mack was acting a bit temperamental these days. "It's in his contract," opined one who had heard all about Mack's 50-page ironsides agreement with Famous Players.

Norma Talmadge

Speaking of contracts, Edgar McGregor, a stage director imported from Broadway, has a clause in his that will permit him to depart town—come what may—next spring. He has a son graduating from Annapolis.

The entire Talmadge family has trekked to Lake Tahoe for a week or two of winter sports, the family including: Mrs. (Peg) Talmadge, Norma, Connie, T. Netcher, Gilbert Roland and the Buster Keatons. Norma isn't slated to begin her next outloud, "Du Barry," until January 15.

You should see OTTO BEFORE CHRISTMAS

Fit it in somewhere . . . An hour with Otto and the whole season will seem gayer because of it! You actually enjoy "giving" more, if you look your best. + When Otto studies you, he immediately brings out that distinguishing "something" you have seen in yourself on occasions. + European trained . . . recently of the Ritz-Carlton in New York—he knows exactly how to make you look your best. It may be only the placing of a wave in your shining hair. Or the trim of your growing-out bob. It may be a new angle for your neat knot or perhaps a perfect permanent wave . . . + And once Otto has discovered how to play up your charm you can keep on being your loveliest forever and ever! Otto is in Pittsburgh to stay. At your own Terminal Beauty Salon in the William Penn Hotel. A telephone call will give you an appointment with Otto. And for a really Merry Christmas . . . make it this week. There is no extra fee for the services of this artist.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgher Engaged In East

EVEN Cupid has been aroused from his lethargy by the Yuletide season with its mistletoe and holly and pine. And his gifts to the social world this Christmas are many engagements of exceptional importance and weddings, too.

From the East comes one engagement. Prof. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Wertenbaker, of Princeton University, announce the betrothal of their sister, Elizabeth Glass Marshall of Lexington, Ky., to William Mackie Swan, son of Mrs. Robert Swan, of Walnut street.

And I know of still another engagement that of one of the prominent members of the younger set. The Frank Adair Leovys, of Beechwood boulevard, announce the engagement of their daughter Elizabeth Monroe Leovy, to Roberdeau Green Annan, son of the Roberdeau Annans of Cumberland, Md.

AND one group that will surely make merry during the Christmastide is the college set. An attractive addition to the school set parties is a dinner dance the Theodore Whiteheads of Farragut street will give in the Rittenhouse New Year's night in honor of their son, Ralph Carroll Whitehead, who is a student at Swarthmore.

AND throughout the holiday season members of the younger set will be going east to attend weddings and be members of wedding parties.

John Kennedy Beeson, son of the Charles E. Beesons, of Morewood avenue, will be one of the ushers at the wedding of Sarah Jean Baker, daughter of the William H. Bakers, of Montclair, N. J., and David Lidsay, Jr., of Wilmington, Del. And the wedding will take place January 11 at 4:30 o'clock in St. Luke's Church, Montclair, with a reception following in the Montclair Golf Club.

JOSEPH H. BIALAS of Pittsburgh, needless to add, will be an usher at the wedding of Bernice Chrysler, daughter of the Walter P. Chryslers, of New York, and Edgar William Garbisch, which will take place January 4 in St. Bartholomew's Church, Park avenue, New York.

Norbert S. Garbisch, of Butler, will be his brother's best man. And after the wedding there'll be a reception at Sherry's.

ANOTHER of our charming debutantes made her bow last night, Mary Black, daughter of Mrs. John L. Black, formerly of Pittsburgh, who was presented to society at a dinner dance her aunt, Mrs. Frank Nicholson Black, gave in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

Yellow pompons and roses and the deb's gift bouquets were arranged against a background of cibotium fern and palms.

The bud wore a gown of white crepe, made very long, with the skirt scalloped at the hemline, and gardenias. Her aunt was in black transparent velvet, and her mother in silver lame.

ANOTHER debutante event added to the Yuletide season is a breakfast Mrs. George W. J. Bissell will give on December 24 in her home for Mary Wharton Knox, daughter of the Roger Knoxes.

TODAY in the University Club, Mrs. Charles Heinroth is giving a luncheon for Mrs. Oliver S. Hershman. And among the guests are Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, Mrs. Lawrence Litchfield, Mrs. Arthur B. Siviter, Mrs. Joseph W. Marsh, Mrs. E. T. Whiter, Mrs. Edmund W. Mudge and Mrs. Frederic Schaefer.

THE faculty of Business High School is giving a reception and tea this afternoon in the Woman's City Club rooms, William Penn Hotel, for the principal, D. D. Lessenberry, and Mrs. Lessenberry. A program of Christmas carols and violin numbers will be given by Sarah Jones, violinist; Betty Gray, contralto, and Bess Marie Elliott, accompanist.

MEMBERS of the University of Pittsburgh Young Women's Christian Association will entertain 50 children from the Soho Day Nursery at a Christmas party to be held in the Heinz House tomorrow afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock. Following the party the members will meet for supper in the Heinz House and sing carols. They will visit the Children's Hospital, the School for the Blind and the homes of Chancellor G. Bowman and Miss Thyrsa W. Amos, dean of women.

THE University of Pittsburgh's annual Yuletide festival dance will be an informal event of this evening in the Hotel Schenley. Special guests who have been invited to attend include Dr. and Mrs. John Gabbert Bowman, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Black Linhart, Mr. and Mrs. J. Steele Gow, Mr. and Mrs. John Gilbert Quick, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Clothier, Miss Thyrsa W. Amos, Dr. and Mrs. Lee Paul Sieg, Dr. and Mrs. Elmer Allen Holbrook, Dr. and Mrs. Louis Kenneth Manley, Dr. and Mrs. Grover Henry Alderman, Dr. and Mrs. Raleigh Russell Huggins, Dr. and Mrs. Julius Arnold Koch, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Edmund Friesell and Walter James Rome.

MR. AND MRS. C. J. CASPAR entertained a number of friends at a dinner dance on Saturday evening in the red room of the Keystone Athletic Club. About 24 guests were present.

THE sixth annual inter-collegiate ball will be held as usual on Christmas night in the William Penn Hotel ballroom. There will also be dancing in the Urban room with two orchestras furnishing the music.

Students from Penn State, the University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Washington and Jefferson College, Bethany, Thiel, Duquesne and Allegheny will attend.

ELIZABETH M. LEOVY

Miss Leovy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adair Leovy, whose engagement to Roberdeau Green Annan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roberdeau Annan, Cumberland, Md., is announced today.

Dickensians Hold Yule Dinner

THE Dickens Fellowship's annual Christmas dinner in the Fort Pitt Hotel last night was a most delightful affair and was marked by an original program. Mrs. Sara C. Pettit had written a new sketch around which was given an exhibition of Mrs. Jarley's Wax Works, Mrs. Pettit herself enacting the famous Mrs. Jarley. W. M. Brown was George, Miss Sophie Keenan was Miss Monflathers, Eloise Howard was Little Nell, Charles L. Wilson, president of the Fellowship, was her grandfather, and the "young ladies of Miss Monflathers' select school" were Mrs. Chester B. Story, Mrs. Louis Duva, Mrs. Elizabeth Reeve and Mrs. E. W. Whited.

Cromwell, William Penn, Mary, Queen of Scots, Henry VIII, Napoleon, Lady McBeth and Bluebeard were among the famous personages exhibited in the wax works, among the "figures" being L. C. Edgar, C. L. Wilson, R. P. Jackson, T. C. Clifford, Mrs. Clifford, Miss Lois Clifford, Mrs. J. G. Hays, Mrs. Janet Reisfar, Mrs. Brabazon Rutherfoord, Mrs. V. Q. Hickman, Mrs. C. D. Claney, Sydney K. Easterwood and Mrs. Story.

Tableaux arranged from the books which the Fellowship has studied were also a part of the program. These included scenes from Pickwick Papers, Oliver Twist, Tale of Two Cities, Nicholas Nickleby, Bleak House, Hard Times, Barnaby Rudge and Christmas Carols. In addition to those who took part in the waxworks there appeared in the tableaux Brabazon Rutherfoord, Arthur Jordan, C. D. Claney, Mrs. Florence W. Fairman, E. W. Whited and Mrs. W. M. Brown.

THE Christmas meeting of the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club will take the form of a luncheon at the Congress of Clubs Saturday at 12 o'clock. The juniors will take charge of the affair and will give the program, plans for which are being kept secret that it may be a surprise. Mrs. Walter W. Allen, junior chairman, is supervising. A sale of candy and fancy articles will be conducted in conjunction with the luncheon.

THE Liberty Parent-Teacher Association is planning its community Christmas on an elaborate scale. The 900 students of the school will sing carols around the Christmas tree, which will be on the school grounds, the Rev. Dr. David Lang offering the invocation and Dr. William M. Davidson making an address. During the indoor exercises Miss Grace Evans will sing, accompanied by Miss Marie Means, and the P. T. A. Santa Claus will present each pupil with a gift.

TOYS for the Toy Mission will be brought to the Christmas dinner of the Women's Press Club in the Woman's City Club Saturday evening. Reservations for the affair are to be made at the City Club not later than Friday. Mrs. Albert J. Dawson, Miss Cath rine M. Patterson, Mrs. Charles M. Bregg and Mrs. Anne Ryan Lesh are in charge.

A SURPRISE program in charge of the program committee is being arranged for the Christmas luncheon of the Aspinwall Woman's Club, to take place Thursday in the clubhouse. Mrs. W. G. Snyder is taking reservations. Children of the grade and Junior high schools will give the pageant, "Why the Chimes Rang," on Friday night at the club's community Christmas, which will be an event of Friday night in the high school. The high school students, under the direction of Miss Edna Keffer, will furnish music and there will be community singing led by T. D. Keboch. The welfare committee, under Mrs. B. G. Bealor, will take charge of gifts for the Toy Mission, which have been requested.

ITS annual Christmas pageant will be given tomorrow evening by the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church. The Bellevue Round Table Quartet will sing Christmas numbers, Angie Holman will tell a Christmas story and the pageant, "The Birthday Gifts," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Emily M. Ashcroft. In the cast will be Mrs. S. L. Hosack, Helen Wicks, Betsy Hesse, Marian Urmy, Mrs. Edna Todd Batz, Christine Noll, Alma Walker, Mrs. C. D. Morneweck, Annetta Bauer, Sarah Wrenshall, Patsy Shephard, Nancy Caughey, Dorothy Whitehead, Jewel Hesse, Virginia May Delp, Mary Frances Brice, Virginia Cotton and Martha Ellen Ashcroft.

THE Christmas tree, holly and mistletoe, bayberry, ground pine, laurel and rhododendron and artificial Christmas greens will be discussed in the round-table on Christmas which will feature Thursday evening's feature of the Nature Study Club. Miss Myrtle Sexauer, Miss Mary Weibel, Miss May Armour, Miss Rene Cox, Miss Mildred Reese and Miss Elizabeth Stevenson will present the various topics. A board meeting at 5 o'clock will precede the general meeting, which will be a dinner session at the Congress of Clubs.

* * *

MRS. W. M. PARRISH, of Brekenridge street, will entertain the literary group of the Pitt Women's Association tomorrow. An open forum will follow the program on "What I Have Read."

CLUB NOTES

AT the Christmas service tomorrow morning at Pennsylvania College for Women the speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Robert MacGowan, of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church. Music will be provided by John Dickson Fulton, tenor; Miss Alice Goodell, organist, and the glee club under the direction of Mrs. Maybell Davis Rockwell. Miss Cora Helen Coolidge, president of the school, will read the Scripture.

Thursday night there will be a Christmas dinner for all house students in the new Woodland Hall dining room, and the following day, Friday, the Christmas vacation will begin. School will reopen January 7.

"AREQUIPA, CITY OF THE STARS," "The Tibet of South America," and "Some Cities of Bolivia" were the subjects studied yesterday by the Monday Club of Carnegie at its meeting in the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. George McFarland, Mrs. P. W. Greasel and Mrs. J. H. Duff were assigned the papers, but Mrs. Duff's was read by Mrs. J. C. Altland. The Monday Club Quartet sang and Mrs. Oliver W. Heck contributed a solo. Mrs. W. W. Andrews accompanying. Mrs. William Davis was hostess for the meeting and Mrs. W. J. Connelly, leader.

THE Bellevue Outlook Club had its Christmas party yesterday in the home of Mrs. H. E. Wolf, North Euclid avenue, Mrs. J. M. Doremus assisting the hostess. A playlet, "Christmas Dinner for One," was presented by the drama committee and carols were sung by the club trio, Mrs. C. B. Elste, Mrs. Wolf and Mrs. Andrew Bell.

* * *

BY way of their papers yesterday afternoon, the Tourists journeyed through Northern Africa, "Skirting the Shores of Sunrise," with Mrs. A. V. Crookston, going "From Cairo to Omdurman" with Miss Anna Maffett and having "An Audience with the Empress of Ethiopia" under Mrs. E. L. Thomssen. Music was furnished by Mrs. Lena Powell Walkinshaw.

THE December meeting of the Bradford Woods Civic Club will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. J. Charles Runk, on Thursday, when breakfast will be served. Mrs. Ray Marter assisting the hostess. Miss Helen Harris will tell of the work and activities at Kingsley House. The members are to bring gifts for the Toy Mission. The club choral, under the leadership of Mrs. A. B. Chandler, will sing carols.

ELECTION of officers by the Social Order of the Beauceant has resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Robert T. Alexandria; vice presidents, Mrs. Philip F. Hoffman, Mrs. Emil F. Nelson; preceptress, Mrs. John F. Beckett; recorder, Mrs. Robert W. Beattie; treasurer, Mrs. August F. Earnest.

ABOUT 350 of the city's sightless people and their guides are expected at the Christmas party to be given Saturday in Trinity parish house by the Social Service Committee of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind. Assembly carol music by an orchestra and other program features by the guests themselves will form the afternoon's entertainment.

ATELIER SKETCHES LATEST MODE IN DINNER FROCKS

Sketched in Paris

PARIS, Dec. 17.—The old black tulle isn't what it used to be. Nor, for that matter, is the old black lace or georgette. Of course, you find easy to guess that we are referring to the little old black dinner dress, generally of sheer material that often did duty for two or more seasons at unimportant affairs, and was known as that "little rag of a frock that I just haven't the heart to discard." And if you were a believer in sartorial reincarnation, you generally had it made over for another lease of life.

But now, the little dinner dress has become a dress of much importance, and so radical is the change of styles this season, that there is absolutely no chance for sentiment or economy to prevail when planning the wardrobe. The only economy that can be effected is to buy sensibly and be guided by the advice of those who are able to sift the grain from the chaff in the fashion harvest that has been gathered this season.

LITTLE dinner dresses are an important feature of the new Philippe et Gaston collection, and we have had one of the smartest of them sketched for you. It is of black georgette and lace, the delicate, cobwebby lace making the long sleeves and "V" shaped decolletage, likewise the circular godets which form the lower part of the skirt. Vertical, applied bands on the skirt and the loose hanging scarf at the back of the bodice give length of line to the figure, an important point of the mode just now.

THE hat here shown is a Lewis model, of very new design. It is of black satin which is pulled tightly over the top of the head and draped in flat folds. Low at each side it is shirred into graceful loops to form the top of the forehead, a group of vertical darts is used. The Molyneux bag is large—about twelve inches in width. Huge rectangular handles in heavy transparent crystal form an interesting top to the bag which is of broadtail. The afternoon purse which is a Patou model is of plum colored velvet, with the flap shirred and fastened beneath a carved medallion of coral.

CHAPTER XXXV.

GUY looked with thanks into the clear eyes of Lee Templeton. The boy loved Pat. And he came to Guy, whom Pat had chosen above him; came and asked what Guy would wish, what he would do if free.

It touched Guy; he could have wept.

Lee's face, the face of a young god had a white, anxious solemnity. "I said that you said you could find her."

Yes, Guy had said this. They used the statement against him. They said he KNEW where Pat and the child were hidden.

"I've a plane and an air-mail pilot. We can start immediately. Which of all the rumors would you follow?"

Which indeed! Where in all the trackless heavens was the clue? Guy had torn himself to pieces with the harrowing query. All week rumors had flown about. From the south, from north, from the valleys and the mountains came hot tips of stranded planes and runaway planes.

The snow-capped Sierras were searched and a thousand miles of grazing land were combed because a cattleman had heard a plane flying in the dark that Monday night. All the airways of the skies were tracked. The lost girl and the kidnaped child were swallowed in impenetrable mystery.

Where now should one look? These two who would have given up their lives for Pat stood helpless staring into the bitter silence which had closed upon the girl.

Said Guy slowly: "I could only do what all the others have done. Fly blind and pray. I think I COULD find her. But it's madness—it's desperation that makes me feel that. There's one REAL hope. Pat could use the radio. Send a call everywhere. Ask if any remote station, if any amateur anywhere has picked up an S. O. S. signed 'Pat.' I told them to be on the watch for this. They say no word has come. But try—try that again. If Pat is in the plane; if she can reach the radio, she'll call. I KNOW she will!"

He leaned against the bars and watched Lee Templeton go with that young, boyish, reassuring smile. He looked so young, so beautifully clean and young. "God," whispered Guy. "Let him find her!"

Again and again, Guy visioned Pat's face in that moment of terror when she would have learned that another and not he drove the plane. He grew weak, sensing her panic. Eight days she had suffered this. God, what those eight days might have meant!

How she must have watched the skies, how her heart must have jumped if she heard in the distance the whirr of planes. Had any of the hundred rescue ships flown near to Pat's prison? Had they, perhaps, sailed just overhead, and not seeing her, sailed away again?

This was another of his cruel, torturing dreams. He lived in imagination the anguish Pat must be enduring.

In the moonlight's delicate silver, Pat had seen the treetops and the dim, blue outline of the hills. For a moment in this same poetic light, she had looked in a man's face. The next instant, the black pipe in his clenched fist whanged on her forehead.

A night in which she knew nothing; vague hours when she tried to beat a way up from this pool of throbbing, unbearable pain.

Darkness, pain and a rushing undercurrent of fear. This fear, even in her semi-consciousness, came storming and warm against her mind. It sucked her down.

She felt herself struggling to get free. On the borderline of thought she kept dropping back; down and down into this black pool of fright.

Voices came to her and a muffled stirring to and fro—a vague commotion. Suddenly, with flaming panic, Pat was aware of herself and of others . . . of two men moving about very near to her.

"Don't need to. She's completely out."

Pat lay perfectly still. The men opened the door of the cabin. They brought in cans and stacked them. They went out.

Pat opened her eyes. There was a dim, nebulous light—the first light of dawn. She saw the men moving in this—swift, silent, ghostly.

With choking heart, Pat wondered where she was—what chance to fly. She half crouched on her elbow, half pulled herself upright when one of the men spoke about. Almost as though he read her thought.

She dropped back to the bench. But he came and stood over her. He stooped down and peered in Pat's face. He pulled open her eyelids, pushed her further into the corner, stacked more cans in the cabin.

They were [illegible] of gasoline.

Now he climbed into the cockpit. Now the motor was started. Now they were taking off.

Rising again! Soaring into wild, impenetrable mystery. She cried out: "God, oh, God!" She called in loud desolation. Her voice went down in the roar of the engine. But still she cried. She stood up and screamed piteously.

The men in the cockpit did not even turn. Then Pat huddled in a corner and, frantic, repeated over and over: "Oh, mother—oh, God!"

As though her shouting, her desperate sobs would halt these mad, flying miles—miles that went plunging between her and all things she knew and loved.

Suddenly words stuck in her throat. And she cowered with a strange, creepy, utterly haunting sensation. Something moved against her flesh. She reached out and gingerly touched a bundle that lay on the seat beside her. The bundle moved under her hand. The bundle was alive.

She was starkly alert now, her pulses leaping with terror. Crimes she had read about flashed into her mind. "Then I took a piece of cold steel and hit him on the head. We hid the body in the culvert." And that other: "I kept her two days. Then I came up behind her and threw the towel over her face. I pulled it until she grew quiet!"

These horrible phrases made her cringe. And her heart went with striking thumps high in her throat. The bundle moved again.

"It's little," she thought, keeping her eyes straight ahead and trying resolutely to ignore the mysterious, animated object wrapped in a blanket and lying there on the bench, so close that she felt its every quiver.

Now, mingled with the roar of the engine, she fancied she heard cries. And now, forced in spite of herself to stare at it, she saw protruding from the opposite end of the blanket, the top of a human head. Surely a head! Surely that was soft, human hair.

She was about to reach out and pull down the blanket when one of the men stepped from the cockpit into the cabin. He was tall and thin. He had a lean, strong jaw and cold, piercing eyes. What daunted Pat was his mouth, his grim, unscrupulous mouth.

He looked straight into her eyes, went to the corner where Guy had the radio and attached the tubes to his ears. He sat with his legs crossed, listening intently, but his glance never moving from Pat's face.

She grew used to his presence. Impelled by a sudden recklessness, she leaned forward and shouted: "Where are we going?"

He appeared not to have heard, though he knew from the movement of her lips what she asked. He continued sitting there. Hours—long, appalling hours, they seemed to Pat. Occasionally a faint, triumphant smile lit up his scornful face.

What word was flashing over the radio? What news that cheered him in this bold, incredible crime? Surely the wires of a dozen states must be hot with inquiries for the vanished Patricia Dawn. How frantic Laura would grow as the hours piled up between them?

Pat glanced at her watch. Eleven o'clock. This must be 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. A thousand miles might already lie between her and home. She might never see the loved ones again.

They flew on, cutting with clamor and tumult over vast, undulating reaches of meadow land. In the distance were blue peaks luminous in the sun. She had no idea where they were, north or south, whether this was California or whether in the night they had crossed the borders of the state. Great, swinging valleys unrolled beneath them. The farms looked like bunches of parsley and the cows were brightly painted little toy cattle meandering down the hills.

In those farms were contented folk, sitting down to the mid-day meal now. If she could but scream down to them. Or if they, looking up, could but guess the fearful unknown doom to which she was plunging.

She seemed to have been flying years through this droning roar. All the while aware sickeningly aware of the blanketed form moving so uneasily against her side. She made out the contour of the head and wondered if it were a child. Whose child? What do these evil fellows plan? Would they make away with it? And with her? She stared into clear blue heavens, her very veins dilated with fright.

All at once Pat sat bolt upright. In the same lightning instant the man at the radio pulled the tubes from his ears and jumped to the cockpit.

There, sweeping right upon—flashing in the crystalline sky was a plane. Two planes! Great, white-gleaming birds.

Pat pressed her face to the window. She trembled wildly. She said aloud, and sobbing: "Look! Oh, God—they gain!"

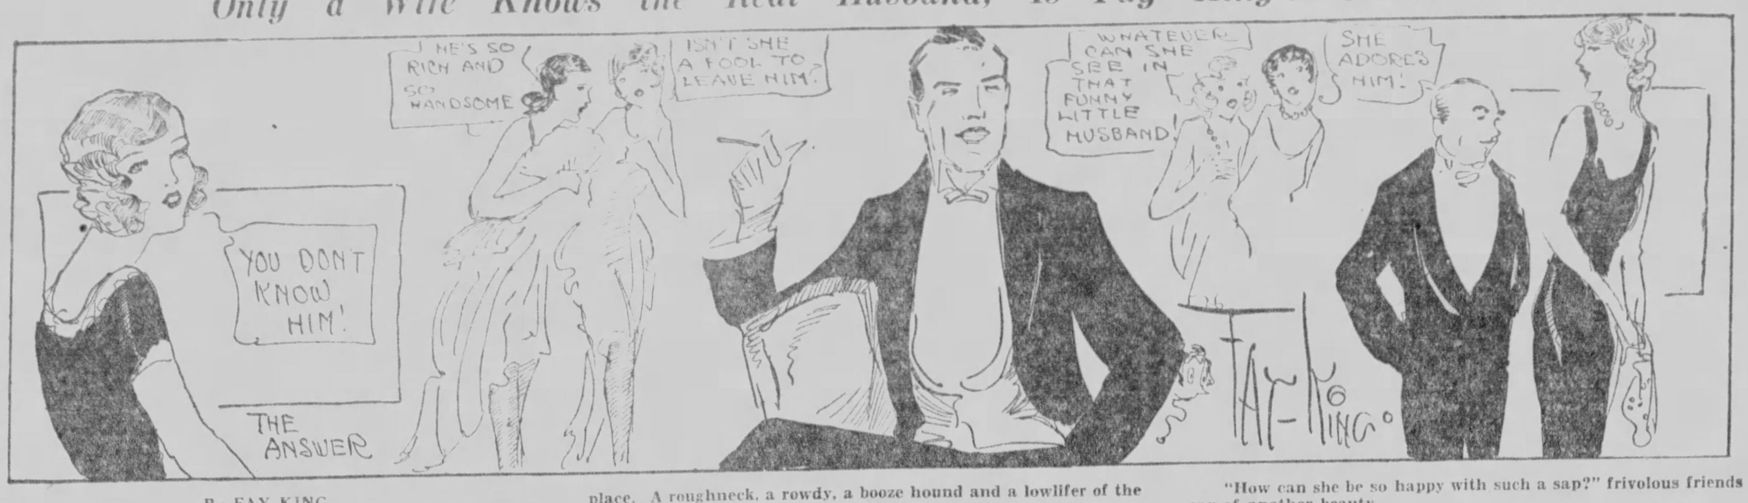
Only a Wife Knows the Real Husband, Is Fay King's Observation



By FAY KING

HER socially ambitious friends cannot imagine what she is about, to leave and divorce her handsome, rich hubsand.

"You don't know him," is the answer.

He is actually nothing more than a Hooligan born to a high place. A roughneck, a rowdy, a booze hound and a lowlifer of the worst kind.

His name may be in the social register, but if it weren't for family pull and purse it would be on the police blotter.

"How can she be so happy with such a sap?" frivolous friends say of another beauty.

"You don't know him," is the answer again.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Princess Olina Is Resentful of Color Scheme

FOR an instant after Princess Olina's ultimatum concerning the flowers I had brought her, I felt a fleeting sympathy with the canaille of the French Revolution. There must have been a certain satisfaction in applying the guillotine to the necks of insolent royalty. Then I crushed down all resentment and steeled myself to deal with the situation she had thrust upon me. She was gowned in a striking but most inappropriately elaborate gown of cream lace and crimson brocade. She was right I knew. Only roses with the glow of the ruby at their hearts should be worn with such a gown, but I had a sudden dismaying vision of the discordant note which that decided color would strike at my carefully planned dinner table.

"But—" I said, "you told me that you were going to wear a gold-colored dress."

"Yes, I know," she said impatiently. "But I didn't know then that Mary was going to wear that gown." She swept her hand toward Mary standing before the dressing table, involuntarily smiling at her own lovely reflection as she fastened the corsage which I had handed her. "What difference does it make? Can't I send out for some crimson roses for a corsage?"

"If you will come with me for a moment," I said quietly, "I will show you why I think you will prefer some other gown."

She looked at me resentfully for a second, then nodded.

"Very well," she said, and I preceded her into the living room.

"When you realize that all the other gowns either are variations of this color or blend with it——" I began.

She threw up her head and looked at me with haughty resentment.

"I did not know," she said coldly, "that you had built this dinner around Mary's gown—Why?"

She shot the question at me with sudden fierce suspicion, and I caught my breath in dismay. She must not guess! I took refuge in evasion.

"Don't you think a more plausible explanation is that Mary chose the gown because it fitted in with the color scheme?" I asked quietly, hoping that my coolly indifferent tone might give her the denial I did not wish to make outright.

The explanation satisfied her. I saw that relievedly as her eyes lost their fierce questioning. She took another look at the table, and turned back to me.

"This leaves me no alternative," she said, still with hauteur. "I cannot possibly wear this gown. Will I have time to change?"

"Of course," I said heartily. "You really are the guest of honor, you know. We can wait indefinitely for you."

She smiled, inscrutably, and I knew that she was thinking of the announcement of her engagement to Noel which the young violinist, under my instruction, had asked her to have announced at this "house-warming" dinner. We had played our cards so carefully that she thought no one but herself, Noel and Harry Underwood, in whom Noel had told her he had confided, knew of her bethrothal. And Prince Georges was equally certain that Dicky and I were Mary's only confidants.

For a second I felt a little guilty at the game we were playing, with our young royal guests as pawns. Then my common sense came to my aid, and I told myself that in reality we were doing them both the greatest service possible. If we could show them their own hearts—for I believed that unknown to themselves they had an attraction for each other greater than their respective infatuations for Mary and Noel—we could bring a romantic episode to a close with no bitter memories and no unfortunate fastening of ties which inevitably must later be broken.

"Will you look at my gowns?" Princess Olina's voice cut short my introspection. "It is hard for me to decide which one to wear."

I told myself a little grimly that the rest of us had no such problem, but my response was prompt.

"Why not let the roses decide?" I countered, and later in her room helped her get into an exquisite creation of gold satin with a single strap of pearls against which the corsage of creamy roses with their golden hearts glowed vividly. Her dark beauty should have dwarfed Mary, but I saw with elation that Dicky's young niece was the lovelier of the two. It was a verdict which I saw reflected a few moments later in Noel Veritzen's eyes when he came into the Underwood's living room with his father. With a little feeling of panic I glanced at the boy's father. Had he seen that glance of love and longing and read it aright?

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

What to Give the Boy Friend.

HALF the women in the world are lying awake nights, wondering what they will GET from the man of the hour, for Christmas. And the other half are lying awake nights, wondering what they will GIVE him.

Both are wasting a lot of valuable time and beauty sleep.

The only woman who ever gets what she wants and has been expecting and hunting for, is the married woman, who goes out and buys it, and charges it up to Daddy.

And the only way to please a man with a Christmas gift is to refrain from sending him one.

HELEN ROWLAND

The only thing to give him, that will delight and surprise him, is a day of rest—and the peaceful assurance that, as far as YOU are concerned, he is exempt from holiday junk and from writing a "thank you" note.

This does not apply to a husband or a fiance, of course. They must take their medicine and try to grin and bear it. But why should the Boy Friend, the temporary crush and the platonic friend be afflicted with sentimental reminders — cigar lighters that may never work, cravats they may never wear and pipes they will never smoke or books they will never read—from women whom they have never lifted their hands to harm?

There is something about a present from a WOMAN that either covers a man with hot embarrassment, or fills him with cold freight and resentment. The one thing on earth that it never fills him with is GRATITUDE!

A man simply cannot understand how a woman FEELS about Christmas.

To her, it is the Day of Days, when she just wells up and bubbles over with sentiment. There is something sacred and beautiful about it, something magic about it, that sets her heart a-beating and her blood a-tingling and causes her to spill over with tenderness.

More feminine hearts have been broken by a man's forgetfulness, or prosaic indifference on this day, than on all the other 364 days of the year.

But at this time, a man is the stronger vessel filled with suspicion. He looks upon every gift from a woman, even the most innocent little remembrance, as either a bore, a bid, or snare. You just CAN'T please him!

He is so wary and distrustful that he can see the "hook" inside a pair of motor-gloves and feel the bait in the pocket of an imported smoking coat.

The holiday cravat, even when it happens to be his favorite color, feels just like a noose around his neck; and even the home-made cake doesn't rouse his appetite, but merely his suspicion that you are trying to advertise your sweet, domestic accomplishments.

Santa Claus is a man's favorite role; and when a woman steals his stuff, he feels exactly as though his partner had trumped his ace. The only way to make a man happy with a Christmas gift, is not to send him any!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Seek Hay Fever Relief During Off Season

TOO many people the flowers of the summer and fall offer nothing short of torture. I speak of the sufferers from hay fever. At this time of year there may be no trouble, but with the return of spring will come the uncomfortable symptoms.

DR. COPELAND

A person who otherwise enjoys perfect health may be made completely miserable for months because of this annoying disease. Its effects may last all winter. To be sure, many of the sufferers from both hay fever and asthma have other symptoms of ill health.

If you are one of these unfortunates, set about it immediately to determine the condition of your nose. There may be some irritable point or some abnormal nasal obstruction. This in itself is sure to aggravate the hay fever. Go to your doctor and have him examine the nasal passages throughly with this idea in view.

When the underlying condition has been determined it is quite possible that a few treatments will add much to your comfort and lessen the attacks of hay fever you may have next year and thereafter. Begin now to get rid of the trouble.

Just what is the cause of this affliction is a much discussed question. The exciting cause in many instances appears to be pollen. Its chemical and mechanical characteristics are such that it may irritate the mucous membrane of the nose and eyes. Sensitive persons may be affected by more than one variety of pollen.

The hay fever of late summer and early fall is excited by the pollen from weeds. It is said that 85 per cent of cases are due to ragweed. The wind carries the pollen of small flowers and weeds. It is also carried by insects.

Local treatments are usually given by the specialist, and the removal of any growth in the nose is advisable. Frequent spraying with a good antiseptic solution helps much. Special treatments with serum have a markedly good effect in many cases.

For patients who can change their places of residence, even for a part of the season, it is often most advantageous to do so. In the East, the Adirondacks and the White Mountains are highly beneficial. There are healthful sections in many parts of North America. To get into a bracing climate and away from the pollen of vegetation is the surest cure for this aggravating trouble.

I am not satisfied to leave the subject here. As a matter of fact, a lot of helpful research is being done. As in the case of asthma and hives, studies are being made to see if some form of food poisoning may be an element in promoting hay fever.

The "foreign protein"—that is, the particular poison in the food or in the pollen—is being sought for and will surely be found. We have much to learn in this field.

I have purposely discussed hay fever in an "off season," to set you thinking about it. Talk with your doctor about your uncomfortable ailment. He will advise you to have the various tests made in order that the thing which marks a point of low resistance in your body, may be discovered and removed.

Don't wait until the attack comes. Attend to the preliminaries now.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, December 18.

ACCORDING to the lunar transits, sustained by the evil configuration between Mercury and Uranus, a hostile state of affairs may be expected to bear rule on this day. There may be a slanderous attack in which the personal integrity is concerned, stirring up much inharmony and misunderstanding. It is urged that care be taken with letters and all writings, especially in relation to the opposite sex.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of much concern as to their personal relations, especially with the opposite sex. Writings or letters may have a slanderous bearing on the personal character, unless great care be used to offset sinister attack.

A child born on this day may have some erratic qualities provoking unexpected or unjustified attacks upon its personal character. It should be on guard against attacks made by letters or writings. Its personal life may be subject to friction.

"Simple and Smart"

Pattern 1643

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

Long sleeves are quite desirable for little tots when days are cold. This cunning model is unusually simple; inverted pleats give ample fullness, a front opening makes slipping over the head easy. There is a becoming rounded collar that fits closely about the neck.

Design 1643 would be adorable made of linen gingham, pongee or wash broadcloth. These fabrics may be chosen in solid colors or gayly printed in small patterns on white grounds. Hand embroidered arrows hold the pleats in place.

May be obtained only in sizes 4, 6 and 8. Size 4 requires 1¾ yards of 36-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

The FASHION BOOK is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West 17th St., New York City.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Matter of Personal Sentiment

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. My mother died in June and I would like to know if it is proper for me to give presents at Christmas, or to send cards?

2. If I receive them, how am I to return a present? MISS D.

THIS depends entirely on how you feel about making Christmas gestures. Your friends will, of course, want to have you do exactly as you wish. There isn't any reason why you shouldn't send presents to your very close friends, if you wish, and cards to perhaps a slightly larger group of friends. But I suggest that you choose cards of informality, and appropriate wording. That is, don't have your cards of the too "merry" type, but restrained, as is suitable to the situation.

2. "Return" your appreciation for the gifts that will be sent by your friends. That is, don't worry about not giving presents, if you don't find it in your heart to give them, simply write charming notes of appreciation and gratitude for the thoughtfulness of your friends.

The Proper Salutation

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Which is proper for a salutation on a letter to a person of mere acquaintance—"My dear Mrs. Brown" or "Dear Mrs. Brown?" MISS V. C.

"MY dear Mrs. Brown" is in better form. In this country it is accepted that "My dear Mrs. Brown" is more formal than "Dear Mrs. Brown." In England, for instance, it is the reverse.

Regarding Hand-Written Cards

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been informed that personal Christmas cards are not printed any more, nor engraved, but signed by one's own handwriting, thus carrying a more personal wish. The engraved cards are all right to send to business associates, but for real personal friends, cards that are signed in handwriting are more correct. Which is correct?

2—I was married recently, and in sending cards to my friends that are unknown by my husband, should I have his name on the card?

3—Is it correct to put one's return address on the envelope of a Christmas card?

K. G. T.

THE one who gave you this "information" certainly gave it to you incorrectly. Most people, nowadays, have engraved Christmas cards, or printed ones, because they are unwilling to go to the trouble of writing personal greetings. Either formal or informal cards are correct, either engraved ones, or printed ones (if they are printed with taste and interest), and always correct are the written messages, personal and signed with our signatures.

2—All of the Christmas cards that are sent by you and your husband should be sent jointly. If they are engraved cards they should be "Mr. and Mrs." cards, and, if they are signed, they should have both names written on them.

3—Yes, if you wish.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creomte, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

JURY INSPECTS DEATH AUTO

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 17.—A jury in the case of John Dewey Seevers, on trial for the murder of his wife Estella, before Judge R. L. Hildebrand, was secured last evening when Dr. C. B. Wingerd, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, the last member of the regular panel of 64 talesmen, was accepted. The jury was sworn in and Civil Engineer Leslie Wilson called to the stand. He explained drawings of the scene of the murder on the New Castle-Youngstown highway July 25.

The jury and Seevers were then taken to the garage where the man's automobile has been in storage since the shooting, which resulted in the death of both Mrs. Seevers and Mrs. Catherine Rodgers. Seevers declined to look at the car.

The jury was then locked up for the night. Those on the jury are: William C. Sankey, bank teller, New Castle; Fred E. Kerr, conductor, New Castle; Marion I. McClintock, housewife, New Castle; William Simons, laborer, Neshannock Township; James W. Stoner, laborer, Slippery Rock Township; James Hasely, laborer, Union Township; Lillian Jordan, housewife, Washington Township; Frank Kaufman, laborer, Wilmington Township; Henry A. Wilson, laborer, New Castle; George C. Fox, clerk, New Castle; James Crawford, retired, New Wilmington; Dr. C. B. Wingerd, minister, New Castle.

Piano Course Suggested As Christmas Gift

Teachers in Pittsburgh are suggesting to parents that the Sun-Telegraph piano lessons be given as Christmas gifts to little friends.

What a wonderful thing, they say, a gift of a piano course would be. A permanent source of comfort and consolation in time of trouble, an education in beauty, a gift which will last a life-time, they call it.

The course is indorsed all the more enthusiastically because it may be had free. No need for an expensive Christmas present this year, they say. A piano course would be expensive, however, if it were bought. The Sun-Telegraph course at the Wurlitzer Music Foundation Piano School cannot be bought.

Training students in the fundamentals of playing the piano, the new Wurlitzer method eliminates almost two years of training. Teaching is done entirely by way of melodies. The pupil learns the melody first, then the keyboard. In three months, he is ready to enter upon the more difficult lessons with a private teacher. The Wurlitzer Foundation will be glad to recommend a graduate of the school to a good music teacher, of which there are a large number in the town.

The Sun-Telegraph is offering this training free to any person between 8 and 80 years of age. Persons even younger or older in other cities have taken the course, and liked it, it is said.

By obtaining three 26-week subscriptions to The Sun-Telegraph, any Pittsburgher will be qualified to take the three-month course. The Wurlitzer Foundation says that anyone may register and be assigned to classes when they have secured one order. They may then secure the other two before the first class.

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Foul Rules Fall Short.
Solons Overlook Fans.
Patrons Not Protected.

Barnhart Barely .300.
Time to Stop Shires.
Hornsby Praises Bell.

CUSTOMERS DESERVE MONEY'S WORTH

IN revising their regulations with a view to putting a stop to the "foul" evil by penalizing the fighters in a monetary way, the boxing commissions of Pennsylvania and New York appear to have lost sight of an angle that really ought to have been the first to receive their consideration. That is the protection due the fans. The interest of those who pay at the gate, but for whose patronage the game could not exist, should be safeguarded above everything else.

William Muldoon

It appears, however, that their side of the case has been unjustly overlooked. Following the Von Porat-Scott fiasco, William Muldoon and his associates in the Empire State suspended Von Porat, who committed the foul, but imposed no penalty upon Scott, who helped to deprive the customers of their money's worth when he was not too severely hurt to have continued the fight. The commission then ruled that hereafter, when a bout is ended by a foul, the "fouler" shall be paid only for the number of rounds preceding the one in which the foul is committed.

AT the recent meeting of the Pennsylvania board, Chairman Frank Wiener and the other commissioners voted to continue to enforce their ruling that when any contest is terminatd by a foul the entire pay of the boxer committing the foul shall be at the disposition of the commission and that the fighter fouled shall be classed as "unavailable for a period of 60 days."

Now a bill has been introduced in the Massachusetts house providing that the boxing laws of that state be so changed that in case of stalling the contestants be first warned, and that if the stalling persists the referee shall call the bout no contest and name the offending party or parties; also that if any contestant fouls his opponent and the referee finds the foul intentional, the guilty boxer shall forfeit his money.

HOW about the fans? Where do they go off? None of the three states offers any provision to take care of the persons who are entitled to more consideration than anybody else.

It's all well enough to hit the pocketbooks of fighters guilty of fouling, or those who pretend that they have been severely injured, by foul blows. That's the proper procedure. The pocketbook is the weak spot of any professional athlete, and to hit him there is the quickest way to cure the evil for which the commissioners are seeking a remedy.

Frank Wiener

Jim McGirr, McKeesport promoter, deserves credit for having pointed out this angle several months ago, and he made a suggestion at the time that is worthy of adoption.

BUT forfeiting the money of the guilty ones to the state does not reimburse the patrons who have been deprived of what they paid to see. Turning the money over to the state is not repaying them. It's theirs. They have paid it out to see a certain advertised amount of fighting, and something is due them when they see only a round or two before a bout is ended by a foul. They are being penalized as well as the fighters.

IN baseball if the game does not go four and a half innings, a rain check entitles the bearer to free admission at a later game, and it is McGirr's idea that a similar privilege should be given to the fight fan, a "foul check," in a sense, if a main bout scheduled for 10 rounds is ended by a foul inside of five rounds.

The Tube City showman believes that the pay of the fighters should be held up and the men ordered to fight over again at a later date, the bout to be put on as an additional event to the regular card without extra charge to the customers. The date should be selected by the commission, he thinks, with no notice given to the promoter until after he has completed his bill, thus preventing him from cheapening his regular program.

THE suggestion has a great deal of merit and is well worthy of the commission's consideration. Certainly something should be done to give back to the fans the value of the money they paid out for something they didn't get.

Objection is also found by many boxing followers to the clause which practically suspends a fouled boxer for 60 days. Of course, if the "fouled" boxer is "in on the deal," or is faking an injury from a foul, he ought to be punished as well as the man who delivers the questionable blow. But if he is really fouled while putting up an honest fight himself and is unable to continue, it is unjust to keep him idle for 60 days, and on the other hand the knowledge that he will be kept loafing for 60 days if the bout is ended by a foul may lead him to keep on fighting after an injury when it is dangerous for him to do so.

Clyde Barnhart

CLYDE BARNHART, former Pirate slugger, finished barely in the .300 class in his first full season in the minors after being discarded by the Pittsburgh club as having run his course in the big show. He turned in an average of .303 in 155 games for Indianapolis in the American Association, according to the official averages. "Barney" scored 91 runs, and made 167 hits, his blows including 31 doubles, 12 triples and seven home runs. He ranked eleventh in the league at knocking in runs, being credited with a total of 109.

TONY CUCCINELLO, who is to play third for the Reds next year, led the Association in hits with 227 and also in doubles, with 56. He was tied with Cooke, of St. Paul, in batting with .359 and knocked in 111 runs. Angley, of Kansas City, topped the hitters with .389, and was followed by Ruble, of Toledo with .378, but neither played in as many games as Bubbles Hargrave, new Yankee acquisition, who clouted .369.

Elmer Yoter, of the North Side, batted .217 for Minneapolis, and Ralph Michaels, of Etna, hit .272 for Kansas City. Among the ex-Pirates in the circuit, Harry Riconda batted .320 for Kansas City, Herman Layne .307 for Indianapolis, Jim Stroner .272 for Indianapolis and Johnny Rawlings .268 for Minneapolis. Riconda, by the way, though now the property of the Reds, is to be sent back to Kansas City before spring, it is reported.

THE Great Shires isn't so great today. His attempt to advance another step in the fight game, following his quick knockout of a hand-picked palooka in his first ring bout a week ago, resulted in a setback at Chicago last night, when he lost the decision in a five-round tilt with George Trafton, 225-pound professional football player of the Chicago Bears.

The fact that the White Sox first baseman was outpointed by a giant gridiron performer who generally sprawls in the resin every time he misses a punch is pretty good evidence that the money-making ballyhoo of Shires as a fighter ought to be stopped before he runs into a fair boxer who will cut him to ribbons. Why Chicago continues to fall for such travesties on glove contests is a mystery. Of course, the promoters will endeavor to keep on booking Shires as long as the

COACH SPEAKER AT DUKES' BANQUET

By CARL W. SHATTO

Robert Zuppke, football's fountain of optimism, arrived here shortly before noon today to spend a few hours inhaling Pittsburgh atmosphere and become acclimatized for his appearance at the Duquesne University football banquet at the William Penn Hotel tonight.

The mighty little Dutchman, who makes a habit of turning out gridiron champions at the University of Illinois, was welcomed in behalf of Duquesne by Attorney John P. Egan. At noon he was the guest of Illinois grads at a luncheon at the University Club.

In the few minutes' interval between the time of his arrival here and his dash to the luncheon, Zuppke devoted himself with his customary enthusiasm, pep and vigor to the business of painting the football clouds with sunshine. About the only thing dirty on college gridirons today is moistened soil, according to the Illinois wizard, and as for would-be reformers—the only thing that college football now needs is to be left alone.

URGES RULE CHANGE

When questioned regarding his opinion of the Carnegie Foundation investigation and report, Zuppke answered:

"It has served to increase the football vocabulary immeasurably. Many, many new words have been introduced, and the greater quantity and better quality of gridiron terms tends to make the game appear more complex and important.

"But the Foundation report is not altogether a matter for jest. It probably will serve as a prop to keep overambitious schools from leaning too far toward professionalism."

When asked regarding the possible necessity for important changes in the football rules, Zuppke said that the grid laws had been changed so frequently in recent years that they needed a rest.

"No change at all is more to be desired than several radical changes," he said. "There is one revision that I am advocating, however, and that is that the end zone be regarded only as a restriction upon the territory in which a pass-receiver can take a pass for a touchdown. The forward pass brought the end zone into football, and when it was first introduced it was intended to deal only with passing. At present, however, it places a penalty on he-man blocking of punts, hard tackling and is an unfair hazard to a punter.

END ZONE A HAZARD

"When I am issuing instructions to my players at Illinois I tell them to block a punt very gently. I tell them if they block like a he-man rather than like a lady they will drive the ball beyond the end zone and we will get only two points for a safety instead of six for a touchdown. I also tell them that if they have occasion to tackle a man trying to run the ball out from behind his own goal line to tackle the man very lightly and to toss him easily, for if the carrier is tackled too hard the ball may bounce beyond the end zone when he fumbles.

"And a team backed up on its own goal line is in sufficiently sore straits without the punter having to worry about the possibility of stepping on the end zone boundary and giving the opposition two points.

"I am trying to have the rules revised so that the end zones serve only as a restriction on pass receivers. There is no logical reason why it should be permitted to place a penalty on good blocking of punts by linemen and hard tackling."

TALKS ON IOWA

Zuppke smiled when asked whether he thought the recent action of the Western Conference in rejecting Iowa's petition for reinstatement was just.

"The Iowa situation is one having to do with cleanliness in sports," said the Illinois coach. "We coaches who have our feet in the actual mud of the gridiron throughout the fall are hardly in a position to speak upon cleanliness."

"How do you think that Pitt will fare against Southern California in the Tournament of Roses game?" was the next question Zuppke was called upon to catch.

"It all depends upon Pitt's reserve strength," was the answer. "I have no doubt that Pitt has an exceptionally powerful team and under ordinary circumstances the Panthers probably would overpower the Trojans. Teams traveling from the East to California to meet Coast teams do not play under ordinary circumstances, however. The heat saps the Easterners' strength because they are not accustomed to it at this season of the year, and there is another difficulty that of particles of alkali which are wafted into California from the alkali deserts. These particles are so small that they are not

FLYNN TO MAKE MATCHES AT MEYERS BOWL

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The local fistic map is going in for a lot of changing before the New Year rolls in and kicks the old one out of the window.

Announcement yesterday that Francis Flynn, who so successfully has promoted shows in the Moose Temple during the past two indoor seasons, is going to vacate those quarters to enter into a partnership with the Meyers Brothers, of North Braddock, to run shows in the Columbus Temple means more than the mere shifting of winter quarters. It means also that a part of the bargain is that Flynn will be matchmaker for the Meyers Bowl, in North Braddock, next summer and as such will not be in a position to go through with his plan to stage open-air fights in the arena of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., in California avenue, North Side, during the hot months. It also means that the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. itself or a few of its members may take over the latter proposition, alternating the professional fights with amateur programs, which were put on by the club last season.

Francis Flynn

At the same time, it is possible that a new promoter may blossom forth in the Moose Temple.

Plans also are in the making whereby a club will stage weekly bouts in the South Side Market House, with Reed Brown, former flyweight boxer and now a manager of strate y of his alma mater.

ZEKE WISSINGER IS MARRIED

One of the best of the great galaxy of Pitt tackles became a married man this morning when Dr. Z. A. (Zeke) Wissinger was wed to Miss Marie Charlotte Knape, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Knape, of 128 Avenue A, Forest Hills, near Wilkinsburg. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride, the officiating minister being the Rev. Charles H. Ashman, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, Johnstown.

A Johnstown boy, Zeke Wissinger came to the University of Pittsburgh about eight years ago to study dentistry and became a member of the Panther squad. Dr. Wissinger now is a part of the Pitt coaching staff.

Zeke starred on the varsity teams of 1923-24-25. After his graduation he established an office in the East End. He spent one year as assistant to Andy Gustafson at Virginia Military Institute before associating himself with the board of strate y of his alma mater.

Dr. and Mrs. Wissinger will make their home at 5851 Morrowfield avenue.

The great man was reduced to a first-class first baseman last night—and how! Knocked to the resin twice in the first round, Shires was decisively defeated in his five-round fight with George (The Supergreat) Trafton, Chicago professional football player, before the largest crowd that ever jammed the White City Arena.

Trafton, former Notre Dame star center, had a weight advantage of 40 pounds over the loquacious blond Texas youth, coming in at 218¾ to 179¼ for Shires, and this tremendous edge in poundage probably was the deciding factor in the battle.

Before a crowd of more than 5,000 frenzied customers, who paid in excess of $15,000, Shires and his giant foe fought themselves into a state of exhaustion, while the spectators screamed in the excitement of the uneven battle. Before the first round was finished and Shires had been knocked to the floor twice, it was apparent the great one had met his master. If Trafton could manage to stick the limit.

CROWD IN UPROAR

The crowd was in such an uproar, however, that neither of the fighters, nor the referee, Norman Garrity, heard the bell as the first round ended. After a lot of confusion both fighters were waved to their corners by excited ringside spectators.

As the second round opened Shires' face was a bloody smear from a split lip. Both appeared to be tremendously tired, and Shires gave unmistakable signs of "dogging it."

They were so completely exhausted before the third round began that they stood in the center of the ring, each waiting for the other to throw a punch. By the time the fourth round started, Trafton was so tired that his arms appeared to weigh a ton apiece, and his feet two tons each. Trafton, the football player, was taking time out to get his wind, with Shires walking around him like a school kid waiting for a chance to knock a chip from his shoulder.

The fifth was a repetition of the fourth, with Trafton, too weary to fight.

SHIRES WANTS WILSON

Shires, despite his defeat, still wants to fight Wilson.

"I didn't want to fight that big bum anyhow," Shires said. "Think how much the guy weighs—40 pounds more than I do. If I knocked him out, what credit would I get? He was too big for me, he weighed too much. It was a sucker match. I'm going to tell my manager that when I see him, and if he gets fresh, I'll punch him in the eye. I still can fight. Get Wilson for me."

Trafton was jubilant over his victory.

"Licking Shires was easier that getting kicked around a football field. If I had been in better shape, the great man would have been stretched on the canvas, dead to the world before the second round was over."

OFFERS $5,000 FOR BOUT

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Promoter Gabe Kaufman offered Art Shires, Chicago White Sox first baseman, $5,000 for a bout here with Nick Lutze, formerly of Notre Dame. Lutze has been performing as a wrestler, but has announced his intention of changing to boxing.

'Why Should I Lick Him, Too?' Hack Wilson Asks

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—A special dispatch to the Tribune early today said Hack Wilson, Cubs centerfielder, had decided definitely not to go through with his fight with Arthur (The Great) Shires here in January.

After learning that George Trafton, football pro, had whipped Shires last night, Wilson asked the Tribune correspondent: "Why should I lick him, too?"

CRIPPLED BUCS, MONTREAL SIX TILT TONIGHT

Two of the most colorful clubs in the National Hockey League will do battle at Duquesne Garden tonight when the Pirates meet Les Canadiens, of Montreal.

Because of their great speed, dash, trickiness and power, the Flying Frenchmen long have been regarded as the most colorful aggregation in the ice sport.

The Pirates today are in a position to give the Canadiens, or any other club, a real argument regarding the awarding of "most colorful" honors. Unlike the visitors, however, their color is not born of speed and dash. It is, rather, the black and blue of bruised and torn flesh, the scarlet of a fresh wound, and a third color—whatever color is associated with broken bones.

PIRATES CRIPPLED

When Roger Smith skates out to his position at defense tonight he will have his side taped up to keep a couple of broken ribs in place, and when Bert McCaffrey comes out to join him he will have several stitches below his right ear, to keep a deep gash there closed. And so long as they are able to stand, they will have to remain in the fight, for Johnny MacKinnon, the Bucs' third defense man, is nursing a severely sprained ankle and will not be able to get into the fray.

Goalie Joe Miller is in good physical trim, so the Bucs are to have one able-bodied defender on the ice when the battle starts.

The front-line situation, too, is nothing to cheer about. Player-Manager Frank Frederickson, regular center, will take his wrenched knee and his crutches to the bench and do all of his playing in the Pirate box. And Herb Drury, first reserve center, will take his broken hand into the box and his activities will be limited to helping Frederickson with his bench work.

RICH IN COURAGE

At first glance the situation appears to be rather tragic, but conditions were not much better last Saturday night when, with Frederickson, MacKinnon and Drury on the bench, the Bucs put reverse english on the tragedy and overwhelmed the New York Americans, 8 to 1.

The same starting front line which contributed much to the downfall of the Americans is to inaugurate the jousting tonight. This means that Milks will be at center in place of Frederickson, Lowrey at left wing in place of Milks, and Darragh at right wing.

This forward combination, ably supported by the Bucco reserves, functioned brilliantly against the New Yorkers Saturday, and the battered defense men performed creditably in holding Chicago to a 3-1 score Sunday. The Bucs may be wanting in some things (particularly victories) but they have shown that they have an abundance of courage, and it is not likely that Les Canadiens will want for spirited competition.

SEEK TO PAD LEAD

The Flying Frenchmen, too, are handicapped in that Joliat, one of the league's best goal getters, is on the injured list. Marty Burke, former Pirate defender, Howie Morenz, the speed demon, Mantha, Wasnie, Carson, Lepine and several other stalwarts, however, are in top form and they feel very capable of strengthening the Canadiens' position as International Group pace-setters. The probable lineup:

Pirates—		Canadiens—
Miller	G	Hainsworth
McCaffrey	D	S. Mantha
Smith	D	Burke
Milks	C	Morenz
Darragh	W	Wasnie
Lowrey	W	Carson

Spares—Pirates: Brieden, Jarvis, Barton, White, Manners; Canadien spares: Leduc, Mondou, Lepine, G. Mantha, LaRochelle.

PASSING RULE AMENDED

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Greater speed and higher scoring, which have characterized hockey this season, promise to be considerably modified by action of the board of governors of the National Hockey League, who yesterday approved an amendment affecting the forward passing rule.

The amendment forbids any player on the attacking side crossing his opponents' blue line ahead of the puck. Under the rule which has governed play this season, and which was responsible for more action and greater scoring power, there was no restriction as to who should cross the line first.

No change was made in the rule governing forward passing itself, indicating the governors wished to tame the game down only a little. The change was said to have been sponsored by Leg Dandurand, president of Les Canadiens, of Montreal, and Connie Smythe, of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Managers Tom Shaughnessey, of the Chicago Blackhawks, and Frank Frederickson, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, declared the rule change would make it necessary for them to revise their methods of attack. The amendment will become effective Saturday.

GANS STOPS HOAG; SOLMEN LOSES ON FOUL

AL IOVINO BEATEN BY SAPIENZA

NEW BRIGHTON, Dec. 17.—California Joe Gans won by a technical knockout from Billy Hoag, of Cleveland, here last night in a main bout at the Junction A. C. fight show. Referee Eddie Kennedy stopped the scrap in the fifth round when the Cleveland lad was in a bad way. Hoag substituted for Johnny Rich, who was injured yesterday and was unable to fight. Rich appeared in the ring with his arm in a sling.

Gans won with ease from the Cleveland fighter, and had him down three times before Referee Kennedy finally stopped the slaughter. After having Hoag down twice, Gans landed a hard right on the Ohio boy's shoulder, which sent him to the canvas, when Kennedy's wave of the hand ended the show.

In the semi-final Teddy Yarosz had no trouble with Billy Burke, and won by a technical knockout in the third round. In the other scheduled six-rounder, Young Sapienza, of New Castle, won by a foul from Al Iovino, of Pittsburgh, in the third round. Lou Marlow, of Cleveland, defeated the Gypsy Kid, of Beaver Falls, in the second bout of four rounds. In the opening scrap Frankie Porto, of Pittsburgh, won from Fury Frank, of Aliquippa, in the first round on a technical knockout.

SOLMEN FOULS FELDMAN

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Joey Feldman, of Cleveland, won on a foul here last night in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-rounder with Mickey Solmen, of New Castle. In the semi-final of six rounds, Freddie Edwards, of Chester, W. Va., defeated Johnny Pepieg, of Wheeling, W. Va.

SAMMY HARRIS WINS

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Sammy Harris, of Akron, defeated Steve O'Malley, of Wheeling, in a slow 10-round bout here last night. The only knockdown came in the seventh when O'Malley went to the carpet for a nine count.

Jackie Hermann, of Wheeling, was given a match with Joe Walcott, Washington, Pa., Negro, when Walcott was disqualified in the fourth round for failing to mix it up.

ager of boxers, acting in the role of matchmaker.

The Columbus Temple, at Van Braam and Locust streets, is hardly any larger than the Moose Temple and it is doubtful if it will prove as popular a spot for the fans as the downtown headquarters have been. The Moose club was a moneymaker from the time Flynn opened the doors and so roseate are the prospects of any downtown club that Flynn and the Meyers Brothers recently pulled a lot of wires to rent the vacant Gayety Theater, with its large seating capacity, but were unsuccessful.

For a number of years, the Columbus Temple has been a favorite rendezvous for lovers of basketball. Flynn and the Meyers brothers have taken over a lease on the entire building and will sublet it for basketball. They plan their first boxing show in the new quarters about the middle of January, after renovations have been made. Meanwhile, Flynn will work out a 30-day quit notice at the Moose Temple.

Despite protests against his appearance, Primo Carnera, the Italian heavyweight, will meet Franz Diener, the German, in a bout in London tonight; Johnny Windsor boxes Jimmy Sullivan at West Palm Beach, Fla.; Baby Joe Gans opposes Nat Kawler and Phil Tobias engages Fred Monte, while Harry Wallace battles Willie Garfola in New York; Phil (K. O.) Kaplan clashes with Sammy Weiss at Allentown, Pa.; Benny Valgar boxes Johnny Cuthbert on the Carnera-Diener card in London, and Joe Sangor meets Santiago Zorilla at Los Angeles.

M'GIRR SEEKS LAGREY

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, is at work on a card for Thursday night of next week. He has Joe Trippe as one of the principals in the main bout and is trying to land Joey LaGrey, of New York, who has not boxed in the Tube City for a long time, although he is a favorite there, for his windup. On January 2, he will show Mickey Solmen against the best obtainable opponent.

Frankie Buff, of New Kensington, meets Jack DeNeri, of Cleveland, in the semi-final to the George Panka-Harry Williams 10-round main bout in the Moose Temple Friday night.

The 90-day suspension handed out by the boxing commission to Bunny Buntach, manager of Buck McTiernan and George Panka, for climbing into the ring to halt McTiernan's bout with Mickey Solmen at the Moose Temple recently, is a salty one and seems unjustified by the extenuating circumstances, especially in view of the fact that the referee was stopping the bout, anyway, and the second's action in stepping into the ring took the place of tossing in the towel. Hitherto most flagrant cases of violating the rules against corner coaching and other misconduct of seconds have drawn suspensions of not more than 30 days so that the Buntach setdown takes on unusual significance.

Yellow Jackets Elect Demoise 1930 Captain

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 17.—During a banquet held last night in honor of the Waynesburg College football squad, the lettermen unanimously elected Frank Demoise, quarterback, as captain of the team for 1930. Demoise is a Sophomore and a former Greensburg, Pa., High School star.

Demoise also was presented a wrist watch as the most valuable man on the team for the 1929 season, the choice being made by the sport writers who witnessed the games. The team presented Samuel Smith, 1929 captain, with a football trophy. Smith graduates in June. He is a former South Hills High School boy.

M'GRAW SHIFTS SPRING PLANS

By CHARLES J. DYOLE.

High altitude which he fears will take the good physical condition away from his players has caused Manager John McGraw of the Giants to call off the spring training games scheduled with the Giants and White Sox for Mexico City.

John McGraw

McGraw told this writer at the New York meetings he considered it wise to cancel the games at the Mexican capital, but he added that it was likely that the two clubs would go over the border to stage games in other towns of the revolution-torn republic.

Mexico City is approximately 7,500 feet above sea level and McGraw and his advisers feel that performances on the diamond under climatic conditions attendant to this height might have a reverse effect on the athletes. The plan now is to stage games in Mexican towns closer to the international boundary line.

Last spring when the Pirates passed through El Paso, the revolution was on and folks were going over into the land of the senors at their own risk.

Donie Bush and McGraw will have their clubs at San Antonio for the preliminary jousts. The Texas city affords sufficient facilities for two clubs and the climate generally is very good for conditioning.

Chillysauce

And players loved a fight—
The Doolans, Clarkes, Tebeaus,
McGraws, Maguires—
Perhaps the rooters see again
A future clear and bright
As they read of Hack defying Battling Shires

noticeable to one who is not exerting himself physically, but they undermine a football players strength, and Eastern or Mid-Western teams experience great difficulty in 'holding up' in the second half of a Coast game. If Pitt has good reserves, it should win."

Commenting upon a resolution placed before the Southern Conference last Saturday by Major W. H. McKellar, of the University of the South, that college football players be granted free tuition, room and board in exchange for their gridiron services, Zuppke said he was not in favor of such a plan.

To adopt such a system would be to introduce professionalism into college athletics, and in college sports only amateurism is desirable, the coach declared.

BENEDICT FAVORED

One of the features of tonight's banquet will be the election of a captain for next season. The selection, which at first was believed to be a fight between Ganzy Benedict and Sammy Pratt, the famous forward-passing combination that played such a prominent part in many of the Dukes' victories, now is said to be headed for Benedict, although the latter will be unable to be present, owing to injuries received in an automobile crash last week following his return from the Middle West with the basketball squad.

Senator Frank J. Harris will serve as toastmaster at the banquet. Among the other speakers will be Head Coach Elmer Layden, who will award the letters to the members of the football squad, while John Egan will present the members gold footballs on behalf of the Alumni Association.

Among the notables expected to attend are Mayor Charles H. Kline, Congressman Guy E. Campbell, Senator James J. Coyne, J. D. Callery, Frank J. McDermott, former Duquesne University coach; Barney Dreyfuss and Leo J. Griffith.

Motion pictures of many of Duquesne's 10 football games of the season recently closed will be shown tonight and musical entertainment also will be given.

TECH HEADS HOMEWARD TODAY

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Carnegie Tech's touring Tartans, about set to wind up their journey to the Pacific Coast, will quit Southern California today, heading northward for Palo Alto and Stanford University. The Tech party will roll out of here via the Southern Pacific and their own special cars at 8:00 p. m., arriving in Palo Alto tomorrow morning.

Things have quieted down somewhat following the Tech-U. S. C. battle in the Coliseum Saturday, and Los Angeles is now engaged in getting ready for the final act of the 1929 gridiron show.—The Tournament of Roses game New Year's Day between Pitt and U. S. C.

VISIT MOVIE STUDIOS

The arrival of the Golden Panthers is still some days off, but tickets for the Rose Bowl classic are already on sale, and football talk is as rife as scandal at a sewing circle.

Carnegie's young men spent yesterday in peering at the insides of the movie studios. The boys took several of the squawkie emporioms apart to see what made 'em tick. They ogled the stars who happened to be on location and cast soulful eyes at the extra girls.

Coast Chatter

It's getting so that a hard working newspaperman can't go anywhere without running into guys who want to talk business—I mean by that that a guy can't even leave his hotel room to get a cup of coffee or a drink of ice water or somethin' without being held up and insulted by a football coach. Office hours for football writers are from kick-off time until the boss at the other end of 3,000 mile leased wire says:

"Okay, fine story—but who won the ball game?"

Anyway, what I started to tell was that when I went trapsing downstairs from my palatial suite here at the Hillmore, it beats all what you can get in California for a buck and a half a day) who should grab me in the lobby but Claude Thornhill, one of Pitt's immortal tackles and Pop Warner's chief yes man at Stanford. Pop and Charley Winterburn were with him.

"Well, if it ain't the kid from Old Beaver," Claude cracked. "My gosh, but you are getting bald."

Now it would have been o. k. if he'd just have whispered about my lack of hirsute adornment, but the lobby was full of strangers and they all gave me silly looks.

TOUGH FOR ARMY

Anyway, Thorny asked about all the boys at home, including Paul Jones and Leo Harris, and then sat down and, in true coach fashion, sang the blues about the coming Stanford-Army game. According to Thorny, all the Army will have to do to beat the Cardinals will be to run out on the field.

Pop scouted the Cadets in New York when they played Notre Dame, and the Old Fox evidently was very much impressed with the play of the Soldiers. When Pop is impressed with the play of a future opponent, it usually turns out to be very tough on the opponent.

Thorny and Pop and Charley had been in town for the Tech-U. S. C. game, and they were very much impressed with the way in which the Tartans made monkeys out of the Trojans in the first half. While they did not come right out and say so, both Pappy and Claude intimated that they thought Pitt would be tough enough to take Southern Cal New Year's Day, seeing as how Southern Cal took Stanford, maybe these babies know whereof they chortle.

Lou Alman, former star of the Enoch Rauh Club, now playing regularly with the Young Men's Hebrew Association in the West Penn League, today branded as false reports that he had agreed to wear the uniform of the A. J. Ackermans in the Allegheny County League. Alman announced that he was well pleased with his situation at the Young Men's Hebrew Association and would remain with the Oaklanders for the rest of the season. Alman will be in the lineup at forward tonight when the Oaklanders oppose the Knickerbockers at Forresters Hall in the only league game on the card.

Lou Alman

Alman is a veteran of the popular winter indoor game and he should prove a valuable asset to the Y. M. H. A. team, last year's Greater Pittsburgh Industrial League and A. A. U. champion. With Harry (Red) Sapira and Alman working together the Oaklanders should win the majority of their remaining league games. Alman was all set to play for the Morry-Fintex quintet following his return from California, but plans fell through at the last minute.

FINTEX COPS ANOTHER

The Morry-Fintex quintet added another to its string in the Allegheny County League last night when it trimmed the Franchinas, 26 to 12, on the Duquesne University floor.

Although pressed closely in the first quarter to trail a 4-2 tally, the Fintex outfit came back and had the game its own way until the finish. White, Lippe and DeMaria played stellar roles.

The Schneiders trounced the Edgewood five, 38 to 26, and the Kingsley House passers trimmed the South Side Falcons, 45 to 28, in their West Penn battles last night.

Potter Title and Trust won over the Reicks, 42 to 32, while Real Estate Savings and Trust was nosed out by P. & L. E., 20 to 18, in the Commercial and Industrial League.

Duquesne Light lost to Philadelphia Company, 21 to 17, in the Philadelphia Company League, and the scheduled game between National Music and Trinity Cathedral in the Central League was called off when no referee appeared to handle it. The lineups:

Fintex—26.		Franchina—12
Lippe	F.	Cotz
White	F.	Colloci
Reilly	C.	Foley
Miller	G.	Demaria
Paris	G.	Tracey

Score by quarters:

Fintex	2	11	6	7—26
Franchinas	4	1	3	4—12

Field goals—Lippe 3, White 2, Reilly, Paris, Losman 2, Demaria 3. Fouls—Fintex, 8 out of 14. Franchinas, 6 out of 13. Subs—Fintex—Losman for Paris, Kintzman for Miller, Paris for Losman. Franchinas—Delvecchio for Colloci, Colloci for Cotz, Cotz for Tracy, O'Hara for Cotz, Clay for O'Hara. Referee—Leo Mackey. Time of quarters—10 minutes.

Dribbles

The Morry-Fintex quintet will invade Duquesne tonight where it engages Ed Minnick's Lafayettes in a County League game at Duquesne High School. The Lafayettes have suffered two defeats so far this season, which is far below their natural form.

There is an opening in the Commercial-Industrial League for a first-class team. Officials of the loop have a floor available for any club desiring this franchise. Call Lafayette 4297.

Two high-class attractions are offered the followers of the Commercial-Industrial League tonight. Pittsburgh and Lake Erie plays at Potter, Title & Trust, while Carnegie Steel opposes Dravo Construction.

The Wee Club plays at the J. J. Ryans and the Peffer Club at Lang Club in the two City Junior League games carded tonight.

PANTHERS BEAT STUBBORN IOWA FIVE, 29-21

PITT WINDS UP MID-WEST COURT TOUR

IOWA CITY, Dec. 17.—Concluding its triumphant tour through the Middle-West, the University of Pittsburgh defeated a stubborn University of Iowa quintet here last night, 29 to 21.

The Hawkeye team, hastily thrown together five days ago after a sweeping ineligibility list had wrecked the varsity, showed unexpected flashes of power. Pittsburgh failed to score from the field until eight minutes had passed. The Panthers got under way soon after, however, and led, 14 to 5, at the half.

Iowa trailed, 25 to 10, with only four minutes of the game remaining, but a brilliant rally by Spradling and Kinnan netted seven points in two minutes, and the teams were on even terms during the rest of the game.

Iowa's defense was concentrated on Hyatt with a result that the Panther ace netted only two field goals, though he played a brilliant floor game. Arture and Zehfuss bore the brunt of the Pittsburgh attack, with Spradling and Kinnon playing a brilliant game for the Hawks. The lineup:

Pitt—29		Iowa—21
Hyatt	F	Hildreth
Zehfuss	F	Roker
L. Cohen	C	Spradling
Brown	G	Reinhardt
Arture	G	Kinna

Substitution—Kowalis for Brown. Field goals—Hyatt 2, Zehfuss 3, L. Cohen 3, Kowallis, Arture 4, Hildreth 2, Spradling 3, Reinhardt, Kinna 2. Fouls—Pitt, 2 out of 3; Iowa, 5 out of 11. Referee—F. H. Young, Illinois Wesleyan. Umpire—C. H. Bolster.

MICKEY WALKER INJURED

The automobile in which Mickey was riding with his brother, Joe, did a pin-wheel movement on the ice-encrusted five corners at Red Bank, N. J., and crashed through a grocery window.

Mickey's head was cracked against the windshield. The windshield happened to be of shatterproof construction, else Mickey might have been seriously injured. Joe, who was driving the car, sustained severe bruises.

Announcer Socked At Shires Fight

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—One of the blows struck during the Shires-Trafton fight here last night was flung by a gentleman hereinafter designated as Mr. X, and was received on the left eye of Pat Flannigan, radio announcer for Station WBBM.

Bedlam prevailed during the boxing match between the Great Shires and the Super-great Trafton, and the fan standing directly behind Flannigan was both noisy and profane. Flannigan, addressing the microphone, mentioned that a gentleman behind him was doing a lot of unnecessary talking. Mr. X took this as a personal insult and slammed the announcer a hard one in the eye.

Flannigan kept on announcing. After a short pause, Mr. X felt something yanking at his coat collar and strong fingers getting a firm hold on his legs. He was thus ejected.

Babe Ruth, Walker In Cue Exhibition

WRESTLE TO DRAW

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Had it not been for a state Commission ruling, George Shikat, world heavyweight wrestling champion, and George Calza, outstanding challenger, might still be wrestling. The two mighty men of the mat were going strong last night at 11 p. m., after 1 hour 36 minutes 14 seconds of work, when Referee Patsy Haley was forced to call a halt, declare the match a draw and send some 8,000 customers to their homes.

KID WOLFE COPS

Ineligible Iowa Athletes Will Get Hearing

IOWA CITY, Ia., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Thirteen ineligible University of Iowa athletes will have an opportunity January 9 to persuade Western Conference officials of their right to engage in further intercollegiate competition.

In accordance with a request by the Hawkeye board of control of athletics, the Big Ten eligibility committee will visit Iowa City, January 9, to investigate the status of the athletes barred by the Iowa board for borrowing from an allegedly unethical "trust fund."

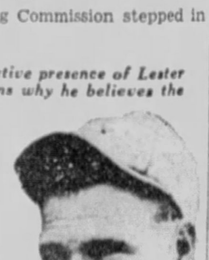
ROGERS HORNSBY points to the prospective presence of Lester Bell at third base as one of the reasons why he believes the Cubs next year will repeat their pennant victory of 1929. Hornsby appears to be a source of inspiration to Bell. The latter did his best work while he had Rogers as a team mate, and the Rajah is of the opinion that he will rise to the same heights when the two are again in the same lineup*



Lester Bell

"BELL is one of the best men in the game to play on the hot corner," Hornsby declares. "I know how he went for me in 1926 in St. Louis when we won the pennant and the world championship, and he can go that way all the time if properly encouraged. He'll drive in a lot of runs, for he's a batter with real driving power and a dangerous man in the pinches.

"Along with that, he must be classed with the great ones in grabbing hot smashes down the third base line. It looks to me as if the Cubs are all set for another pennant next season."

CLAIRTON HIGH TO DINE STARS THURSDAY

Clairton will pay tribute to its W. P. I. A. L. football champions Thursday night when the members of the high school eleven are guests of the high school in the high school cafeteria. The Clairton team has not been defeated in three years, winning 27 games and tieing in another.

Dr. A. W. Colcord, president of the school board, will be toastmaster. Among the speakers will be the Rev. William W. McKinney, H. J. Davis, F. F. Marquard, E. M. Lizevey, W. B. Farnsworth, mayor of Clairton; J. R. McVey, mayor-elect; H. B. Teal, W. M. Bryson, Joe Kalcevich, captain of the 1929 team; Kenneth Stilley, captain-elect; G. M. Woodman, coach; William J. Wyke, coach of Clairton Junior High School; Paul O'Neil, I. A. Nicholas and Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

On top of their successful season on the gridiron, members of the East Pittsburgh High School football team, together with their capable and popular coach, John (Buzz) Coleman and other team officials, will be feted at a banquet also carded for Thursday night.

Coleman's first year came to a close with an East Pittsburgh victory over the Edgewood High School team.

Buff Donnelli, Dukes' star backfield man, and other grid celebrities will be present at the banquet.

Eastern All-Stars On Way to Coast

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The Eastern all-star football squad, which will engage a picked team from the West in the annual Shrine Hospital benefit game at San Francisco New Year's Day, today was headed westward.

The squad received its first workout yesterday at Dyche Stadium, Northwestern University, under the direction of Coaches Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, and Andy Kerr, of Colgate. All 22 men invited started on the long journey to Palo Alto, Cal., where the squad will remain until the day of the game. No stop-overs for practice were planned.

All-Eastern Eleven Departs for Coast

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The all-star Eastern team which meets a like squad of Western stars in the annual New Year's Day charity football game at San Francisco, went through a spirited workout at Dyche Stadium yesterday, and then entrained for the Pacific Coast.

All 22 invited players responded for the workout and Coaches Andy Kerr, of Colgate, and Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, drilled them for more than an hour. Several new plays were given the squad, which is composed of Eastern and Middlewestern players.

Rose Bowl Sold Out for Pitt Game

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The Pasadena Rose Bowl, which seats 70,000 persons, is sold out for the New Year's Day football classic between the University of Southern California and the University of Pittsburgh.

The last of the tickets was disposed of yesterday. There has been no public sale of tickets, all having been mailed in response to applications.

The gate will approximate $300,000. Most of the seats were sold at $5, with a few at $6 and the remainder at $3.

Veteran Breeder Dies at Avella

T. A. Miller, 78, owner of the famed Bancroft Stock Farm, succumbed yesterday after a lingering illness at his home in Avella, Pa. For 50 years Miller was active in breeding light harness horses, his farm being the oldest of the breeding establishments in this district.

GITLITZ BEATEN

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 17.—Frank Montague, of Madison, floored Murray Gitlitz, of New Haven, four times to win the 10-round decision here last night. Nat Cohen, Paterson, won an eight-round decision over Barney Smith, Newark.

Panther Eleven To Be Dined At Dallas

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—It was learned today that the University of Pittsburgh football team would stop here en route to the Pacific coast to participate in the annual Tournament of Roses game, and officials of the Dixie classic planned a banquet for the eastern team to be attended also by players here for the Dixie game.

HOLLEYS NEXT FOR LOCALS

By TOM BIRKS.

The victory of the Pierpoint Motors in Detroit Sunday again puts local followers in a good humor. Now that the aggregation headed by Carl Ekequist has eliminated the Cleveland Shamrocks and the Walkerville Club, of Detroit, it would be too much to ask them to duplicate the feat and also put out the Holley Carburetors in the next round.

By some accident, the Detroiters find themselves at home to the Pittsburgh club, and, while we feel that the Carburetors should win, the Motors might get a little financial reward for their second trip to the Michigan city.

The Holley club is a professional outfit, and a member of the professional league, and should the ground be dry, the Pittsburghers could hardly expect to win. This outfit went into the National final two years ago, and is headed by Vizzer, the European International center-forward.

Vizzer represented the club at the professional meeting in Cleveland, and has the solid backing of the Holley family. There has been considerable effort, time and money spent to bring a National championship to the Holley camp. It will be a real opponent the Pierpoints must stack up against.

The crowd was poor last Sunday. With the Holley club having a large following, there is a chance the Pittsburghers will get more than just the guarantee, and that is all they got on their last two trips.

Coast Eleven Card Intersectional Frays

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—(INS.)—Five Pacific Coast Conference teams will engage in intersectional football games in 1930, it was disclosed here today, after the schedule makers had partly completed plans for next year.

Stanford meets Minnesota at Minneapolis on October 11, and Dartmouth at Stanford on November 29. California is dickering for a game with either the Navy or Yale, to be played at Berkeley.

Southern California meets Notre Dame at Los Angeles on November 27. Oregon and Drake clash at Chicago on October 4, and Oregon State and West Virginia play at Chicago on November 27.

Hockey Popularity Growing in Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Popularity of hockey is growing in a big way in Chicago.

So enthusiastic have fans become over their rejuvenated Blackhawks that approximately 64,000 have paid to see them in their games so far this season. With new quarters at the Chicago Stadium, last season's total attendance of 76,000 is expected to be passed when they meet the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Stadium December 29.

Bears Seek Middies Or Elis for '31 Game

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—William Monahan, graduate football manager of the University of California, will leave here for the East December 27 to arrange a 1931 New Year's Day intersectional contest for the Bears. Monahan said he hoped to obtain a game with Navy or Yale. Yale authorities were quoted as saying the Elis could not make the trip, however, so it was presumed Monahan will go first to Annapolis.

GIANTS SIGN HOGAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—To J. Francis Hogan goes the honor of being the first New York Giant to sign a contract for 1930. The big catcher affixed his signature on the dotted line yesterday.

FAIR PLAY DIES

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Fair Play, sire of Man o' War and one of the greatest of thoroughbred sires, died at Joseph E. Widner's Elmendorf Farm, near here, yesterday. Infirmities of old age are understood to have been the cause.

Hartnett Ailing, Cubs Seek New Receiver

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Operations and treatments have failed to improve the condition of Leo (Gabby) Hartnett's ailing arm, and the Chicago Cubs are looking about for another catcher.

Hartnett has had two tonsil operations, and serums and light treatments have been used, but without results. Hartnett, however, has not yet given up hope and is continuing with powerful electric light treatments in an effort to bring his throwing arm back to life.

TWO RECORDS ARE SET BY GREENLEAF

DETROIT, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Ralph Greenleaf, of New York, defeated Frank Taberski, 125 to 0, in last night's game of the world championship pocket billiard tournament, and in doing it broke two world records.

Greenleaf bested the defending champion in two innings, and made an unfinished run of 126.

This was the second time during the present tournament that two new world records have been established in a single game. Greenleaf's feat last night took the world record run away from Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, who ran 111 last week. By winning in two innings, the New Yorker also snatched another laurel from Rudolph, who broke all previous records by winning in four.

A scratch in the first inning made it necessary for Greenleaf, who is a former world champion, to run 126 balls to win the game. Taberski missed the only time he had a chance with the cue.

The remarkable performance of the New Yorker, however, left Rudolph with one world record, which he acquired in the afternoon by defeating Marcel Camp, of Detroit, in 30 minutes, the shortest time on record for a 125-point game. The best previous time was 37 minutes, made by Rudolph last week.

Rudolph's victory over Camp was by a score of 125 to 9 in six innings and was featured by a run of 104. Spencer Liysey played his final tournament game, defeating Joseph T. McCann, of Jacksonville, Fla., 125 to 58, in 21 innings.

Geneva Gridders Elect Knapik '30 Captain

BEAVER FALLS, Dec. 17.—One of the district's classiest backfield men will lead the Geneva College gridders in 1930, John Knapik, of Youngstown, being honored by his teammates here last night with next season's captaincy. Knapik's election was one of the features of the annual football banquet, held at the Beaver Valley Country Club.

Nineteen lettermen took part in the election. Those recommended for letters include Joe Precce, Kent Cole, Al Seaburn, George Johnson, Sam Cooper, Richard McKee, Thomas Stauffer, Millard Howell, David Snyder, Walter Hindman, Raymond Turpin, Alurd Ransom, former Capt. Sylvester Davis, Carmel Timerario, Arthur Weigle, Paul Heffley, Earl Ewing, Joe Lewis, Capt. John Knapik and Manager Ernest Taylor.

There was little said about the past season. Instead, everyone was looking ahead to 1930.

BASKETBALL RULES QUIZ

PLAY NO. 20.

In a game between Pittsburgh and Iowa one of the scorers blows his horn while the ball is in play. The Pittsburgh player guarding Plunkitt stops, but the latter shoots for the basket and makes good.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The referee rules that a field goal has been made for Iowa and that the points count. Scorers are warned that they should blow the horn only when ball has been declared dead.

2,000 SEE FOUR KNOCKOUTS AT BENEFIT

About 2,000 enthusiastic fight fans attended the orphans' fund benefit amateur boxing show in Motor Square Garden last night. They saw four of the 15 bouts terminate in knockouts, and in the remainder of the program some splendid exhibitions. The summary:

Visitor Calls N. Y. Delirious, U. S. Dangerous

By B. C. FORBES

TO see ourselves as others see us is sometimes refreshing. An observant British visitor, early trained in America, came to the United States in September. He told me then that New York appeared to be living in a delirium. Wall Street, he declared, had gone stark mad—he called its form of lunacy optimania.

While here he made this observation:

"All my European instincts say that whatever has been built so large and so quickly cannot be well built. It is all a tower of Babel that will end in confusion. These cheques on the bank of the future will not be cashed. It is imagination and human energy and the joy of life. It is the most extraordinary development of optimism plus wealth that the world has ever seen. But it is built on the sand."

RETURNING home, this visitor, Herbert N. Casson, wrote on October 13 for his efficiency magazine an article predicting a terrific smashup in stocks, and answering the question, "Is America Prosperous!" here are some of his spirited comments:

"New York does not represent business. It represents the most gigantic bubble of speculation that has ever been blown by gamblers who have gone mad by their success. In New York I saw men borrowing money at 10 per cent to buy shares that pay 2 per cent. This is not investment. It is not even ordinary gambling. It is a mania that has seized upon New York like a plague.

"The so-called business of Wall Street is the selling of guesses on the future. There is a future mania. Mention a fact and you stop a sensation in New York.

"THERE is a struggle on between the hopes and the fears. As yet, the hopes have it. The hopes have made hundreds of millions. Never before have the hopes been so wild and so successful. But when the fears have it, the whole human race will be staggered by the crash.

"AS to the question—is America prosperous? I would say that 10 per cent of it is. Most of the manufacturers and merchants are making expenses and nothing more. There are 150 great companies that are swallowing up the industries. The average man is in debt. The farmers are in trouble. There are at the moment, I dare say, at least 5,000,000 of unemployed. There were 19,000 bankruptcies last year.

"America is a land of contrasts. Black and white. Glaring wealth and wretched poverty. Philanthropy and crime. Science and superstition. Progressiveness and the most primitive reactions. A civil war is on between the best and the worst elements in human nature. The fight is so terrific and so pregnant with good or evil for the whole world, that I must confess that if I were 20 years younger I would plunge into it again.

"Those children of liberty! Free from discipline and culture and traditions and leadership! What miracles have they done by sheer energy and exhuberance!

"The peasantry of 80 nations, all set free to do their worst or their best! They have made New York a carnival of luxury and crime and finance and titanic industry—the wonder and the danger of the world. I wish I could see it again in 1950."

IF I were to add my own guess, it would be that, despite its mania for flying to extremes, this land will have made far faster progress than Britain by 1950.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Investment funds trickled into the bond market in small volume today. Most of the commitments were of a conservative nature, centering in the low coupon rails, with the result that this was the only group able to make progress in the lethargic trading. Time money at 5 per cent was unchanged.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows; 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

IRON INQUIRY IMPROVES

Inquiry for pig iron in the Mid West has gained for the first quarter with sentiment improving. Prices for iron and steel products, it is indicated, will be somewhat firmer than originally anticipated.

Plate and bar mills are operating satisfactorily for this time of year, and steel makers report there will be improved production of tin plate immediately after the first of the year on contracts signed by leading consumers.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17.—Leading makers of semi-finished steel at Youngstown have opened books for the first quarter of 1930 at $34, Pittsburgh and Youngstown, for sheets, bars, billets and slabs, making the last two $1 lower and sheets, and bars unchanged, from recent weeks, says Daily Metal Trade.

SOMETHING . . . OF INTEREST TO FATHER

Being head of a family is, so far as its financial aspect is concerned, much the same as being head of a business. Business-like methods are necessary to maintain a sane balance between income and expenses. A small income can, by careful financial management, be made to go much further than it would if carelessly handled. The head of a family needs the help and advice of a friendly bank quite as much as the head of a commercial business.

The Mellon National Bank welcomes accounts, regardless of their size from every member of the family. In addition to the savings and checking accounts service, there are many ways in which the bank can be helpful. Officers of the bank are always glad to discuss family financial problems and give advice.

THE DUQUESNE

THIS newly inaugurated Pennsylvania train takes its name from Fort Duquesne, famous in Pittsburgh annals . . . It seems destined, by reason of the speed and convenience of its service, to become one of the most popular of the endless chain of Pennsylvania flyers connecting Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

Running in each direction between the two metropolises, The Duquesne accomplishes the trip in just 8 hours. This means that you can leave either terminal after lunch at 2.15 P.M. and still arrive by 10.15 that evening.

MARKET HEADS HIGHER AFTER DRIFTING

Operators for Advance Encouraged at Stability Of Shares Support Rise

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. (AP.) — The stock market finally turned upward today, after drifting about uncertainly during an extremely dull forenoon, with sales during the first two hours of trading totaling less than a million shares.

Operators for the advance were encouraged by the comparative stability of the market during the morning, and activity picked up considerably during the early afternoon, as several leading shares were bid up from 2 to more than 6 points. The rapid drying up of the selling movement which depressed prices sharply yesterday, was particularly pleasing to the bull element.

MONEY FIRMER

Call money was firmer than for several days, but held officially at 4½ per cent. News bearing on the credit situation, however, was largely favorable. The decline of $71,000,000 in security loans by weekly reporting member banks, as reported by the Federal Reserve, was particularly pleasing, as it occurred in a week when brokers' loans increased $33,000,000, and indicates that banks are at last making progress in liquidating security loans. During recent weeks, when brokers' loans declined abruptly, bank loans on securities were practically unchanged.

Also, a downturn in foreign exchange rates was viewed with satisfaction indicating at least a temporary check to the outgoing movement of gold. It was reported from Washington that the Treasury and reserve officials were unconcerned over the gold movement.

The firmness of call money reflected primarily the cash payment today for the government's initial offering of Treasury bills, totaling $100,000,000.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

Corporation news was largely restricted to dividend announcement by smaller concerns. Crucible Steel, however, announced a payment of 3 per cent in stock, and Newmont Mining, a stock dividend of 5 per cent. Howe Sound directors declared a 50-cent cash extra.

U. S. and Republic Steel rose bout 4 points each. Western Union, General Electric and Johns Manville rose 5 to 6. Westinghouse Electric, American Can, A. M. Byers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, National Biscuit and International Harvester rose 3 to 4. The upturn embraced all groups, with the exception of the motors, which failed to make notable headway.

Considerable irregularity appeared during the early trading, and a few rather volatile stocks declined sharply, Otis Elevator selling off 10. International Business Machines 8, and Allied Chemicals 5.

MEXICO USING TEXAS GAS

ZAPATA, Tex. — (INS.) — The first international natural gas line in America has just been completed here, linking Zapata gas fields with Monterrey and giving industries in that city their first opportunity to employ the fuel on a large scale.

A 12-inch pipe line from the Jennings field in Zapata County, crossing the Rio Grande River near here, extends for 146 miles through the states of Tamaulipas and Nuevo Leon to supply the Mexican city of nearly 100,000 persons.

Millions of cubic feet of gas daily are to be used in the Mexican city. It is planned to establish other international pipe lines in the near future.

Pipe lines from Texas natural gas fields now extend as far east as Georgia, as far west as California and as far north as Kansas and Nebraska.

Cruicible Steel Co. Gets Navy Contract

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Chairman Wilkinson, of Crucible Steel Company of America, reports that his company had been awarded a contract by the United States government to make 8-inch armour piercing shells for the Navy Department. This contract, together with one awarded some time ago, assures the Harrison, N. J., plant of company of full operation for the next 18 months.

Adams Express to Buy Haggart Corp.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—At a special meeting of stockholders of Haggart Corporation called for December 31 it will be proposed to sell net assets of Haggart Corporation to Adams Express Company for such number of shares of common stock of Adams Express Company as shall be determined by directors of the two companies and exchange shall be made on an equal basis of asset values.

Ford Recalls 700 Workers at Denver

DENVER, Dec. 17.—Seven hundred men will return to work at the Denver assembly plant of the Ford Motor Company December 30. The plant was closed down in November. Later, the force will be increased to 1,000 men.

Wants Rehearing On Valuation Case

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Wabash Railway asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to reopen its valuation case for taking further testimony on the tentative valuation established by the commission as of June 30, 1919. The Wabash claims a value of $166,545,948, while the commission's valuation was $103,606,951. The Wabash declared that since close of hearings it has made an extensive investigation of its accounts under commission's methods and declared the valuation should be revised upward.

Big German Loan Reported Pending

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The floating of a German $100,000,000 loan through Dillon, Read & Co., of New York, today appeared likely as a result of yesterday's conference between President Von Hindenburg and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank.

It was believed in financial circles that President Von Hindenburg had overcome Dr. Schacht's hitherto steadfast refusal to sanction a foreign loan until the Reich had provided measures for $125,000,000 increase in taxes.

Argentine Pesos Display Weakness

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Following announcement from Buenos Aires that the government conversion office had been closed to prevent gold withdrawals for export the quotation for pesos was largely nominal both here and in Buenos Aires. The latest available figure here was .4112 for paper pesos.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Curb prices drifted over a narrow range in one of the dullest markets of the year today. Leading utilities were mostly well supported, but made little headway. Moderate selling pressure appeared here and there, however, and the general price movement was lacking in direction.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

SOUTH BEGINS TO TALK BACK ON LABOR

Trend Is Toward Longer Hours, Lower Wages in North, Southerner Says

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—The new industrial south, which has been charged with sweating labor, is beginning to talk back.

It is, of course, a matter of record that wages are lower and hours longer south of the Mason and Dixon line than in the North. Moreover, the southern states, especially South Carolina, are backward in social legislation, and their factories therefore offer difficult, if not unfair, competition to factories operating under the more enlightened social laws, protecting workers, in Massachusetts and New York.

B. B. Gossett, president and treasurer, Chadwick-Hoskins Company textile interest at Charlotte, N. C., in partial rebuttal to the critics of the South, says that of late the trend of wages has been upward in the South and downward in New England, and that the trend in the South has been toward slightly shorter working weeks, and in the North to slightly longer. These facts only confirm the statement that the North and South are engaged in a competitive struggle, and that the steady progress of working arrangements and social conditions in the North is contingent on winning over the South to American standards. Logically, if it were not for the constitutional inhibition, Massachusetts ought to have a protective tariff against South Carolina.

LABOR IN SOUTH

Mr. Gossett gives an insight into labor conditions in the South when he points out that bad as the status of the southern textile worker may be it represents an improvement over his condition on the farm.

"A vital factor in the cotton mill wage scale," Mr. Gossett said, "arises from an appreciation of the former economic status of these employes. Inasmuch as virtually all textile labor originates from the farms, any fair appraisement of the wage level in cotton mills must essentially take into account the miserably low income from which these tenant farmers are fleeing. They are overrunning the mills for the obvious reason that the change is decidedly for their economic self-interest. Wages are higher, houses are better, hours are shorter, comforts and conveniences of living more abundant and general conditions vastly better than prevail on the farms.

"This exodus from the farm to the mill, while in many respects desirable, has complicated the problems of the industry for the employes already there and those offering themselves for new employment. It has given the farmer moving to the city easier, more regular and more gainful employment. It has decreased the the chances he has been accustomed to take with weather, boll weevil and prices. It has given the farmer remaining in the fields less competition and more mouths to feed. The serious phase of this movement is that it has taken place faster than the industries have been able to assimilate the supply. For the manufacturers it has meant a heavy turnover in worker-supply and consequent loss through confusion incident to the adjustment of new employes."

The South is yet to learn the lesson of the economics of high wages, which Henry Ford and others have impressed on the great industrial managers of the North. Low wages means that the district is exporting the fruits of labor at an unsatisfactory price, and is paying for the blunder in low purchasing power, which restricts prosperity.

If organized labor is to retain its gain in the North, it must quicken its efforts to organize workers in the South.

1929 PEAK YEAR

Business in general proceeded at such a record-breaking clip during the first three-quarters of 1929 that the year as a whole, in spite of the slowing down in the final quarter, is destined to go down as a year of peak volume and maximum corporate profits. Loadings of revenue freight for the first 11 months this year were 49,488,796 cars, compared with 48,072,952 in the corresponding period of 1928. Loadings in October and November were smaller this year than last.

The third cut in the discount rate of the Bank of England since the Wall street debacle indicates the desire of the institution to favor domestic business with the tonic of cheap money. The present 5 per cent rate doubtless will be further reduced, as soon as international conditions permit. Any further reduction at New York, where the rediscount rate is now 4½ per cent, would be quickly followed by London. The flow of international funds was upset by the unwillingness on the part of England promptly to follow the New York bank in its upward revision of the rate last August. Finally, and with great reluctance, the London institution boosted its rate to 6½ per cent, in order to protect its gold hoardings, regretting the necessity of placing greater burdens on domestic business, which was in need of encouragement, rather than retardation.

The present outflow of gold from the United States is a healthy normal development, and will tend to promote world trade and credit, especially if it ultimately gets to countries that need gold, such as Germany and England, rather than to countries with a surfeit, such as France.

Increasing Firmness in Money Market Is Outlook.

IN money circles the outlook is for increasing firmness during the next few days with tightening likely to be reflected equitably in the demand money market. Money brokers reported the call market quiet yesterday, but with a strong undertone, and were of the opinion that a change to higher levels is indicated in the day-to-day rate which has ruled at 4½ per cent since November 20-21 when on both days renewals were made at 5 per cent with the rate later dropping to 4½ per cent. It is believed that the shifting of funds growing out of treasury operations, tax payments, etc., completed yesterday will be reflected in temporarily higher rates as checks involved are returned to banks for payment later in the week.

Not all the split-ups are decided upon at directors' meetings these days. On the contrary, the market itself takes care of such plans occasionally, or at least makes such plans unecessary. Pacific Coast Company common shares were sheared of more than 50 per cent of their market value yesterday as a single transaction in that stock went through at 11, a net of 12½ points from the previous level. The company, which owns and operates coal mines, timber lands, cement works and tow small railways, has not paid a dividend on its common stock since 1920 and omitted payments on its first preferred early in 1928. A small deficit was reported in 1928.

AS the strongest unit in the tobacco field, American Tobacco would be a logical leader of this group, and many market interests expect the tobaccos to become more popular, because of the improvement which should come in earnings as a result of the advance in cigaret prices made about three months ago. Earnings of American Tobacco this year will be between $12 and $13 a share, with the prospects for a substantial increase in 1930. Trade quarters believe stockholders will be getting a larger return on their investment with the expected improvement in revenues. Some buying of American has been coming from interests in the industry and is, therefore, viewed as significant.

Financial interests say that never in the history of Wall street has a bear raid been as widely advertised as the one last Thursday. It was rumored early last week that a bear group had been organized and would attack the market Thursday. The report added that the work of these bears would be aided by a pessimistic view on the market by one of the prognosticators who has been widely quoted at times recently. That everything developed along the lines rumored was quite surprising, for on most occasions the stock market does the opposite from what is generally looked for.

BROKERS report a very large increase in the demand for stock from short sellers. This increase began after the close Thursday. One large firm that is a heavy lender of stocks says the short interest is now about as large as it has been at any time since the beginning of the month. There has been a material increase in the demand for General Electric, Can, U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, Montgomery Ward, the copper and the automobile stocks. The borrowing comes largely from the same houses conspicuous on the short side of the market last November.

There has been scale buying of Julius Kayser and Gotham Silk Hosiery on several occasions recently on the theory these companies will show a good business for the final months of this year as a result of holiday demand. The use of silk hosiery has increased tremendously in recent years, and it is estimated that production this year will be double the 12,300,000 dozen pairs turned out in 1925. Continued expansion is anticipated by those who have been purchasing the hosiery stocks.

Pittsburgh Steel Gets Tax Refund

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE credit of $281,635 granted yesterday to the Pittsburgh Steel Company by the Bureau of Internal Revenue for over assessment of income and excess profit taxes in 1918 is equivalent to $1.11 a share on the 253,500 shares of common stock. While this will not be included in the income account for the present year, it will be added to the company's surplus.

The Pittsburgh Steel Company in common with other organizations in the industry, is passing through a period of recession due partly to seasonal conditions and partly to the uncertainty in the general business outlook. Production is at about 60 per cent of capacity as compared with an output at over 90 per cent of capacity during the most of the earlier months of the year. The company has one blast furnace in operation and one is idle.

Quarterly Earnings

THE reduction in operations will result in a decline in the net profit for the present quarter. In the three months ended September 30, 1929, net profit was $1,058,124 after all charges. After deducting dividends on the 7 per cent preferred stock this was equivalent to $3.45 a share on the common. This did not fall far short of covering annual dividend requirements of $4 a share on the common for a full year.

There are 105,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock outstanding on which the annual dividend requirements are $735,000. These requirements were earned almost one and a half times in the three month period.

Profit of $3.45 a share in the September quarter compares with $905,822 or $2.95 a share in the corresponding quarter a year ago. That a decline in earnings in the present quarter is largely seasonal can be seen from the fact that in the quarter ending December 31, 1928, net profit was down to $837,448 or $2.58 a share.

Outlook For Fiscal Year

THE company's fiscal year ends on June 30. In view of the fact that the September quarter was ahead of last year, net profit for the first six months of the fiscal period should compare favorably with 1928. The outlook for the next six months depends on the trend of general business conditions after January 1. While there is little reason to believe that the current depression will be lasting, the prospects are not quite as bright as they were 12 months ago.

With its small funded debt and moderate amount of preferred stock, the company is in an excellent position to withstand any temporary period of dullness such as the one now being experienced. The last annual report showed only $10,223,000 of bonds outstanding. This was against physical properties valued at $39,088,678 after depreciation. Current assets amounted to $22,095,341 against current liabilities of only $3,773,779. Surplus totaled $12,829,781.

Plant Improvements

SUBSTANTIAL expenditures have been made during recent years for improvements to plants. These have made possible the production of a wider line of products at a lower cost. A new steam plant was recently completed and a large portion of the mills has been electrified. This particular program, the completion of which required over a year, was carried out at a cost of $2,100,000. Other changes, which will have a far reaching effect on costs, have also been made. In the three years ending 1929 investments in new equipment reached a total of $5,722,263.

The benefits of improved operating facilities in conjunction with better market conditions are shown by a comparison of the net income of recent years. Net profit for the year ended June 30, 1929 was $4,535,437 or $15 a share on the common stock. This compares with $1,342,141 in the 1928 year, with $1,951,958 in the 1927 year and with $2,533,578 in the 1926 year.

I. C. C. TO HEAR LOREE ROAD EVIDENCE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Despite the objection of counsel for three trunk line railroads — New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio—the Interstate Commerce Commission today permitted the New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago Railroad Company to present evidence in support of its application for authority to construct a 284-mile line across Pennsylvania from Easton to the Pittsburgh industrial area.

These roads had filed a motion to dismiss the proceeding on the ground the proposed railroad, which is sponsored by L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, had not obtained proper authority from the state of Pennsylvania to proceed. C. V. Burnside, assistant finance director of the commission, however, ruled that the case should proceed.

AMENDS APPLICATION

Counsel for the proposed road submitted an amended application in which the two proposed branch lines, known as the Bessemer and North Sewickley branches, were eliminated. The elimination of these two branches would reduce the total cost of the operation by $17,000,000.

E. M. Basye, a civil engineer, submitted figures showing the entire cost of the road would be approximately $138,627,853, together with $16,748,400 for equipment and $22,364,120 for general expenses, or a total of $177,740,373 for the entire project.

STIFF FIGHT SEEN

The three trunk lines are preparing to wage a stiff fight against the proposed construction. Their contention is that present railroad facilities are sufficient to handle all the traffic in the territory to be covered by the road.

Loree, who will testify tomorrow, described the project as "the backbone of the premier railroad system of the United States."

Four Erie Youths Arrested Over 'Ride'

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Four Erie youths were arrested on a charge of having taken Paul O'Connell, Erie, "for a ride," beating him and robbing him. They are Mitchell Repoff, 16; James Gerino, 15; Angelo Biondi, 17, and Steve Ceko, 16. O'Connell told police the youths hurled him from their machine at Girard, Pa., after having lured him into the car in downtown Erie early in the evening.

Young People to Hold Conference

GROVE CITY, Pa., Dec. 17. — The annual Young People's Conference of the Mercer County Sabbath School Association will be held in Zion Reformed Church, Greenville, December 27. Adella Sterrett, state superintendent of young people's work, will be one of the speakers.

Teacher Given Orange Grown In Jeannette

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 17.—Edward Monstrolo, 14, a pupil of Jeannette, has presented his teacher, Miss May Ruffner, of Greensburg, with a ripe orange grown from a tree in his home in Jeannette. The orange is a perfect specimen of the California variety and measures 7¾ inches in circumference.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

Among other Christmas novelties we have the Mississippi woman who wrote eleven stanzas of verse confessing the murder of her husband.

It's a pity this sinner hasn't two lives—one to serve for the murder and another to serve for the poem.

And the public will be very lucky if this incident doesn't inspire a crime wave of poets going around killing people so their confessions will be printed.

Big Idea Editor.
Big Idea Headquarters,
Sir:—

It is none of my business, but while waiting to have my new glasses fitted yesterday, I was suddenly struck by the dea that it would be nice if there was a law to make married couples wear boxing gloves when they play bridge.

—Abercrombie Doakes.

Chicago dentist bumped into a customer who owed him $95 and before the patient could turn and run, the dentist reached into his mouth, extracted set of false teeth and broke them on the sidewalk.

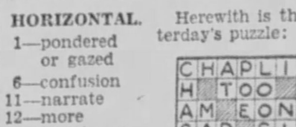
AUNT BELLA'S GIFT SHOPPE SUGGESTION



Nothing is more acceptable than jewelry—and here are two gifties that have caught Aunt Bella's eye during her daily rounds of the shoppes. One is a watch charm, to dangle on the tummy. The other is a scarf pin made to look like a fly—so realistic that people will want to swat you.

Strictly Dishonorable

Sing a song of Senators
Flustered and downcast

Hoover Administration Deceives Public on World Court Issues

The administration at Washington is deceiving the public with regard to the World Court which it is trying to get us to enter.

The real name of this institution is the Permanent Court of International Justice of the LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

That is what it is called in the documents signed at Geneva of December 9 by Mr. Hoover's representative, J. Pierrepont Moffatt, American charge d'affaires in Switzerland.

He signed in the quarters of the secretariat of the LEAGUE OF NATIONS at Geneva. He did NOT sign at The Hague, where this court sits.

The protocols taking us into the league's court, when ratified by the United States Senate, will be deposited in the archives of the LEAGUE OF NATIONS, who stood at his side.

To Drummond's congratulations were added those of Juan Antonio Buero, formerly foreign minister of Uruguay, and now head of the legal section of the LEAGUE OF NATIONS. It was in Buero's office that the signature took place.

Finally, Moffatt's hand was shaken by Sanchez Teizidor, a Spaniard in charge of the league information section and by Arthur Sweetser, an American serving under Teizidor in the league's propaganda work.

Yet the administration would have us believe it is taking us into some kind of an independent "world court" and Mr. Hoover and his message expressed the thought that "adherence to the international court is, as now constituted, not the slightest step toward entry into the League of Nations."

The truth is that there is no such thing as a "world court," except in the minds of the league propagandists, who dare not tell us that this is officially the permanent court of International Justice of the LEAGUE OF NATIONS, whose judges are elected, hired and paid by the LEAGUE OF NATIONS, which also makes and changes, at its will, the statutes of the court.

The people will hold the Senate responsible for knowing just what this court is. And at the polls, beginning with the primaries next spring and running through the November election, they will express their opinion of the senators and the party that have made themselves responsible for tricking us into AN ACKNOWLEDGED DEPARTMENT AND INSTRUMENT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Predatory Interests Buy Grundy Senate Seat

The appointment of Joseph R. Grundy as United States nator seemed to settle the question as to who—for the time ing—is going to run the United States government.

For the first time in our political history the privileged and edatory interests have openly bought a seat in the Senate for eir representative.

Joseph R. Grundy is the greatest collector of political funds record. From Pennsylvania manufacturers, intent upon a gher tariff, he gathered and delivered $1,000,000 for the elecon of Hoover in 1928, and $400,000 towards the $1,800,000 nd which put Fisher in the governor's chair in 1926.

As chief tariff Lobbyist in Washington, Grundy helped ame the Senate tariff bill, which, when passed, will add twelve ndred million dollars to profits of Pennsylvania manufacturs—all of this, of course, taken out of the pockets of the people the country. Of the sixty-five Pennsylvania industries interted in tariff, forty-two get raises.

Grundy, himself, will likewise profit. The woolen yarn dustry, in which he admits he has invested "a couple of milon dollars" is given a generaous raise of tariff protection, undy's ADD VALOREM rates running up to sixty-five per nt.

We shall now witness the spectacle of a United States tariff ing made and voted on by one of the millionaire manufacrers who will benefit from it in his personal fortune.

The Governor of Pennsylvania sends to represent his state the highest law-making body in the land, a senator offensive all but a few of his colleagues, a lobbyist denounced by a nate investigating committee within the last two weeks.

The great commonwealth of Pennsylvania will be repreted in the United States Senate by a man who has publicly ted THAT ORGANIZED WEALTH SHOULD RULE HE COUNTRY.

THAT SENATORS OF "BACKWARD STATES" OULD HOLD THEIR TONGUES WHEN PENNSYLANIA ASKS FOR TARIFF FAVORS;

THAT THE REPRESENTATIVES OF OTHER COMONWEALTHS CAN BE DIVIDED INTO "COMMON ND PREFERRED" SENATORS IN PROPORTION TO HEIR SUBMISSION TO THE PRIVILEGED INERESTS;

THAT THERE WAS NO IMPROPRIETY WHEN NATOR BINGHAM SMUGGLED C. N. EYANSON, EMOYE OF THE CONNECTICUT MANUFACTURERS' SSOCIATION, INTO THE SECRET MEEEINGS OF HE SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE;

THAT EYANSON IS "A VERY CAPABLE YOUNG AN OF THE VERY TYPE THAT SHOULD BE DEVELED TO ADVISE CONGRESS IN THE MAKING OF ARIFF BILLS IN THE FUTURE."

It is important to note that there is no record of President over, head of the Republican administration, using his great luence to stop the appointment of Grundy by Fisher.

Senator Grundy is a slap in the face to those who believe free government of the country.

They needed the slap. Perhaps they will wake up now l do something about it.

The protected and predatory interests have served formal ice on the people that they intend to run the government of United States.

Next year at the polls in November the people will have HEIR say.

Upward and Onward!

Change of Designations.

Social revolutions come so thick and fast these days that is very difficult to keep aware of progress.

Consider the cataclysmal overnight rise to dignity when ll estaters became realtors! Reflect upon the sudden ascent undertakers when they wrenched free from the shackles and oclaimed themselves morticians!

And now an isolated paragraph in a New York public print ls how an unidentified genius in the silk hosiery business, by eer determination, is engaged in revolt. He declares the terms buyer" and "salesman" are no longer truly descriptive detions. The buyer, he points out, has more important things do than buy, and selling is the least of a saleman's duties. suggests—aye, pleads—that they be changed respectively to lepartment merchandiser" and "contact man."

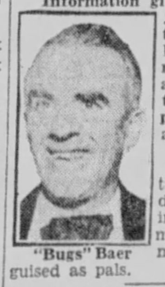
"Bugs" Baer Says:

The Grand Jury Reports

TO the honorable judge and associate playmates of the retail holiday districts:

Information given the grand jury relating to alleged violations of the national thirst act has been thoroughly passed over and fumbled.



"Bugs" Baer

The violation occurred during a dinner in 1926 at which many prominent men were disguised as pals.

Three years is a long lapse of time and evidence. Even a Chinaman won't keep your laundry that long.

The only clue presented to the grand jury was a sniff.

There are many kinds of sniffs. There is the patrician sniff with the upper lip curled like a rose petal. And there is the proletariat sniff with nostrils akimbo.

The sniffee testifies that he applied his nose to the nozzle of a mysterious bottle and inhaled an aroma concocted of the ambrosia of Valhalla, the magnolia of the south and the apple blossoms of Normandy.

He gives a beautiful description of that enchanted perfume. But the law of averages state that you cannot share a sniff.

Therefore, the grand jury was sniffless. The fisherman follows the path of the mackerel by the bubbles on the surface, the intrepid woodsman tracks the wolf by his pawprints in the snow, but no grand jury can build up a case on the plans and specifications of a sniff.

Equipped with a telescopic nose, that is both inquisitive and prehensile, he goes through life something like a vacuum carpet cleaner, breathing in the dust and the dirt of an accompaniment of his own contented buzzing.

TRAPPED AT LAST!

By Herbert Kaufman

IN 1916, Dr. Rosenau, of Harvard, at a session of the American Medical Association, in Detroit, announced that the POLYMORPHOUS STREPTOCOCCUS, theretofore regarded as a CLOWN and MIMIC among microbes, was NOT the harmless impersonator of other germs which bacteriologists GENERALLY had thought, but a sort of Dr. Jekyll-and-Mr. Hyde, constantly changing disguises and in all probability the source of many infections that were then baffling research.

Two years later, civilization was swept by a very Attila of scourges, which slew internationals by millions, and CONTINUES to collect a heavier toll of lives than Yellow Jack, bubonic or tuberculosis.

Promptly identified as a malignant form of LA GRIPPE, the utmost resources of curative and preventive medicine were concentrated upon its check.

But laboratory inability to isolate the deadly organism has largely postponed the establishment of effective controls.

IN 1923, Dr. Simon Flexner, in collaboration with the great Noguchi, prematurely stated that the mystery was in process of solution—confiding his hopes on the development of filters fine enough to sequestrate a creature too infinitesimal for THEN-existing equipment.

But for once Caesar seemed to have NODDED. Nothing further happened from that quarter—a further case of experts on the wrong scent.

Meanwhile, a young professor—in ANOTHER Rockefeller institution, the University of Chicago—Dr. Isadore S. Falk, NOW only thirty years old, obviously inspired by Rosenau's conclusions, proceeds on a different tack, turns his lens upon the protean STREPTOCOCCUS and verifies his Harvard confrere's VAGUE prognosis.

Or, translating the situation into layman English, Dr. Falk finds that the breeding ground for flu is present in everybody's membranes—always ready to cultivate a crop of wheezes, sneezes and pulmonary disorders.

THERE'S no question of his facts—Falk HAS them—in a bowl of sheep broth, where he has succeeded in propagating the virulent mites—and, by swabbing the throats of various assistants, conclusively tags the handkerchief manufacturers' and undertakers' best friend.

The rest is easy. When we KNOW what we're dealing with, it's merely a matter of time, patience and application to handle any problem.

The inoculating medium will be provided in due course—doubtless before this very winter is over.

The ancients builded better than they realized when they attributed so many magic qualities to crystal.

WE can thank the Chinese for HALF our knowledge of EVERYTHING. We owe them for printed books, cheap paper, gun powder, silk, and at least fifty per cent of the ingenuities credited to races who simply adopted their notions and patented them in history, under thieves' names.

A valuable people, the Chinese—they furnish so MANY examples for the edification of our young folk.

Studying the story of the kingdom which had the knack of laying hands on principles, and of never profiting from any opportunity—we can the easier demonstrate the difference between ORIGINATING a good idea and getting the FULL benefit of it.

The Chinaman was centuries ahead of everybody else in ascertaining the strange qualities inherent in the lens, and, TRUE to FORM, used it for a PLAY-TOY and fortune-telling gazing ball—INSTEAD of creating telescope and microscope.

It's one thing to HAVE, and another to HOLD an advantage. The thorough ALONE inherit the EARTH and overcome its devastations.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE front gill-slit, or spiracle is different in structure and position from the rest and different in a very amusing and interesting way.

It is small and round and placed just behind the eye, and although it is not used for hearing, it runs very close to the inner ear of the dogfish and then opens into his mouth.

In its position, and in the particular nerves and arteries that lie against it, it corresponds to the channel made by our outer and middle ears and eustachian tubes, and this idea of the correspondence of the two structures is confirmed by the fact that in a mammalian embryo the front gill-slit actually becomes separated from the rest and develops directly into that channel. Biologists call this paralelism homology; the two structures are "homologous."

H. G. Wells.

And in creatures of the same phylum, but of different orders or classes, we shall be constantly detecting homologies.

The fins of a dogfish are of two kinds—the unpaired fins, including the fins of his back and tail, and the hindmost of the fins on his lower surface, and the paired fins, of which there are two pairs.

The unpaired fins do not correspond in structure or position to anything that is found in a mammal, but the paired fins are homologous with our limbs; they resemble our limbs in their position and in the fact that they are supported by skeletal girdles inside the body.

Many of the differences in external appearance between a dogfish and a mammal may be directly correlated with the fact that the former lives in the sea while the latter lives on land.

The body of the dogfish is beautifully stream-lined, so that he may glide swiftly through the water. His tail is a powerful organ of propulsion. His paired fins do not project far from the trunk, for they would offer too much resistance to the water if they did so; they are used as balancing vanes, partly like the ailerons of an airplane, to keep the fish the right way up, and partly like elevating-planes to steer it upwards or downwards through the water.

A mammal, on the other hand, living in a medium with less resistance than water, has no need of accurate stream-lining, and can afford the luxury of a neck; at the same time he cannot propel himself by wagging his tail, and so his limbs must form long supporting and propulsive levers.

The difference in respiratory mechanism has a similar rationale. A dogfish breathes by gulping a current of water into his mouth and out through the gill-slits. As the water passes over his gills it yields oxygen to the blood in them and washes away the carbon dioxide.

A mammal could not do this; if he passed a continual current of air over his respiratory membranes they would dry up, and moisture plays an essential part in the exchange of gases. He breathes by drawing air into those hollow bags, his lungs, and blowing it out again.

In the dogfish there are no lungs: we do not even find a homologue here, though many other fishes have it in the form of the swimming bladder. We may note that a dogfish could not inhale and exhale water as the mammal does air, because the inertia of water is too great.

Running along the side of the dogfish's body is the lateral line. This is a sense-organ, probably recording changes in pressure; owing to its structure it would not work in air, and we do not find it in mammals.

So far as outward and visible structure is concerned, a dogfish is like a mammal, but twisted about and modified because of the necessities of an aquatic existence.

Or we may put it around the other way and say the mammal is after the dogfish patter, but adapted to the air. If we turn to internal anatomy we find that the correspondence of layout still holds.

The dogfish, like the mammal, has a skull, and a backbone made of jointed vertebrae; the former houses the brain and the latter has a canal running through it which contains and protects the spinal cord.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—There are, it is said, 16 white wives of Chinese living in the catacombs of Chinatown. Now and then one is seen late at night, a blurry figure, hastening through a twisting street. But mostly they live in utter isolation and seldom leave the quarter.

With few exceptions, they are opium addicts drifting through endless days and nights in poppy dreams. It was, I believe, the poetical Richard Le Gallienne who, upon seeing two of them peeping through shuttered windows, was reminded of "two captured and glistening tears."

Before the Chinese migrated to cities in Jersey, Chinatown had many "ladies with a yen." They are mostly recruited from adventuresome young girls who come to the section as saucer-eyed slummers and for a thrill decide to "hit the pipe."

And so the silken dens, like a spider's web, became traps of death. They return for "just another little puff," and the habit is acquired. Thus have hundreds huckstered their souls in a hell's market place. Chinese opium users always yearn for white mates.

Eventually the uptown hopheads drift to Chinatown as a final haven, for in the warrens running off the hip of Chatham Square they find the seclusion their addiction demands. They are rarely troublesome, but ask only to be left alone—"to sleep, forsooth to dream."

The physical symptoms of chronic pill puffers are generally expressed in a sickly white pallor and fever-bright eyes. After a debauch there is a burning thirst and complete lassitude, followed by a terrible twitching until another debauch.

It is axiomatic that white wives of Chinese are well treated. The husbands rarely desert. They will buy them whatever is in reach of their purses and they attend to all the cooking and household work. At all times the wives are free to leave—but they never do.

No race has the curious fascination of the Chinese for this chronicler. In boyhood I used to loiter in front of Sam Lee's laundry window back home to watch them, and in New York Chinatown is the most interesting of all slumming excursions. The imitative Japanese after a few years here become thoroughly American, but the Chinese remain inscrutable to the end. Even the American born in Occidental dress and background never shake off their ancestral traits and beliefs. Chuck Conners, who lived among them all his life, once observed: "The biggest Chinese puzzle of all is the Chink himself."

Every Chinese who came to our town was called Sam Lee, because that was the name on the flapping, scrofulous sign outside the laundry. My favorite was Kim, who seemed to work in 24-hour shifts and rarely slept. Once a month the wholesale liquor house would leave a gallon jug at the door of the laundry and the place would be locked and shuttered for two days. "Kim's high lonesome" our town called it.

There is no police record in New York of a Chinese pickpocket, and only three are listed as burglars No Chinese woman in 20 years has been arrested for shoplifting, and street soliciting among them is rare. The only Chinese vagabond in Chinatown's history was "Old Horse and Wagon," a venerable half-blind, shavepate who shuffled along sing-songing a beggar's woe to tourists.

That nightie time he come chop chop
Young man walkee no can stop
Maskee snow, maskee ice
He cally flag with chop so nice.
Topside gallow!
